GEN. WEYLER SUCCUMBS

Spanish Warrior Dead at 92

Conflict of 1898 Largely Due to His Way of Dealing With Cubans

Foe Calls for Simple Rites While Alfonso Decrees Highest Honors

MADRID, Oct. 20. (AP) — Gen. Valeriano Weyler, Spanish officer whose administration in Cuba was one of the contributing causes of the Spanish-American War, died today at 93 years of age.

Weyler was captain-general of the Spanish army, highest-ranking officer of that body and among the last of Spain's old-time militaristic figures conspicuous in her campaigns more than thirty years ago. The old warrior, who during the 1890's and the early part of the present century was one of Spain's picturesque army chiefs, succumbed to the effects of a fall from a horse and accumulated infirmities of age. He died came after he had three times this year resisted attacks of illness, each one of which his physicians thought would be the last.

FOE OF DE RIVERA

At his death Gen. Weyler took active interest in public affairs. He was one of the intensive enemies of the Primo de Rivera dictatorship and always said he would live to see the end of the De Rivera regime." De Rivera once offered Gen. Weyler 100,000 pesetas for ending the dictatorship. The former government nullified such an offer opposed by the dictator, but Gen. Weyler died without actually having his money back, although he never let up his fight for it.

Gen. Weyler, regarded by Spain as a most loyal and efficient soldier, was considered by Americans as a ruthless ruler in Cuba, who had much to do with bringing on the Spanish-American War.

POLICY IN CUBA

When Weyler was sent to Cuba to succeed Marshal Campos, whose dealings with insurrectos were regarded as too mild, he began a policy of immediate repression. One order required all inhabitants of insurrectionary provinces to concentrate in military camps, thus depriving them of their homes, normal occupations and associations. They were massed in such numbers that they could not be properly fed and starvation and Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, then consul-general of the United States at Havana, is authority for the estimate that probably 200,000 of the rural population of Cuba died of starvation or resultant disease during the concentration period.

Upon his return from the United States Gen. Weyler was received by Queen Regent Maria Christina in October, 1897, and the two years of his mercifully short reign elapsed.

Gen. Weyler was a lean, nervous man in civilian dress and a commanding officer in uniform.

CABINET TO FIND JOBS

Parley to Meet in White House

Hoover and Aides Will Work Out Program Seeking to Check Unemployment

Spending of $100,000,000 by Federal Government May Be Advocated

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—The conference of Cabinet officers named by President Hoover to consider means of easing the unemployment situation will organize tomorrow at a meeting in the White House. Secretary of Commerce Lamont will be named chairman and Edward Eyre Hunt secretary. The President will participate in the meeting and will make a preliminary statement of his views.

Secretary Lamont conferred with the President today. While he refused, in advance of tomorrow's meeting, to discuss the work of the conference, he said that all departments of the government will contribute to solution of the unemployment problem by every means within their power. He saw no direct bearing of the estimated tax reduction for the last quarter upon the labor situation of the country, because, as he put it, "this country can get all the money that may be necessary."

WILL EXTEND SCOPE

Just what plans will be discussed at tomorrow's meeting could not be definitely stated today, except that the conference will consider the scope of the problem it must deal with and determine the extent of the organization it will be necessary to build up to cope with it.

It appears to be the President's purpose to use the Cabinet conference as the framework of a larger organization which will attempt to establish co-operation and co-ordination among the States for the purpose of expanding public work wherever possible and expediting construction now in progress. To this end it is likely the Cabinet conference, through Secretary Lamont, will address the governors of the various States, placing before them what data have been compiled on the labor situation of the country and the manner in which the Federal agencies represented in the conference will co-operate to increase employment.

BOOST EXPENDITURES

In a general sense, it is understood the Cabinet conference will follow the course of the unemployment conference set up by President Harding in 1921 and will look to the States and municipalities to take direct action toward relieving unemployment in their boundaries largely by public work. There is an intimation, however, that the Federal government may further speed up its construction program and other relief work and undertake expenditures in these directions that may reach huge totals.

In some quarters today it was

MEAT PRICE LOWER THAN LAST YEAR

Packing Chief Estimates Drop in Cost at From Fifth to Third

CHICAGO, Oct. 20. (AP) — Most meats are wholesaling now from one-fifth to one-third lower than a year ago, William Whitfield Woods of Chicago, president of the Institute of Meat Packers, said at their convention today.

The wholesale prices of fresh pork cuts are slightly lower at present than last October, but the prices of smoked pork cuts are slightly higher, he said. The decline in beef prices, compared with a year ago, runs from 20 to 24 per cent, varying according to grade and weight. In general, the choicest grades have declined least.

Veal prices are from 13 to 20 per cent lower than a year ago. Wholesale price of lamb, which reached the lowest level since 1914 in September, is still very low and at present is about 30 per cent lower than October, 1929. He said the aggregate production of meat for the year would probably be slightly smaller than in 1929. He added the stocks of meat in cold storage, the 1st inst., were 26 per cent lower than on October 1, 1929.

Supreme Court Grants Review to Fishermen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—The Supreme Court granted a review today on the merit of a case brought to it on appeal by Charles F. Noack and other deep-sea fishermen contesting the right of the California Fish and Game Commission to prevent their bringing salmon into the State.

New York City's Outlay Soaring

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (AP)—A proposed city budget for 1931—larger than the combined budgets of Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Los Angeles and Cleveland this year—was submitted to the Board of Estimate today.

It calls for an expenditure of $621,108,709. This is higher by $5,239,671 than a tentative sheet submitted last week. A basic tax rate of about $2.66 for each $100 is indicated.

WINSLOW (Ariz.) Oct. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Keith Miller, Australian airwoman attempting to set a new west-east women's transcontinental flight record, remained grounded here tonight while awaiting repairs to her plane.

She hopes to take off for Albuquerque, N. M., some time tomorrow. Mrs. Miller landed here from Los Angeles last night and overran the field, smashing a wheel and bending a strut of her ship.

ROAD PARTY ON OLD ROUTES

Man-Made Highways Covering Ancient Trails Studied by Mexican Delegates

BY HARRY CARR
"Times" Staff Representative

MEXICALI, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—The Mexican highway delegates are ending a strenuous day of road inspections with a charming banquet given in old Mexicali as guests of Senor Artuto Bernal, Governor of the Northern District of Baja California.

It has been a day of riding along new pavements laid on top of old, old trails. The trail of the padres broken by Father Junipero Serra as he came into California to establish the missions; the historic trail of Juan Bautista de Anza when he led the first overland expedition to California across the desert. And these trails were in their turn laid over still older trails—trails so old that they are lost to history. Old trails made by prehistoric people as they made their great migrations south into Mexico.

When the modern road was made through the famous sand hills they found relics of old tragedies; broken ollas and broken weapons. One can well imagine that each broken olla, in that pitiless heat, meant a terrible death back in those prehistoric days.

OBJECT LESSON

The road work inspected today constituted an object lesson for the Mexican governors and engineers who are about to start the great task of building the international Pacific highway. Between San Diego and El Centro they saw cement being laid with gay disregard of the taxpayers' money on roads that will cost $35,000 a mile. They saw other sections of oiled roads which make better highways at a cost of $2800 a mile.

At El Centro the party was joined by E. Q. Sullivan of the State Highway Department. He is the engineer who made the first and only study of the engineering way to lick the strange, moving sand dunes of Southern California. These moving mountains of sand travel for miles at varying rates of speed, overwhelming and burying everything in their path. Mr. Sullivan spent years of experiment until he found the mechanical principle underlying their movement. Nothing has ever been written on it; it was a virgin territory in the field of investigation. He found that the little dunes actually crawl up over the tops of the big slow-moving ones and come down the other side to continue their journeys. He found that the way to conquer them was to cut a slot in the middle of each big dune. To move away the entire dune by trucks was useless, as it always came back in the same place. A dune nicked with a slot was destroyed by the wind.

VITAL PROBLEM

Engineers have come from all over the world—Egypt, the Sahara, the Soudan, Australia, and New Zealand to hear what was explained to the Mexican engineers yesterday and to see the road that finally licked the sand dunes. It is one of Mexico's vital road problems.

Before leaving San Diego this morning, the delegation was entertained at breakfast by the Chamber of Commerce. Luncheon was served at the Barbara Worth Hotel in El Centro and tonight they are surrounded by the interest and charm, the music and gayety that always surround Mexican banquets. Tomorrow they drive to Barstow.

CITY TRIES SPENDING SPREE

Muskegon, Mich., Chases Business Depression With Week of Liberal Purchasing by All

MUSKEGON (Mich.) October 20. (Exclusive)—Muskegon continued to count its cash tonight after a week's patriotic spending spree, instigated by "bust the buyers' strike" and aid in restoring prosperity by placing hoarded money in circulation. It will be three or four days more before final results of the campaign are known, but preliminary reports from merchants show that the increase in business over the corresponding period a week ago ranges from 36 per cent to 1000 per cent.

The Muskegon plan to restore prosperity originated with L. H. Reitdyk, local manufacturer, and was sponsored by noon-day luncheon clubs and the Retail Merchants' Association.

"Be patriotic and spend money," was Muskegon's slogan.

Merchants offered special bargains and the city's business section took on the aspects of a holiday shopping crowd, especially during the final two days of last week, when cold-weather stimulated buying. The goal set was $1,000,000 for the week.

Mr. Rietdyk in a statement today said that he was gratified with the reports and that preliminary returns indicate that the movement has been a marked success.

"It's just as patriotic to spend money today as it was to buy Liberty bonds during the war," he contends. "The money is available. Stocks are depleted, and once people start buying merchants will order goods and factories will start operations to fill the orders. This means employment and prosperity."

An advertising campaign was conducted in the newspapers previous to the opening of the week's spending drive. The advertisements appealed to men with jobs to do their part in restoring prosperity by placing money in circulation.

A Terrace-street clothing merchant in his preliminary report today, said: "I have done more business during the last week than at any time in the history of the store."

PHILADELPHIA SWIFT TO ACCEPT SCHEME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—As Philadelphia today started its "buy now" campaign as a step toward reviving business, scores of telegrams from cities throughout the Eastern United States were received by the Chamber of Commerce asking for details of the plan and many communities in the Philadelphia area announced their intention of starting similar movements.

While it is too early to predict the results of the four-week campaign started here, merchants report they are well satisfied with the first day's efforts.

FRANCE ON BEAR HUNT

Short Sellers of Stocks Sought

International Market Gang Suspected of Causing Recent Crashes

[Copyright, 1930, by Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—French police today opened an investigation of a gang of international market maurauders whom they suspect of operating factories for turning out fake financial panics here, in New York and other world capitals.

The action of the French police parallels the inquiry said to be going on in Washington, to determine how the wave of short selling which is menacing the stock exchanges can be checked, but it is much more severe and far-reaching since France possesses a specific section of the penal code applying to financial ghouls who deliberately undermine public confidence in times of depression in order to fatten their own pocketbooks.

LAW FOR CASE

It is under the terms of this law that the Minister of Finance was instructed by the Public Prosecutor to file a complaint charging illicit stock manipulations against "John Doe." This move created some stir in financial circles here, but a veritable sensation was created this morning when Prosecuting Magistrate Bracke divulged the full scope of the investigation.

It was originally supposed that the Finance Minister's initiative would be directed chiefly at the source of uneasiness manifested by the Paris Bourse last week and the dangerous rumors being circulated about a number of small banks known to be in a difficult position.

WIDE INQUIRY

According to information obtained late tonight, however, this will form only a small part of the inquiry. According to the informant, who is close to official circles, Magistrate Bracke will question not only leading brokers and bankers but even the editors of financial publications and reporters to determine whether the alarmist rumors arise spontaneously around the Bourse or whether they are the deliberate work of a syndicate with connections in other countries.

The reason for the appearance of unsubstantiated stories in various papers calculated to arouse war scares will be thoroughly gone into. The police will try to determine, for example, how on the day after the German elections the report was telephoned by the Geneva correspondent of a Central European news agency that the Italian Minister to Belgrade had been assassinated, and a similar story spread around France about Foreign Minister Briand being shot at Geneva

RUMORS TRACED

Another matter to be taken up will be the exaggerated accounts in French papers recently declaring the crash of last October was being re-enacted in the New York Stock Exchange, and the fiery editorials printed by certain journals about French investors who had lost their savings playing the American market.

While the investigators have not announced their exact line of inquiry it is understood that they will pay a great deal of attention to the short selling in America as throwing possible light upon similar manipulations in other countries to determine whether it was part of a general organized campaign.

Kingsford-Smith Nearing His Goal

GLONCURRY (Queensland, Australia) Oct. 20. (AP)—Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, speeding on a 2200-mile transcontinental flight to meet his fiancee, Miss Mary Powell, at Sydney, arrived here today with nearly half the distance behind him.

Flying over the wastes and deserts of Northern Australia from Port Darwin, where he had completed his record-breaking England-Australia fight, the empire's hero of the air covered nearly 900 miles. He retired for the night, eager to push on.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Oct. 20. [To the Editor of The Times:] Every man has his own way of telling how bad business is; the head waiter at the Del Monte Hotel was telling me of a banquet held there the night before by a well-known organization and he lamented, "It wasn't nothing like the years before. Why, we cleaned up after 'em in less than an hour this morning." That means times are so hard they are carrying their empty bottles home with 'em but there was a real barometer of business.

Some king is being crowned in Africa and every other king sent sympathy, and even presidents wired him that "being the head man nowadays is overrated."

British Put Ban on Immigration

England Declares Arabs in Danger of Increased Unemployment

LONDON, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—Great Britain outlined its future policy as a mandatory power in Palestine tonight, and no sooner had the document been published than Jewish disappointment and disagreement found expression through the resignation of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Zionist world organization and the Jewish agency for Palestine.

The two sides of the controversy differ categorically and seem irreconcilable. The British statements are laid down as final and conclusive with the report on Palestine immigration, land settlement and developments tendered by Sir John Hope Simpson, government expert. The Jews counter that the document violates all previous agreements and promises of administration of the mandate and they assert that the Zionist movement will await more favorable times for carrying on the work of establishing a national home for the people of Israel. This may be directed from the United States, it is indicated.

MAIN DIFFERENCE

The chief difference is the matter of immigration. As expressed in the government's statement tonight it is unable, according to the terms of the mandate, to allow further immigration of Jews to Palestine because of the danger of overabsorption of land and unemployment of the Arabs, whose interests it must guard.

Dr. Weizmann in his letter of resignation charges the British proposals are a violation of all previous principles.

Great Britain generally lays the whole of the trouble to the refusal of the two races to co-operate. It emphasizes its duty, as construed by the candate, to both peoples and its resistance to any measures designed to impose partisanship.

The chief problem is security of constitutional, economic and social development, the report says.

GOVERNMENT'S VIEWS

"It must be realized that it is useless for Jewish leaders to press the government to conform to their

AUTUMN PUT TO FLIGHT

Snow Drifting in Dozen States

Premature Cold Descends on Nation From Rockies to New England

Low Temperatures Recorded on Wide Front With No Let Up Forecast

By the Associated Press

As if in compensation for the excessive heat of last July and August, winter has whistled in with premature enthusiasm from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic.

Snow is drifting in a dozen States from Wyoming to New England, and Erie, Pa. was digging out from a blizzard which struck with mid-winter intensity. Deep drifts buried crops that still remained in the fields of Western New York and Northern Pennsylvania, and ships on Lake Erie fought stiff gales.

The immediate forecast was for continued cold over the eastern three-quarters of the country and snow over a widespread area from Northern New Mexico, across the Nebraska prairies to the Great Lakes and New England. The temperature in New York City tobogganed to 35.5 deg., a new all-time low for October 20.

Low temperatures were recorded on a wide front. Havre, Mont., was the coldest spot in the country with a temperature of 12 deg.

DECEMBER PICTURE PAINTED ON DIXIE BORDER

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 20. (AP)—A December picture was painted across the Rocky Mountain region and the Middle West to the northern fringes of Dixie today.

Whirling snow, biting winds and winter-like temperatures formed the setting at a time of year when the warming days of Indian summer would be more in keeping with the calendar.

Snow whitened the countryside over wide stretches of the mountains, through the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas and Missouri tonight.

The fingers of frost reached down as far as Arkansas, Kentucky and Tennessee.

MAIL SERVICE HELD UP

A snowstorm broke over Kansas City late today whitening roof tops and lawns after flurries yesterday that arrived the earliest since the fall of 1908. Snow also was reported at Topeka, Kan.

Air-mail service over the northern route through Cheyenne, Wyo., was held up by mountain storms. The snow moved into Colorado tonight and the forecast was for a light fall down into Southern New Mexico.

Sub-zero weather was reported in the prairie country of Southern Canada and farmers were faced with the problem of salvaging wheat left unthreshed in the fields.

At Havre, Mont., the mercury dipped to 12 deg. above zero this morning. Freezing weather was general southward to a line extending through Central Kansas and east into Kentucky.

CHARITY CALLS MADE

Charitable organizations reported heavy calls upon their resources from persons driven to shelter by the cold and the families of the unemployed feeling the first pinch of winter.

Ducks were on the wing from their northern feeding places as ice formed on lakes—a sign that real winter is not far off.

A continuation of the cold is forecast for tomorrow.

SCORES SAVED FROM SEA

Forty-four Rescued From Storm-Swept Atlantic in Series of Heroic Actions

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—As the mercury dropped to 35 degrees today to mark the coldest October New York has felt in fifty-four years, there came thrilling details of another spectacular drama on the storm-swept Atlantic in which thirty-four more fishermen were rescued from icy drownings. The total thus saved since the wintry wave struck Saturday was brought to forty-four.

Battling his way back through the squall-torn sea with a party of fishermen early Sunday night, Capt. Frank Schwartzman, modest master of the fishing craft Colonia, reported that he came upon the Gage, a forty-foot motor boat like his own, foundering between the whistling buoy and Coney Island. The Gage's captain, as yet unidentified, was lighting distress flares, and seventy-eight amateur fishermen clung to the superstructure of his wave-swept deck.

SAVED THIRTY-FOUR

Schwartzman took off thirty-four men, as many as he could hope to land, as a third ship approached to aid the rescue. The Colonia then drew away and finally landed its human cargo safely.

The Colonia's master told his story only in explanation of anxious inquiry which he made at the barge office as to the fate of the Gage and those he left aboard it in the pounding sea. The Coast Guard, however, had no report of it.

While the modesty of the Coast Guard, all bound up in Washington red tape, constrained its report of another rescue of six men and a buoy from their sinking fishing-boat, the Squawman, a mile off Sandy Hook, to a cut-and-dried statement of fact, the happy survivors drew a thrilling verbal picture of the daring of a brawny surfman aboard the rescue ship, the picket boat 2310.

SURFMAN HEROIC

Answering distress flares, the picket boat came upon the foundering launch, with foam racing across its sinking deck and the men and boy huddled on the cabin roof.

MEXICO OFFERS TO AID RED HUNT

Ortiz Rubio Will Co-operate With This Country

President Says Communism Highly Alarming

Measures to Aid Nation's Business Discussed

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20. (AP)—President Ortiz Rubio tonight personally told the press that the Mexican government through diplomatic channels has assured the government of the United States that Mexican police are ready to co-operate with American police in investigating Communist activity.

He added that the Mexican Foreign Office recently had forwarded copies of the important confiscated Communist documents to Ambassador Telles at Washington to be turned over to American authorities there.

The papers sent to Washington, the Mexican President said, were those confiscated by Mexican police when Marks Lulinsky, agent of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, was detained here late in July and his affairs were investigated. Police never revealed contents of his papers.

Lulinsky after ten days surveillance here was escorted to the border by government agents and released there. His papers are being sent to Washington, Senor Ortiz Rubio said, at the request of American police.

The President held Communism to be a problem of serious import to the entire world.

"Communism," he said, "is a very human aspiration of people to better themselves, but it is the wrong means to this end. It is a very serious problem and it has us all alarmed."

Besides discussing Communism he replied to other queries. He said the economic crisis here is a reflection of a general world situation and a noteworthy improvement can hardly be expected until improvement is shown elsewhere, since the situation here depends necessarily upon the situation abroad.

Among plans under consideration to better the situation is one to boost the tariff on many imported products, not, he said, as a hostile move to foreign industry, but as a means of promoting Mexican production. Restriction of importation of luxuries also is being studied, the entire idea being to improve the Mexican trade balance, at the same time minimizing certain taxation burdens now imposed on industry and agriculture.

He said the Montes De Oca-Lamont debt funding agreement will be submitted to the Mexican Congress in a few days, and probably will be approved by that body, although likely to receive considerable inspection and to be the subject of lengthy debate before any action is taken.

The merchants said members of the tribe claimed to have inhabited the region for at least four centuries remaining entirely apart from the outside world.

HYDE FAVORS AID

The Federal government can readily contribute to solution of some aspects of the unemployment problem through road funds and in this connection it is understood that Secretary of Agriculture Hyde will ask that Federal highway funds be increased. He also plans to recommend that the $125,000,000 appropriated for 1932 be made available to the States. This sum must be matched by the respective States.

The Postoffice Department has an extensive building program in progress which will aid employment in cities and towns throughout the country and a future program of replacements involving heavy expenditures.

Future British Policy Hit by Zionists Leader

Ban on Immigration Will Be Put in Effect

policy in regard to immigration and land to the more uncompromising sections of Zionist opinion," says the report. "On the other hand, it is equally useless for Arab leaders to maintain their demands for a form of constitution which would render it impossible to carry out the double undertaking for the two peoples."

Concluding that its obligations are bilateral and that they are "in no the Wailing Wall, the government outlines the provisions of three phases of the development of the mandate.

Following the spanking given at Geneva for allowing the riots at the wailing wall, the government declares "measures have been taken to deal with any future emergencies." It declares it has stationed in Palestine two battalions of infantry, two squadrons of aircraft and four sections of armored cars.

OLD OFFER REVIVED

The constitutional development includes the immediate creation of a legislative council along the lines outlined in 1922, which was turned down by the Arabs and subsequently withdrawn.

Then it turns to the thorny question of economic and social development.

The policy there is concerned with land, immigration and unemployment.

"It now can be definitely stated that at the present time and with the methods of Arab cultivation, there remains no margin of land available for agricultural settlement of new immigrants with the exception of such undeveloped land as the various Jewish agencies hold in reserve," the proposal reads.

FARM PROBLEM

The government admits that Palestine Jewish colonization associations brought profit to the Arabs but this work was done before the Jewish agency was recognized under the mandate and came into existence. The British add that the arguments that Jewish immigrants must be cared for does not conform with Article VI of the mandate which states that the administration must insure, while facilitating the influx of Jews, that "the rights and position of other sections of the population are not prejudiced."

With regard to agricultural development the government declares: "The result of the recent investigation has satisfied that in order to obtain these objects more methodical agricultural development must be called for with the object of insuring better use of the land. This result will not be obtained except by years of work."

It adds that the mandate should be self-supporting and the cost of maintaining troops, necessitated by the riots of last year, has reduced the funds available for irrigation and other developments.

BRITISH POLICY SCORED BY JEWISH CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—A resolution asserting the policy of Great Britain toward Palestine "constitutes a repudiation of the solemn pledge given by the British government to the Jewish people," was adopted today by the American Jewish Congress.

TWO KILLED IN BLAST ON OIL BARGE

Four Others Injured and Two Tugs Destroyed in Hudson River Mishap

TROY (N. Y.) Oct. 20. (AP)—A gasoline explosion aboard an oil barge in the Hudson River today resulted in the death of two men and injury to four others. The barge and two tugboats were destroyed in the fire which followed.

The blast was felt throughout Troy and Watervliet.

The barge, owned by the Oil Transfer Company of New York City, was tied at the barge canal terminal pier. The tugs burned were the Dynamic, owned by the Schoonmaker-Connors Transportation Company, and the Craig, owned by the Marine Transportation Company.

Fred Des Noyers, who quit his job as a deckhand on the Craig Saturday and went back today to get his belongings, was burned to death. Chris Mattison, Norwegian cook on the Craig, was blown into the river and drowned.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (AP)—Records accounted for only $144,968 of more than $5,000,000 invested stock of the Consolidated Chromium Corporation, an enterprise sponsored by Charles V. Bob, missing stock promoter, it was discovered today by investigators of the State Bureau of Securities.

Watson Washburn, assistant Attorney-General in charge of the bureau, said the $5,000,000 was turned over to Consolidated Chromium by Metal Mining Founders' Shares, Inc., another Bob project. A search to trace disposition of the balance of that sum has begun.

MILITARY LEADER ANSWERS CALL

GEN. WEYLER DIES IN SPAIN

was made chief of staff of the Spanish army and elevated to the nobility, taking the hereditary title of Duke of Rubi. He was among the last of the old-time Spanish military figures who made their names known around the world.

During 1921, Spain undertook an intensive military campaign against the restive tribesmen of Spanish Morocco, who had become too well organized and too powerful for the regular Spanish garrison. Although then more than 80 years of age, Gen. Weyler took an active part in an advisory capacity in connection with the Spanish operations, and advocated a policy very similar to the one he had employed in Cuba years before.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

The Cabinet, however, favored civil measures rather than repressive military government, which caused constant friction between Gen. Weyler and the government. This came to a head early in 1922, and the chief of staff submitted his resignation, which was accepted immediately by the King.

Weyler made, so far as known, just one defense of his severe course in Cuba. This was in Madrid when he faced questioners. He declared that had he been given six months more he would have stopped the rebellion against Spain in Cuba.

"I have been accused of cruelty," he said, "but I am neither cruel nor inhuman; true, I had many people shot, but I previously asked for their submission. All who submitted were pardoned, but I was inflexible with traitors. My policy was inspired by love of Spain."

PEASANT HIS BRIDE

Weyler married Teresa Santa Ana, a peasant girl.

The veteran's two sons, Fernando and Valeriano, were at his bedside when he died.

Tonight Gen. Weyler lay in an improvised chapel in the modest Madrid home where he died, surrounded by his children, Fernando, Valeriano, Antonio, and Maria; his aides, Commandante Francisco de Los Rios, Lieut.-Col. Jose Sicardo Jiminez and others.

Shortly before his death, the old warrior added a codicil to his will ordering that he be buried without state honors and with the most moderate funeral possible.

"In my time I have seen much of the honors of the world," he dictated, "and I know they are worth nothing."

KING'S ORDERS

Before the will was revealed officials had planned for a state funeral with the highest military honors. King Alfonso so ordered from Zamora, where he is visiting.

Tonight, however, the family appears determined to carry out Gen. Weyler's last wishes as far as possible. Unless the relatives yield it is believed the captain-general will be buried without pomp or ceremony tomorrow afternoon in the family plot at San Lorenzo Cemetery, where lies his wife and a daughter.

The Weyler fortune is estimated at 2,000,000 pesetas, which is about $200,000 at present exchange rates. He also left to each of his three sons a fine house and an equity in a large estate on the Island of Majorca, in the Balearics.

Lieut.-Gen. Ricardo Buergete Lana succeeds Weyler as first captain-general of the country. He is an infantryman.

CUBA RECEIVES NEWS WITH MIXED FEELINGS

HAVANA, Oct. 20. (AP)—It was with mixed feelings that Cuba learned today of the death of Capt.-Gen. Don Valeriano Weyler, famous fighting Spaniard, hatred for whom burned deep in the heart of every Cuban in the days of 1897 when he was Governor-General of this island.

Associated Press dispatches telling of Weyler's death were read to President Machado, and it was indicated the Executive might send an official message of condolence to Spain, showing Cuba would not be vindictive toward him in death.

The Spanish Embassy also indicated there will be an expression of sympathy from the Gallego and Asturiano clubs and Spanish colony of Cuba.

Weyler's name in Cuba became hated in that hectic era preceding this nation's birth as a republic. His famous "concentration order," asserted to have resulted in the deaths of thousands of Cubans from hunger and starvation, made him the most feared and hated man of his time in Cuba.

It was a famous saying here that Cuba, after the war was over, "made peace with Spain, but never with Weyler."

BERNT BALCHEN SECRETLY WED

Byrd's South Pole Pilot Takes Norwegian Bride

Plane Tester Flees From Job When News Leaks Out

Young Flyer Has Brilliant Record in Air Work

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS (N. J.) Oct. 20. (AP)—Bernt Balchen, blond viking of the air, who accompanied Rear-Admiral Byrd on his Atlantic flight and his South Pole expeditions, has married his northland sweetheart.

At a quiet ceremony Saturday he married Miss Emmy Soerlie of Oslo, Norway, to whom he had been engaged for four years and who came to this country after Balchen returned last year from Antarctica. The marriage took place at a little church in Coytesville, N. J., with Peter J. Siccardi, chief of Bergen county traffic police, and Mrs. Siccardi as attendants.

NEWS LEAKS OUT

Balchen was back at work today at his job as test pilot for the Fokker Aircraft Corporation, turning airplanes inside out in the air to find out how good they are. But when news of his marriage leaked out he pulled off his flying suit and fled to seclusion after merely confirming the fact he is married.

It had been his plan to keep the wedding a secret until he had finished some work and to have it announced after he and his bride had left on their honeymoon. But when the secret was discovered Balchen went to his apartment near the field here, where he installed the pretty young Mrs. Balchen two days ago, and it was indicated the wedding trip will begin at once in an effort to escape publicity.

AIR CAREER BRILLIANT

Balchen, who will be 31 years of age Thursday, began his flying career as a lieutenant in the Norwegian navy. He first came into wide notice in 1925 when he flew over the Arctic wastes in search of the missing expedition headed by the late Roald Amundsen. The following year he was a member of the Amundsen North Pole expedition in the dirigible Norge, being stationed at Spitzbergen.

There he met Admiral (then Commander) Byrd who was preparing for his hop to the North Pole in the plane Josephine Ford. Byrd was having considerable trouble getting skils on his plane that would slide properly over the snow and Balchen, versed in the ways of the north, was of great assistance to him. After the polar flight Byrd brought Balchen back to the United States with him, added him to the crew of his trans-Atlantic America, and later took him to the Antarctic where Balchen flew Byrd over the South Pole.

Another exploit of the modest young Norseman was his flight to Greenly Island when the German-Irish trans-Atlantic plane Bremen cracked up there. Floyd Bennett, another Byrd protege who accompanied him, fell ill on the way and died, but Balchen carried on and brought the stranded flyers out to civilization.

SCORES SAVED FROM OCEAN

One man seized a life line tossed to him and was dragged aboard the Coast Guard vessel. Then with its searchlights playing upon the launch the 2310 began cautiously to maneuver its way closer, and one of its surfmen took up a perilous position in the bow.

A gigantic wave swept the light overboard, however, and in the pitch blackness the surfman shouted:

"Jump! I'll get you."

One by one the boy and five remaining men jumped and the powerful surfman of the coast guardsmen caught them up like so many footballs and swung them around safely to the deck of the picket boat. The Coast Guard report said: "Surfman Fulcher is a strong and efficient man."

OTHERS RESCUED

Three other men, reported drowned in Long Island Sound Sunday when a squall upset their little fishing-boat a mile off Fairfield Beach, were found safe today in the Penfield Reef lighthouse. They were George Schmidt, 30 years of age, of Yonkers; Harold Eiffer, 17, and Walter Reilly, 30, of the Bronx. W. A. Shackley, the lighthouse keeper, rescued them as they clung to their overturned rowboat.

RAIN HINDERING BRAZIL FIGHTING

Military Operations Slow Up in Main Battle Sector

Conditions Handicap Both Air and Land Forces

Revolt Developments Now Center in Four Areas

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 20. (AP)—Dispatches passing through here from the Brazilian war areas today indicated the coming of the spring rainy season delayed large military operations over the week-end in the main battle sector, that of Sao Paulo-Parana.

Airplanes found taking off and landing difficult, while ground troops found the going heavy and apparently rested on the battle lines established last week. One advice from rebel sources was that their "advance" on this front is continuing, but it was not specific.

The fighting brought about by the revolutionary movement, which began the 3rd inst. as a result of dissatisfaction in the southern states over the national elections held last spring, is developing principally in four areas.

These are in Sao Paulo-Parana, where rebel armies are pushing over a 200-mile front to gain the rich metropolis of Sao Paulo; in Minas Geraes, a large state northwest of the Federal district which supplies much of Rio de Janeiro's food; in the far northeast, where the revolutionary army is marching south with the hope of capturing Bahia, and ultimately driving on to the Federal capital, and in the vicinity of Florianopolis, the island capital of Santa Catharina, which is the only region now held by the Federals south of Sao Paulo.

RATE-CUT URGED FOR HOSPITALS

Moderate Pay Service Need, Says Rosenwald

Middle Class Shuns Charity Ward, He States

Doctors Chief Opponents of Reasonable Prices

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 20. (AP)—Julius Rosenwald, Chicago philanthropist, tonight urged the establishment of more moderate-pay clinics and hospitals to provide efficient service at fees within reach of the average man. He addressed members of the American Hospital Association, now in convention.

Pointing out that with more than $3,000,000,000 invested in American hospitals the institutions have entered the class of "big business," Mr. Rosenwald told the success of hospitals running on a schedule of charges and professional fees within reach of persons of limited salary.

EXAMPLE CITED

As an example he cited the moderate-priced pay clinics of the University of Chicago in connection with its teaching hospital. During the year 1929-30 the hospital ran 82 per cent full and the pay clinics increased from a trifle more than 100 patients a day during its opening year, three years ago, to almost 300 a day at present, he said.

"The receipts from pay patients for all the services of the hospital and clinics amounted last year to more than $500,000," continued Mr. Rosenwald. "If this service had been given on a charity basis it would have required the income of a $10,000,000 endowment. Therefore it seems to me that universities and hospitals have no right to attempt to raise huge endowments for service which can—and should—be paid for by the recipients."

PROFESSIONAL FOES

"There is still serious opposition to organized self-supporting services from certain elements of the medical profession who seem to fear competition," he said, "they overlook the fact that the best possible asset to the profession is the realization by great numbers of people of the benefits of medical care—that as more and more people get into the habit of using medical service there will be increased opportunities for all physicians."

Mr. Rosenwald concluded with the contention that the self-respecting American does not want charity, but "expects what he buys, as well as any services he receives, shall be furnished as efficiently as possible and at such prices that he may be able to pay for what he gets."

Therefore, he said, hospitals and clinics should decrease their free and greatly enlarge their pay work, thus adding substantially to their current incomes and offering services "more in keeping with American ideals and much more acceptable to the majority of American citizens."

SERVICE DESCRIBED

Dr. Justin F. Gimball, vice-president of Baylor University, described a risk insurance hospital scheme that is worked in Dallas, under which Dallas teachers and group employees pay from 50 cents to $1 a month, which entitles them to hospitalization of twenty-one days a year.

Speaking of the cost of hospital treatment, Dr. Willard G. Stoner, director of medicine in St. Luke's Hospital, Cleveland, O., said that the annual medical bills of the United States amount to $2,110,000,000, of which the physician receives $450,000,000 and the hospital $500,000,000.

GREAT REVOLT PLOT EXPOSED

Schemes in Portugal and Spain Disclosed

Double Revolt Scheduled to Occur the 6th Inst.

Dissension of Conspirators Ruined Program

LONDON, Oct. 20. (AP)—A European resident in Portugal today brought to London details of a sensational, but abortive, plot to overthrow the Portuguese dictatorship and the Spanish monarchy in a giant all-Iberian coup early in October.

The informant, who has had exceptional opportunity to observe the facts, said that although the Portuguese government took extreme measures to counter the plot, and Lisbon became an armed camp, nothing of the situation was allowed to appear in the press or to be telegraphed abroad.

It is stated that while the plot was not carried out as planned, Portugal is seething politically and sooner or later the nation will be confronted with serious developments. The informant says also that the dictatorship of President-General Carmona at the moment appears to be in a very difficult position.

The plot did not materialize, it is stated, because of a quarrel among the plotters themselves as to whether Lisbon was to be turned over for three days to mob rule under which heads of the dictatorship would be dealt with summarily. Less radical plotters declined to agree to this and the coup did not materialize.

The plot was expected to be carried out about the 6th inst., and to be made in conjunction with a republican uprising in Spain. Republican agitation in various Spanish cities did actually reach a high point about that time, but did not attain the proportions necessary to overthrow the monarchy.

On the 6th inst., government troops occupied all the key positions in Lisbon, and the ministries and other public buildings were picketed. Heavy artillery was taken into the capital, the casino was closed and all roads were cleared of traffic to permit passage of artillery.

All motorists were searched for arms and a number of suspects were arrested. A censorship was clamped on and nothing was allowed to leak out regarding the projected coup.

The informant declared that despite appearances of outward tranquillity the dictatorship is faced with great difficulties. Trade is bad and there are no end of bankruptcies. Even some of the larger concerns are going out of business.

There is unemployment in all branches of trade and industry, and the informant said he is convinced the nation will be faced with a very serious situation in the near future.

DRY-ACT REVIEW AGAIN REFUSED

Supreme Court Declines to Reconsider Legality

Eight Prohibition Cases in Washington Tribunal

Jurists, in All but One, Reject Rehearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—Once more the Supreme Court has declined to reconsider its decision upholding the constitutionality of the Volstead Act.

The question bobbed up again today in an attack on the validity of the enforcement act, brought to the court by A. Stanley Copeland of Buffalo. The court, for a second time, refused to review his case.

In all, eight cases involving national prohibition came up at today's session. Reviews were denied in seven of them and in the eighth a limited review was granted.

ISSUE INVOLVED

This involves a controversy presented by V. Loewers Gambrinus Brewing Company of New York City, which contended the government had refused to make proper allowances in fixing its taxes for 1918 and 1919 for depreciation in the value of its property caused by national prohibition.

The court, through Chief Justice Hughes, announced it will confine its action to passing on whether the company is entitled to any deduction for obsolescence of its tangible property and that the case will be taken up when another now pending, presenting substantially the same issue, is reached for oral argument.

PLEAS REJECTED

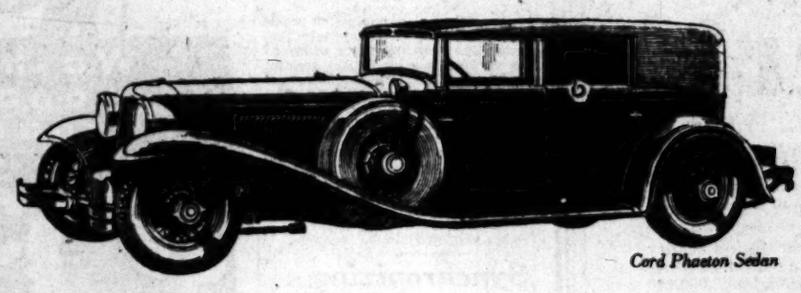
The court refused to review the convictions of Edward Blanchard at Dallas, Tex.; of J. S. Czitko Cvitkovich and others at Seattle, Wash.; of Edwin C. Kudy of Milwaukee, Wis., and Byron Langtry, formerly of St. Joseph county, Michigan; of Samuel and Louis Malinow at Baltimore, Md.; of John R. Smyth, at Floras Lake, Or., and of Paul Corbis and Florindo Luccioni at Cleveland, O.

Several of these petitioners contend their convictions were illegal on the ground that evidence presented against them had been obtained by unlawful search and seizure, and others attacked the indictments on which they had been tried.

Coronado Ferry Ruling Approved

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20. (AP)—The State Supreme Court today upheld the State Railroad Commission in its order granting the Automobile Ferry Company of Coronado the right to operate another ferry service between San Diego and Coronado over San Diego Bay.

The San Diego and Coronado Ferry Company, a competitor, had filed with the commission a petition asking for a review and an annulment of the order. The rehearing was denied and the San Diego and Coronado company appealed to the Supreme Court. Today's action was on the appeal.



Cord Phaeton Sedan

CORD
FRONT DRIVE

Some of the advantages of the Cord, which we claim actual driving convincingly demonstrates, are: It is the easiest car to handle because it steers easier and turns shorter. It is without equal in riding comfort due to the high ratio of sprung to unsprung weight. The absence of any tendency to tip or lean on turns is very noticeable. The inherent qualities of its design enable it to travel in a straight line better than other cars. There is no inclination to side sway on cobble stones and chuck holes. Its scientific seating comfort is unobtainable in any other car. And, you sense when driving it, a security found only in the Cord.

Just as we predicted five years ago that Straight Eights would sweep the market, which prediction has come true, we now predict that within five years Front Drive will be generally adopted by the industry.

ROYAL WEDDING GUESTS INVITED

Hundred-Year-Old Duke of Italy Signs Bids

King Boris and Giovanna to Be Married Saturday

Simple Ceremony Indicated by Dress Instructions

PISA (Italy) Oct. 20. (AP)—Invitations to the wedding of King Boris III of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna of Italy Saturday have gone out from the royal villa at San Rossore.

They are signed by the Duke Borea Dolmo, prefect of the palace and grand master of ceremonies to King Victor Emanuel. The Duke recently celebrated his hundredth birthday. He has been master of ceremonies since 1864 and has ordained the ceremonies for several score royal weddings.

SIMPLE CEREMONY

Instructions sent with the invitations indicate the wedding will be simple, conforming with Franciscan austerity. The women are required to wear gowns with high necks and long sleeves, with white veils. The wearing of jewelry is forbidden. The men will wear full dress, with their Italian or Bulgarian decorations. Officers will be in full dress uniforms.

The act which will give civil effect to the religious ceremony will be read by Father Risso, who will unite the couple. The marriage agreement will be signed by the couple and four witnesses, together with Premier Mussolini and President of the Senate Federzoni, at the Villa Costanzi, Assisi.

TRIP PLANNED

One copy will be kept by the state, one for court archives and a third for Bulgaria. The entire ceremony, as well as the low mass and procession, probably will take from about 10:30 a.m. until noon, when a wedding breakfast is scheduled.

It was stated here today the Italian royal family will accompany the newlyweds on a trip to Bulgaria aboard the Bulgarian ship Ferdinando, arriving at Varna November 1.

A large number of girls are working in turn on Giovanna's trousseau, which was ordered by Queen Helena. The garments are entirely handmade, with flowers worked in in red and old gold and a wealth of rich old Italian lace. Giovanna's name in Bulgarian, "Janna," is the marker on the garments.

ENVOYS OMITTED IN INVITATION LISTS

ROME, Oct. 20. (AP)—Invitations to the marriage of Princess Giovanna and King Boris of Bulgaria have not included the American Ambassador or the diplomats of other nations.

The explanation is the royal family's wish for a ceremony of the most private nature and also the difficulty of finding lodgings for the envoys in Assisi. The embassies have received a simple notice of the engagement and forthcoming wedding.

EVERYBODY BUY! APPEAL MADE

Hoover Gets Plan of Stores' Head for Purchasing of "$100 Goods "On Time"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP) A plan for using consumer credit under which each family in the nation would buy $100 worth of goods on an extended payment plan was proposed to President Hoover today by Julian Goldman of New York, head of a chain of stores.

Goldman told the President if every family would use its credit to the extent of $100 it would mean expenditure of $3,000,000,000, using up the surplus manufactures and providing new employment in industry.

PLEA MADE FOR RADIO EDUCATION

Congress Asked to Place Some Air Channels Aside for Use of Schools

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—The National Education Association today sought Congressional consideration of its proposal that a portion of all available radio channels be set aside for education.

The association wants applied to the air the same principle which activated the government in apportioning a fraction of the public domain for the encouragement of schools. Its president, Willis A. Sutton, in a letter addressed to the chairmen of the Senate and House Education Committees, urged legislation to preserve 15 per cent of all broadcasting channels for scholastic purposes.

He told the two, Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island and Representative Reed of New York, the association has joined with schools now operating radio stations in indorsing a resolution for such a reservation.

SNOWDEN HITS AT PROTECTION

British Chancellor Assails Tariff System in Talk

Evils and Danger in Change of Policy Set Forth

France Target for Fling in Connection With Debts

MANCHESTER (Eng.) Oct. 20. (AP) A vigorous attack on tariff protection was made here tonight by Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and traditional free trader, in what is generally regarded as an important political speech.

"No protection" was the keynote of the speech.

"Protection will lead us into an interminable industrial strife and chaos," he said.

"An unfounded rumor has appeared in the press that the government is considering an all-around 10 per cent import duty for revenue purposes. No government in which I am in charge of the national finances ever will give serious consideration to a proposal like that.

OTHERS SUFFERING, TOO

"If we alone were suffering, and all protectionist countries were prosperous, there would be a prima facie case for inquiring whether it is our fiscal system which is responsible for our depression.

"Introduction of a tariff system into this country will strike at the purity of the political life of this nation. Parliament will become a sink of corruption. Members of Parliament will go there not to represent national interests but pledged to support the selfish interests of particular industries.

"Once begin a policy of protection and you are on a slippery slope that leads to a bottomless pit."

FOOD TAX VIEW

Mr. Snowden declared imperial preference, vigorously debated in England since the opening of the imperial conference, can be carried out only with a tax on food.

Commenting on war debts and tariff protection, the Chancellor made a keen thrust at France, saying:

"France always is mentioned as an example of protection, but our position might have been better today if we had repudiated four-fifths of our debts."

"SUBJECTS" NOT WILD OVER OTTO

Hungarian Nobles Chary of Swearing Allegiance to Young Pretender

BUDAPEST, Oct. 20. (AP)—Information received from Belgium where Otto, pretender to the Hungarian throne, is in school, says he is not prepared to forego his kingly prerogatives despite the lukewarm temper of his followers and on his eighteenth birthday, November 20, will bestow the orders of the Golden Fleece upon Count John Zichy, Count Anton Sigray and Count Ivan Csekonics. The Golden Fleece is essentially a Hapsburg order.

The Hungarian nobility, it would seem from answers to former Empress Zita's circular letter addressed to all Hapsburg archdukes residing in Holland and Hungary, are unwilling to follow "King" Otto through thick and thin.

Zita's letter charged the archdukes to renew their oath of allegiance to Otto upon attainment of his eighteenth birthday. Archdukes Frederick and Josef replied politely the Hungarian constitution prevented them facilitating the Hapsburg restoration. The Polish archdukes returned similar answers.

Synchronizing of Radio Held Achieved Now

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—The National Broadcasting Company today advised the Federal Radio Commission that experiments it had conducted during the past year had definitely demonstrated it now is possible to operate without distortion two or more stations on the same radio frequency through a system of synchronization.

M. H. Aylesworth, president of the company, said in a letter he personally presented to the commission that "synchronization in the field of radio broadcasting is now out of the laboratory."

He added there are all kinds of possibilities in synchronization and the present system will not affect existing radio sets and equipment. The new system, he said, will bring better programs on more channels than at present.

CRISIS AVERTED IN DRY INQUIRY

Hoover Law Commission to Make Immediate Study

Break-Up Prevented by Move to Speed Report

Prohibition Opinion Due Early in December

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—The recent decision of the Hoover law-enforcement commission to make the report on prohibition its immediate business may have averted a break-up within the commission membership.

Judge Kenyon of Iowa led a movement to force the prohibition report and little surprise was expressed in commission headquarters today at reports that Kenyon at one time considered resigning.

COMMISSION ACCEDES

The jurist was supported in his demand that the commission report on prohibition "without any pussyfooting" by Kenneth MacIntosh of Washington and Henry W. Anderson of Virginia.

All three are Republicans and regarded as advocates of prohibition.

After a long wrangle at its opening session here early this month, the commission acceded to the demands that it work out the prohibition problem. No report is expected before Congress meets early in December, however.

REPORT SOUGHT

Senator Glass, Democrat, of Virginia, led a movement in the Senate last session to force the commission to confine its activities to a study of prohibition. At the same time, it has now developed, Judge Kenyon and the insurgent members of the commission were seeking to force an immediate report on the subject.

The commission ordered further investigation of the wet-and-dry problem during the summer and, under the leadership of Chairman Wickersham, is now engaged in drafting the report.

SUN GAZERS FEAR CLOUDS

Eclipse Expedition to Pacific Isles Ready to Learn New Secrets if Skies Are Clear

NIUFOU ISLAND (South Pacific) Oct. 20. (AP)—Scientists from far away United States and New Zealand were hoping tonight for clear skies during the 93-second total eclipse of the sun tomorrow. At 9:09 a.m. local time (1:09 p.m. Pacific time) the moon, passing between the sun and earth, will cast a four-mile shadow band upon the South Pacific Ocean from near New Guinea Island to the tip of South America.

In this brief period the scientists, with giant cameras, spectroscope and telescopes will endeavor to learn more of the secrets of the sun.

Aided by an expedition of the United States Naval Observatory directed by Commander C. H. J. Keppler, the astronomers have placed in position sixty-five and sixty-three-foot cameras and huge spectroscopes to photograph the corona and chromosphere surrounding the briefly obscured sun.

By means of shadowy bands upon photographic plates and by delicate instruments, they hope to learn more about the sun's power to bend light rays from the stars that Einstein predicted. Already the sun, its white corona and red chromosphere have been made to yield the story of many of their components — sodium, iron, helium and others.

For four days the sun has been unclouded. No earthquakes have been felt for months that might disturb delicate balances of scientific instruments. Natives, curious, have prayed in their churches for success.

Pacific-Gulf-Caribbean Line Conference Formed

Traffic Head of Panama Mail Principal Sponsor

Six Companies Announced as Members of Pact

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

Successful launching of the Pacific-Caribbean Sea Conference with participation by six steamship companies was announced yesterday. Formation has been under way for weeks under the guidance of Guy Buck, freight traffic manager of the Panama Mail Steamship Company.

Membership comprises the Panama Mail, French Line, Gulf Pacific, Hamburg-American, North German Lloyd and the United Fruit Company. All will observe conference tariffs, the sanction for which has just been accorded by the United States Shipping Board.

R. S. Clark, manager of the European and Cuban services for the General Steamship Corporation, has been named first chairman of the conference. Successively each three months a new chairman will be selected from each line, in alphabetical order.

Effective the 20th inst., by the new conference rules, a bill of lading charge of $1.50 will be charged to Colombian ports due to the new customs regulations of the Republic of Colombia.

Similar action was taken recently by the East Coast - Colombian Steamship Lines Conference, the Atlantic body with headquarters in New York, which is similar to the new Pacific one announced here and which is to have headquarters at San Francisco.

ACTION DUE SOON ON ESPEE FRONTAGE

Final action by the Mayor's committee on appraisals of Southern Pacific frontage at San Pedro, with a view to acquirement by the city of Los Angeles for a ferry terminal and other port developments, will be taken at a meeting at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce this morning. W. H. Daum made the appraisal, which it is understood estimates the tract's worth at upward of $1,000,000.

The committee's final act will be to turn over the appraisal figures to the Harbor Department. The latter in turn, may negotiate with the Southern Pacific, whose own appraiser, D. F. McGarry, is expected to submit a valuation.

Optimism pervades harbor circles that an agreement may be reached between the two, whereby the city takes over and improves the antiquated frontage with modern, revenue-earning facilities. An adequate municipal ferry system was promised by Los Angeles when the latter absorbed San Pedro more than a score of years ago.

The committee comprises Leslie C. Mott, president of San Pedro Chamber of Commerce, chairman; George Nicholson, port engineer; Murray Butler, engineer's department; Paul Eubank, Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, and Shannon Crandall, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

Installation of a radio policeman, or monitor station, to keep broadcasting stations in their channels is expected to start at San Pedro next month. The site is on Meyler street, near Point Fermin. Four men will be required to man the station, in addition to the two uptown. Operation will be under the radio division, Department of Commerce.

Whaling is improving again off the island of San Clemente, according to officers of the killer Hawk, in port over the week-end, and reporting the killing of eleven mammals alone in the last fortnight. The fleet is that of the California Sea Products Company, and comprises the factory-tender Lansing and four killer boats. It is understood the fleet will be reoutfitted late this year and dispatched into Peruvian waters for the first time.

Navigational aids have just been completed at Fish Harbor by the Lighthouse Service. They comprise a nautophone on the west side of Fish Harbor channel with a one-second blast and nine-second silence, and two fixed lights, a red light on the east side of the channel, a green one on the west side. The Harbor Department has assisted by raising the level of adjacent dolphins.

Formation of the Blue Sea Fishing Corporation to acquire a big steamer for conversion into a brine freezing boat, for distant fishing for tuna, was announced yesterday. The backers are W. L. Shepard, and Fred H. Hyman, local fisherman, and J. F. Triska, attorney. The craft in mind is 220 feet along.

Los Angeles-made door knobs and automobile axles, a car of each, went out for New York yesterday in the holds of the Panama Pacific liner Pennsylvania. Similar shipments have gone east regularly on vessels of that line in recent weeks.

Panama Mail liner Ecuador was offered so much cargo here she had to leave some behind for the motorship City of San Francisco when she sailed yesterday for Central America and New York with passengers and cargo.

SCHACHT VISIT STIRS RUMORS

Series of Conferences Held With Bankers

Ex-President of Reichstag Sees Hoover

German Talk of Moratorium Linked to Meetings

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—Germany's current financial situation was the subject of discussion at a series of conferences during the past three days between American government and banking officials and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the German Reichstag, who is now in the United States on a lecture tour. Whether Germany's ability to continue payment of reparations under the Young plan was discussed by Dr. Schacht during a fifteen-minute meeting with President Hoover at the White House at noon was not made public.

The appearance of Dr. Schacht in Washington at a time when dispatches from abroad carry reports that Germany may seek a time extension on reparations payments aroused speculation as to whether the German financier had come to the capital to sound out American officials regarding the position this country would take toward the Allied debts in event a German moratorium was declared.

One rumor circulated late today was to the effect that a moratorium on Allied war debt payments to this country might be asked of the United States in event Germany suspended reparation payments to the Allies. Some strength was lent to this report by the disclosure that George Harrison, president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank; Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and Secretary Mellon, all had conferred with Mr. Schacht during the day.

Dr. Schacht was a luncheon guest at the home of Secretary of State Stimson. Others present included Mr. Harrison and Secretary Mellon. But little information was divulged regarding the topics of conversation at the Stimson home. Secretary Stimson did deny, however, that the international debt had been discussed.

According to one report current today Mr. Hoover has consistently discouraged attempts on the part of foreign financiers or economists calling at the White House to raise the question of debt cancellation or Germany's inability to continue reparations payments. This report was that the President has exhibited impatience on one recent occasion when a German economist painted a distressing picture of Germany's financial condition during a short White House call.

LITTLE HEARD ON MORATORIUM REQUEST

BERLIN, Oct. 20. (AP)—Comparatively little is heard here with regard to a possible request for a moratorium for Germany's debts, although, it is understood, there has been some discussion of such an eventuality in the creditor countries.

The Nationalist Berliner Lokal-Anzeiger today said that according to its information it was extremely unlikely the Bruening government would extend feelers in this direction since the Cabinet believed the $125,000,000 just obtained from foreign sources made the present moment entirely inopportune for such.

In the course of Reichstag debate last week on the credit authorizing measure government spokesmen emphasized it did not in any way prejudice possibility of a moratorium.

Foe of Women Aided By Wife

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (AP)—Alonzo E See, president of the A. B. See Elevator Company, whose views on women have led him to characterize them as ill-bred, deceiving ingrates whose colleges might as well be burned, receives $135,327 under his wife's will, a transfer tax appraisal disclosed today.

BALL-AND-CHAIN SEVERERS UNITE

Reno About-to-Be-Divorcees Form Unusual Society and Have Banquet

RENO, Oct. 20. (AP)—United because of their common purposes, the spirit of brotherly love among members of Reno's divorce colony tonight culminated in the formation of "The Ball-and-Chain Severance Society," and members of the infant organization gathered for a new and different dinner honoring its president, Abraham Duff of Rahway, N. J.

Mr. Duff tomorrow expects to be granted a decree from Mrs. Fannie Block Duff.

DANGER TO AMERICANS DISCERNED

Representative Cramton of Michigan Urges Greater Spirit of Co-operation

YORKTOWN (Va.) Oct. 20. (AP)—The declaration that there is in America "no more imperative need than that our people have a greater appreciation of their opportunities and privileges" was made today by Representative Cramton of Michigan.

Speaking at the celebration of the one hundred and forty-ninth anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis to George Washington, Cramton said Americans need "a greater realization of their responsibilities for the prepetuation of our institutions and a greater willingness to sacrifice for the common good."

While this country should be proud of its progress and high standard of living, he said these benefits contain a great danger.

"The great need is to realize that democracy is not automatic, that today we are building tomorrow," he added. "We must realize that in a democracy law must be supreme; that when a people make their own laws, if they will not obey those laws, there will come a time when they willingly submit to a power that can enforce obedience."

Espee Purchase May Be Fought

DALLAS, Oct. 20. (AP)—The threat of strong opposition to the Southern Pacific's proposal to purchase the controlling interest of the Cotton Belt appeared today after the Southern Pacific had said it is unwilling for the Interstate Commerce Commission to prescribe that existing routes of traffic must be maintained.

At the opening day's session of the hearing before Thomas F. Sullivan, examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Katy, Frisco, Rock Island and Texas and Pacific systems indicated they will fight the application unless they are guaranteed a continuation of the traffic now given their roads at Southern Pacific connections.

Owner of Beer Freed by Court

MIAMI (Fla.) Oct. 20. (AP)—Federal Judge Lyter today dismissed charges of possessing 216 bottles of imported beer against Carl Woley, Miami, when Federal agents said they could not testify Woley had the beer for sale.

"A man can have all the liquor in his possession he wants if he does not have it in his possession for sale," the judge told the agents. "That is the law and you have a recent ruling from your commissioner on it."

JUNKERS UPSET BY PLANE STORY

Plans for Super Ship Closely Guarded

Expected to Have Speed of 500 Miles an Hour

Will Reach 35,000 Feet on Straight Climb

[Copyright, 1930, by New York Times]

BERLIN, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—Junkers engineers and high officials of the air ministry were badly upset today over the realization that the carefully guarded secret plans for the new stratosphere plane designed to attain an altitude of between 35,000 and 40,000 feet at a speed of upward of 500 miles an hour—some say as much as 800—had leaked out prematurely.

Some idea of the secrecy which had been observed may be gained from the fact that the parts of the plane are being built in four widely separated factories and only a few trusted officials and engineers have the key plans under which apparently insignificant parts are to be assembled into the revolutionary whole. The Junkers company today issued a blanket denial which, however, admitted that the report published in the New York Times yesterday was correct.

The company obviously is determined not to let more leak out than has already found its way into print.

HIGH CEILING

It was learned from reliable sources today, however, that the plane will be able to reach a 35,000-foot level in a straight climb at an angle of 45 deg., within about an hour and a half. The fuselage, it is understood, will be a duralumin cylinder reminiscent of a Zeppelin hull on a small scale. A turbine compresser will suck in air from the outside, adding a supercharge of oxygen and regulating the pressure to a constant 760 millimeters at any altitude.

The intake will be directly over the exhaust pipe, it is believed, thus maintaining an even temperature, which in turn will permit greater throttling down once the desired altitude is reached.

NEW PROPELLER DESIGN

Another novel feature which it is understood will be incorporated envisages the drawing up of all wheels and other landing gear within the fish-like body after the plane has left the ground, thus reducing resistance and enabling the craft to float if forced to land in water.

The key of the whole problem is said to lie in the propeller, which is designed on entirely new lines with the blades at a much sharper pitch than heretofore. This is calculated to gigve the blades a better grip on thin air. If all hopes are fulfilled, Berlin and New York will be put within a five or six-hour spin of each other.

The trials of the new plane are expected to begin at the end of the year.

MESSENGER IN RED SPY PLOT TAKEN

Authorities at Bucharest Announce Apprehension of Woman Courier

BUCHAREST, Oct. 20. (AP)—Police today announced the arrest of a woman, who, they say, is a soviet courier newly arrived from Vienna, in connection with their investigation into a so-called soviet espionage plot in Rumania.

The number of those in custody as a consequence of the investigation now totals 140. The prisoners include a French engineer named Andrew Proit.

One of the prisoners told the police the espionage organization had unlimited funds, its 1929 budget totaling $600,000.

The organization has many sections and subsections, each with an academically trained man directing the line of inquiry. Most of the prisoners are civil engineers.

Mine Rail Wreck Fatal for Two

PORTAGE (Pa.) Oct. 20. (AP)—Failure of a quantity of dynamite to explode likely prevented a major disaster today as two men were killed and more than a score injured when a mine train ran away down a 1000-foot grade and was wrecked in the Sonman Shaft Coal Company mine near here. Three of those injured are in a critical condition.

One hundred men were riding into the mine in the train which also carried thirty sticks of dynamite and a large supply of dynamite caps.

Those who met death were George Suchala and Mike Hoschuck.

Fort Will Not Become Prison

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20. (AP)—Atty.-Gen. William D. Mitchell today informed Representative J. Charles Linthicum the Federal government will not use the Fort McHenry property here as a jail for violators of the prohibition laws.

Following upon the suggestion a week ago that such a step be taken to relieve the crowded condition in Federal prisons, protests were voiced by several patriotic organizations. Opposition to the plan was made today by the legion auxiliary and the Federal Radio Service.

PEORIA (Ill.) Oct. 20. (AP)—Carmen Katherine Sammons of Chicago, whose husband died here in February, 1929, after drinking asserted poisoned liquor, filed suit in Federal court against Morris Mansfield today, asking $50,000 damages. She asserted Mansfield was the wholesaler of liquor which caused twenty-two deaths.

FARM HEAD HAS PRAISE FOR TARIFF

Secretary Hyde Commends New Act as Distinct Gain for American Farmer

CAPE GIRARDEAU (Mo.) Oct. 20. (AP)—The new Tariff Act was termed "a distinct gain for agriculture" by Arthur Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture and former Missouri Governor, in an address here tonight.

The Secretary's address was the first on a tour of Missouri in behalf of Republican Congressional candidates.

"For agriculture the Tariff Act is a distinct gain," he said. "Actually and potentially, it increases the tariff production for the American farmer. It will hold the American market for the American farmer.

"It gives American agriculture a greater opportunity for wise diversification and crop planning by stimulating the production of crops of which we have been chiefly importers. The Tariff Act of 1930 provides an adequate breastworks behind which the farmer can, by bringing his production in line with demand, continue his fight for equality with other industries."

CATHOLIC MEN HEAR LAW PLEA

Better Training Urged for Children by Speaker

Priest Deplores Failure of "Good Motion Pictures"

Poor Receipts Cited for Educational Films

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 20. (AP)—Training of children in law observance was urged before the National Council of Catholic Men here today by Francis R. Lowther of St. Louis, treasurer of the council.

"It seems not to be a misdemeanor to violate a law but in getting caught in the violation," Lowther said. "That seems to be the great offense. The children are taught that. What can you expect of them in later life?"

Failure of "good motion pictures" to register at the box office was deplored by Rev. Daniel J. Lord of St. Louis, who several years ago served on an ecclesiastical board of advisers in the production of a picture with a religious theme and since has maintained close contacts with the industry.

Father Lord cited several historical films of educational value which he said had failed to meet the test of box-office receipts.

Rear-Admiral William S. Benson, retired, spoke for stronger unity in the organization and pleaded for Catholics to break away from "licentious elements" which he said, threaten to lower their plane of living.

NO INTEREST in anything! All because of trouble . . . | RIGHT HERE! Restore sluggish intestines to health and cleanliness and . . . | LIFE'S worth living again! All through eating yeast!

Look at THIS CIRCLE!

That's where most sickness begins! How fresh Yeast corrects it

Think of it—90% of all our commonest ailments in one relatively small section of the human economy! Yet that is the discovery medical men have recently made.

Within the circle illustrated here, the all-important process of digestion and assimilation of food takes place.

What waste products are allowed to remain here, our systems are flooded with poisons.

We can't be perfectly well, because the body is no longer functioning perfectly.

Doctors have spent many years studying this situation.

And they have discovered that fresh yeast, such as the familiar Fleischmann's Yeast you know so well, is highly effective in correcting such unhealthy conditions.

Eaten as a regular part of our diet, yeast moistens and softens the matter which has accumulated in the intestinal tract. It stimulates the natural action of the intestines, and thus helps the body to throw off undigested food in a normal way. The result is that our skin clears, appetite returns, color improves.

Our whole body feels the beneficial effect of yeast's action in restoring a vital organ to its normal condition.

Why don't you try this proved way to regain new health? It's very simple.

Just eat Fleischmann's Yeast regularly . . . 3 cakes every day, following the directions on the label. Each cake is rich in three indispensable vitamins—B, G and D.

POINT WON FOR PRESS FREEDOM

Suppressed Minnesota Paper Gains Hearing

Supreme Court to Decide on Merits of Review

Permanent Injunction Under Periodical Act Fought

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20. (AP)—The publishers of the Minneapolis Saturday Press gained a point today in their attack upon the Minnesota newspaper suppression law.

Appealing from a permanent injunction forbidding further publication of the periodical, they were told by the Supreme Court it would hear oral argument in their case and then decide whether it merits a review.

JUDGEMENT RESERVED

Through Chief Justice Hughes, the nation's high tribunal announced it would reserve judgment on whether the case presents a controversy within its jurisdiction until counsel for the paper have had their say in court.

The periodical was suppressed under a Minnesota law, enacted in 1925, which empowers a judge, sitting as a court of equity, to suppress any publication printing "malicious, scandalous and defamatory matter."

THREE APPEALS TAKEN

A temporary injunction was issued and the paper appealed to the State Supreme Court, which upheld the constitutionality of the law. The injuction was then made permanent and a second appeal was taken to the State's highest court.

Failing again, the publishers carried the case to the Supreme Court of the nation, with the contention the statute in question denies to the paper the liberty of the press guaranteed by both State and Federal constitutions.

HUNDREDS LOSE LIVES IN FLAMES

Fire Starting on Boats in Chinese River Spreads Ashore and Kills 650

CANTON (China) Oct. 20. (AP)—Six hundred fifty persons died in a holocaust in the tea house district of Wuchow, on the Kwangsikwa Gtung border today.

The fire is reported to have started in a floating restaurant in the West River, or Sikiang. It spread rapidly to other craft, hundreds of which jammed the stream, and finally reached buildings on the shore.

Hundreds of persons leaped into the stream from blazing boats. Some of them managed to reach shore but scores are reported to have drowned.

Because of a peculiarity of the West River, a considerable portion of its business is done aboard boats and on pontoons. A difference of about sixty feet in the water level between full water in summer and low water in winter caused many merchants to have their stores and offices afloat. The most prosperous part of the city is located along the river.

ITALIAN AND FRENCH WAR PREDICTED

Writer H. A. Gibbons Fears Germany Also Will Be Drawn Into Conflict

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (AP)—Herbert Adams Gibbons, writer on international relations, predicted today that unless something occurs to lessen friction between France and Italy it will not be long before they are engaged in open war.

Mr. Gibbons, who will address the War College in Washington in November, returned today after a fifteen months' trip through Europe and the Far East. The trouble between France and Italy, he said, involves certain promises France made after the war in relation to Italy's expansion program in Africa. The Italians say France failed to make good her promises. Mr. Gibbons predicted Germany also may be drawn into a Franco-Italian war because of the Polish corridor and other frontiers.

"The world today," he said, "is at the mercy of European events, and the situation is very critical, especially in relation to France and Italy."

...f all the amazing restorations to health accomplished by Sargon none is more astonishing than that of Mrs. Thomas Estes. In telling of her remarkable experience Mrs. Estes said:

MRS. THOMAS ESTES.

"I have been in bad health for the past fifteen years, and for the past eight years have been in such a weak, run-down condition that I haven't been able to do any of my household work. In fact, most of that time I was hardly able to stand on my feet.

"I gradually fell off in weight from 135 to 62 pounds and was a mere bag but skin and bones. I had no appetite and the little food I did eat had to be forced down. Often I would suffer agony from it, especially with griping pains in the pit of my stomach, in my right side and in the small of my back. My heart would get weak and at times it would flutter so that it would actually frighten me. I would have terrible, smothering spells and at times I would feel as if I was going to smother to death—I would just have to gasp for breath.

"My circulation was very bad. I would feel chilly at times and cold beads of sweat would stand out on my forehead and I would get blind and dizzy, too.

"Also, I suffered from constipation for years and a very bad inactive liver. Often times I had bad sick attacks which would make me deathly ill. It is hard for me to explain my troubles to you—I have so many and of so long standing.

"During the past five years I don't believe that I have had a single night of good restful sleep. I don't see how any one could live with so little sleep. My nervous system was surely a wreck—I couldn't stand for strangers or neighbors to come into the house. You just can't imagine how nervous I was. I had to have someone with me all the time and move around the house.

"Nothing in the way of medicines or treatments ever did me a particle of good. I took several hundred hypodermic injections which were supposed to build up my strength and blood but without effect. In fact, my illness has cost hundreds of dollars for medicine, etc.

"I had read a lot about Sargon and what it was doing for so many people, so I decided to try it. Well, to make a long story short, I have taken 15 bottles of Sargon and about 7 bottles of the Sargon Pills, and have actually gained 63 pounds in weight. As I said before, I only weighed 62 pounds, and I now weigh 125 pounds, and am feeling just like a new woman made over again. I have regained my strength and energy and am now doing all my housework and have such a ravenous appetite I can hardly wait from one meal to another, and the food that I eat seems to hurt me in the least. I don't have any trouble with my stomach—no more headaches or dizzy spells like I had before. I now sleep like a log at night and after so many years of not being able to sleep it is a blessing for me now.

"The Sargon Pills have cured me of the bilious attacks and constipation. They are so wonderful that I feel like I would like to tell the whole world about Sargon and the Pills.

"My friends and neighbors are all talking about my wonderful comeback. None of them ever expected me to get well. I will use Sargon as long as I live—I actually believe it has saved my life.

BOURBON GIVEN EDGE IN OHIO

Poll Indicates Bulkley Has Senate Race Lead

Democratic Candidate for Governor Also Strong

Prohibition and Depression Main Campaign Issues

Clinton W. Gilbert, astute political analyst and Washington correspondent, is making a pre-election survey of conditions in States where close Senatorial contests are expected. The following is the first of a series of articles he is writing, based on his findings.

BY CLINTON W. GILBERT

(Copyright, 1930, by Public Ledger)

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20. (Exclusive) For the first time since 1916 the Democrats have a good chance of electing a Senator from Ohio.

You hear the prediction that Robert J. Bulkley will win in November, not only here, but in Washington, made with a degree of confidence that does not appear in the prediction of the election this year of Democratic candidates for Senator in any other normally Republican State.

The reason is not far to seek. There is more to go on in Ohio in making a forecast than in any other of this year's debatable States.

LEADS IN POLL

Ohio has a newspaper poll conducted by newspapers of Columbus and Cincinnati in which the people have great confidence. It is said that this poll has never failed to foreshadow the result of a State election. It is an especial pride of the newspaper editors that it indicated the victory of President Wilson in this State in 1916. This year Bulkley leads his Republican opponent for the Senatorship, Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, by a 9000 majority, and George White leads his Republican opponent for the Governorship, Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, by a somewhat smaller majority.

If you accept the poll as nearly infallible, which many persons here do, then something is known about the reaction in the public mind to the business depression and to the condemnation of the "noble experiment" as a failure.

The wet-dry issue is the one you hear most about in Ohio, but the issue which will affect most votes, if there is an overturn here, will be discontent with business conditions, the impulse to punish the party in power nationally for something which it could not prevent, but something for which, nevertheless, the voters commonly do illogically resent at the polls.

As a wet Democrat alone, Mr. Bulkley might be beaten. But as the instrument of public dissatisfaction with economic conditions, he might win this year if both parties ignored the prohibition issue.

Outside of Ohio it is the habit to think of Ohio as an overwhelmingly Republican State. But it is not such a Republican State after all. It went, as already said, for Wilson in 1916, the last good Democratic year. And it has elected Democratic governors nearly all the time in the last quarter of a century.

The voters of Northern Ohio, including the cities of Cleveland and Toledo, are among the most independent in the country. So it is a State which may be expected to go Democratic in Democratic years.

If there is a considerable political reaction because of economic conditions this year, Ohio may be expected to elect Democrats this year. And Ohio thinks that it has measured that reaction, through its newspaper poll already mentioned, and found it to be considerable. So a certain pall hangs over the Republican campaign here, with a corresponding cheerfulness in Democratic circles.

OUTSTANDING LEADER

But Mr. Bulkley is something more than an instrument for expressing public discontent, whether with economic conditions or with the failures of prohibition. He is an exceptional candidate in his own right—a leading citizen—one of the more important lawyers of Cleveland. He is a member of a wealthy family. He is president of the company that brings the opera to Cleveland every year. His father was the "father of the parks" of Cleveland, his statue standing in a public square. Thus, he "belongs" in a way candidates seldom do. He is important, impressive, by reason of his position in the social and economic life of the State.

And he is not a mere stuffy figure. He electrified the State by coming out in the Democratic primaries for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. This in the home of the Anti-Saloon League. He has courage and frankness, unusual in political candidates. To an unusual extent he has caught the imagination of the voters. He has made this one of the liveliest off-year elections held in Ohio in many years. People talk about it as they do about a national election.

LARGE VOTE EXPECTED

It is expected there will be 300,000 votes cast in Cuyahoga county of which Cleveland is the center. In 1926, the last off-year election, there were only 160,000 votes cast in this county and in 1924 only 250,000 votes. It took the exciting campaign of 1928 to bring the vote of this county above 300,000.

He isn't a remarkable speaker and his personality is not dramatic. But he overshadows his Republican opponent, Senator McCulloch, who was not a popular appointment to succeed the late Senator Burton, and who ran behind all the rest of the candidates on the Republican ticket in the Republican primary, all being unopposed.

The Negroes of Ohio, who hold the balance of power in a close election, are fighting Mr. McCulloch on account of his vote for the confirmation of Judge Parker as a member of the United States Supreme Court.

Most persons think, perhaps because of what the newspaper poll discloses, that Mr. White, the Democratic candidate for Governor, will run behind Mr. Bulkley on election day. Others think that the wets who vote for Bulkley will accept White along with him, while many drys, they think, will vote for White, but not for Bulkley.

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not stick or greasy and will not rub off."—[Advertisement.

RICH PLAYBOYS GIVEN RESPITE

Seven New York Millionaires Escape Publicity

Answer to Widow's Love Suit Holds Back Names

So Far Only Initials Told in Heart Balm Action

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—Those seven millionaire playboys seemingly condemned to pitiless publicity in connection with the charge that they were part of the love life of Mrs. Annette S. Bracy, widow who is suing Joseph Whitehead, Coca Cola millionaire, for $500,000 worth of breach-of-promise damages, got a stay of execution today.

It was welcomed with much the same joyous acclaim that the news of eleventh-hour respites are received in the Sing Sing death house. As the result, the seven, who have been named thus far in the proceedings only by their initials, called up what nonchalance they could under the circumstances and ordered their bags unpacked as they'd changed their minds about leaving town, for awhile at least.

HOLDS BACK NAMES

It wasn't a full pardon, by any means, but it was a break for several weeks, anyway. It came in the form of an announcement from Herbert C. Smyth, Jr., counsel for Whitehead, that within the next day or two the latter will file a notice of appeal from an order issued by Supreme Court Justice Hammer, requiring the Atlanta soft-drink multimillionaire to supply his balm seeker with specific names, dates and places in connection with his charge that she was a lady of many and whilom loves.

"We will say in connection with the notice that she is not entitled to the information in advance of trial of the case," declared Attorney Smyth.

MAY TELL LATER

"This does not mean that we are unwilling to give out the names of the seven—on the contrary, that is the least part of the data we object to divulge at this time. Inasmuch as they are a part of Justice Hammer's order, however, the question of whether they are to be given out must now be determined by the appellate division also."

In answering Mrs. Bracy's suit—started after he had married Miss Laura Saffield, a former modiste, and after he had been divorced by Mrs. Marjorie Cassidy Whitehead, former Follies beauty—Whitehead freely admitted having gone on European love tours with the attractive widow.

INITIALS LISTED

He thought she was a "gentlewoman" then, he said, "but changed his mind and gave her the air after learning she had been holding ritzy love trysts with the sportive seven, identified to date merely as "S.S." "F.F." "M.F." "Judge M. of Detroit." "Capt. H." "McD." and "J. McV."

Soon after the suit was started the Central Park Casino refused to serve Whitehead at a dinner party, confining its explanations merely to the statement that he was as persona non grata to the manager, Sidney Salomon.

Cox Declares Party Would Repeal Tariff

LIMA (O.) Oct. 20. (AP)—James M. Cox, Democratic Presidential nominee of 1920, in a political address here tonight said that while he did not speak for the party, "if a Democratic House and Senate are elected at the November election the existing tariff law will be repealed without hearing or other ceremonies."

He added "the schedules which will and doubtless should be retained are those relating to agriculture."

M.-G.-M. STAR IN "TORCH SONG"

Glenn Tryon Signs to Star in "Midnight Special;" James Cruze to Direct "Salvation Nell;" Lois Moran Travels—May Go on Stage

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

There is no harder working, more conscientious actress in the movies than Joan Crawford. The result is that she is coming in for some excellent roles at the Metro - Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

JOAN CRAWFORD

The newest one purchased for her, to serve as a starring vehicle, is "Torch Song," by Kenyon Nicholson, which is playing successfully in New York's Broadway at the present time.

There is a possibility that Mayo Methot, playing in the piece at present, may also appear in the talking picture version.

GLENN TRYON SIGNS WITH CHESTERFIELD

Naturally it was not to be expected that Glenn Tryon, who lately completed a contract with Universal, under whose banner he has been starring successfully for some time, would long be idling.

So we weren't at all surprised to learn yesterday that Chesterfield Productions, which organization is planning a special production, should have signed Tryon for the star role.

The name of the production is to be "Midnight Special," and will be a railroad story. It will be made at Tec-Art studios. No director nor leading lady is yet selected.

We understand that there is also a possibility of Tryon signing a long-term contract with the organization.

LOLA LANE TO BE "SALVATION NELL"

It looks as though a big part is to come Lola Lane's way. It seems entirely likely now that she will play the name part in "Salvation Nell," providing the deal now on between James Cruze Productions and the owner of the film - talking rights to the play goes through.

LOLA LANE

Though youthful, Miss Lane has shown fine acting ability and it does seem to us as though, difficult as the role is, she will be able to carry it if given a chance. James Cruze will personally direct the picture.

As will be remembered, Pauline Starke gave a magnificent portrayal of the character when the picture was done as a silent a few years ago. Previous to that Minnie Maddern Fiske had played the role on the New York stage.

Jeanette Loff to New York

Jeanette Loff is to return to the New York stage, according to word received yesterday from no less authoritative source than herself.

The young actress is to appear on Broadway in a music show to be produced by Messrs. Schwab and Mandell.

However, before leaving Miss Loff is to appear in a picture to be made by Tiffany, the name of which is not yet ready to announce. Following that she will go east. The actress is under contract to Tiffany for four pictures; so, as soon as her New York show closes, she will return to Hollywood to complete her contract.

Lois Moran Travels

Lois Moran, Fox featured player, having four months' vacation at her command, felt that she could not put it to better purpose than to spend it in travel and study.

She left for New York and possibly Europe, on Sunday night, accompanied by her mother and her little niece. She will study voice culture in New York, and there is a possibility that she may go on the stage. If she does not do this, she will accompany her mother and niece to Europe, where the child is to be placed in school.

Jack Oakie's Next

Jack Oakie's next starring production will be a football story, and is to be one of the most important productions in which he has yet appeared.

JACK OAKIE

Not only will Oakie have one of the best roles of his career, but he will also be upheld in his comic efforts by two other famous comedians.

Claude Allister and William Austin will have the roles of two Englishmen who win a Yankee department store on a wager.

Allister is now working in "Reaching for the Moon," with Douglas Fairbanks, this being his twentieth picture within two years.

Virginia Judge Assigned

Walter C. Kelly, better known in vaudeville as the Virginia Judge, has been assigned to portray the role of Costello in John Ford's Fox-Movietone production, "The Seas Beneath," which features George O'Brien and Marion Lessing.

Kelly started his career as an actor in 1899 as the temperance lecturer in "Huckleberry Finn." Since then he has appeared in many plays, including "The Texas Steer" and "Sweet Kitty Bellairs." Following the creation of the character of the Virginia Judge, Kelly became a noted artist of vaudeville.

Warwick With R.-K.-O.

Robert Warwick, long a stage and picture star, has just allied himself with R.-K.-O., we learn.

The actor is to play a featured role in The Queen's Husband," in which Lowell Sherman will play a leading role and which he will also direct.

ROBERT WARWICK

Warwick has starred both in New York and London in many noted plays, including "The Pit," "Anna Karenina," various Shaw plays and others. He was also a star with the old Vitagraph company and with Paramount.

"Three Bad Men" Revived

If you chance to remember "Three Bad Men," which John Ford directed for Fox, with J. Farrell Macdonald, Tom Santschi and Frank Campeau cofeatured in the title roles, you will be interested to know that it is to be remade as a talker.

Victor McLaglen, however, will have the principal bad-man part, and there is, of course, a chance that other members of the original cast will appear in it, notably George O'Brien, who played the juvenile.

John St. Polis with R.-K.-O.

Slowly but surely some excellent actors are being signed for "Beau Ideal," which Herbert Brenon is directing for R.-K.-O.

John St. Polis is the newest addition to the very fine cast which is to appear in the picture. St. Polis has played many starring and featured roles in the silent pictures, but came originally from the stage.

New Supervisor Must Decide on New Year Float

It will be up to the new Supervisor from the First District to help decide what sort of a float Los Angeles county will enter in the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day.

"I move that the matter be referred to my successor," Supervisor Beaty declared yesterday when a letter from C. W. Norris, chairman of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses parade committee, asking the county's co-operation, was read.

Beaty, who represents the First District, will retire from office at the end of next month. He is not a candidate for re-election. His successor will be either Hugh A. Thatcher, retired rancher of Pomona, or former Mayor Albert M. Chamness of Whittier, who will be in the race for Beaty's office in the November election.

Laemmle Back After Dropping European Trip

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures, last night returned to Los Angeles after canceling a projected European trip.

He plans to plunge into production work.

Returning with Mr. Laemmle were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fleckes, his sister and brother-in-law, David Bader, personal representative, and his secretary, Jack Roth.

One of the causes of Mr. Laemmle's return was a desire to be with his grand-daughter, Carol Laemmle Bergerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Stanley Bergerman (Rosalind Laemmle,) who was born just before his recent departure for New York.

YOUTHS ENACT TORRID FARCE

Hope for Giddy Youth Seen by Playwright Harris

Regeneration Theme of New Play at Belasco

But Method of Achievement Something Else Again

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

There is hope for the sheik, and hope for the flapper, be they ever so rich and ever so naughty—

Elmer Harris seems doughtily to arrive at this conclusion in his comedy "Young Sinners," which opened last evening at the Belasco Theater, as one of the "hot stuff" attractions of the current season.

Distinctly not a play for those who like their show fare perfectly free from warm spice, and certainly even a bit embarrassing in the climaxes, this new theatrical piece will apparently sail merrily by on the wings of its comedy. They are moth wings (or if you like bat's wings) to be sure, and not the pinions angelic, but I presume those who like something with an unusual kick will enjoy this.

After "Strictly Dishonorable" and this play, I look to see the day when a hero will not prove resistant under petulant stress of the pleadings of the heroine, but so far he has survived. The extent of his willfulness in both stage pieces seems to be that he assists her to disrobe in the torrid climax of the second act. This occurred picturesquely in a mountain cabin last evening, the change being made from a negligee to a nightie, with the negligee used as the curtain of concealment.

That is the punch of "Young Sinners," that and the fact that the hero later retires to his own room, and as we learn in a subsequent scene, even locked the door for self protection.

Aside from this piquant high light, if you want to call it that, "Young Sinners" proffers visibly the charm of youthfulness, nasty youthfulness (if you again want to call it that,) gone on a round of cocktail adventure. The boys and girls of the present . . . maybe, and if you want to believe the dramatists.

Underlying is the plot of the regeneration of a rich man's wayward son, who has been going a wild route, and who is taken in hand by a hard-boiled Irish trainer, who sets out to make a man of him. The means used are rigorous. A punch in the jaw followed by another wallop and then a knockout are the starter, and come as a sort of shock at the end of the first act.

The youth, badly parented, grows to appreciate the treatment eventually, and becomes a very clean-living sort, as evidenced by the fact that Parsifal-like he overcomes the temptations of the flesh in the grand culmination.

All this may be said to contribute to an enlivening evening, but decidedly not a matinee for the children. Even grown-ups will be entitled to their blush over a scene or two. Or, if they will, can fidget instead.

Harris has done his work skillfully in investing the play with a smart up-to-date interest in the lines, and he has contrived to give the play a refreshing aspect because a majority of his characters are young. His wit is amply evidenced in the many bright lines that the play possesses, and it is in a way a pity that his daring rather oversteps to the point of discomfort.

The stage is literally abloom with attractive youth—the girl, Marian Harris, offering to the gaze a delicate blonde beauty, and being exceptionally alluring even when quite seducing. She achieves just the right mood for the interpretation.

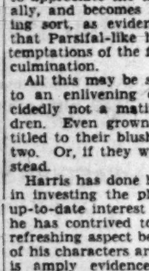
The gilded youth is unusually well played by John Darrow. If a fault could be found it is that his personality is so engaging that the blows struck to bring him to his senses almost seem unwarranted. He acts with marked sincerity.

Immensely efficient in his sketching of the hard-boiled trainer is Ben Taggart. There is plenty of comedy emanating from the sector that he occupies as one of the leading older gentry of the plot.

The cast gathers effectiveness through the presence of Cecil Cunningham in a forbidding mother role. George Berliner is good, if a trifle too effusive, in an eccentric bit of character drawing. Molly O'Day is very bright as a rough-and-ready lady. Polly Ann Young is adorning in the first act, as is also Marguerite Walker. Robert Lake does a good bit. Emmett C. King and William Robyns are others more important. All, in all this company is a very good one.

Perry Askam to Sing Lead Again in "New Moon"

Perry Askam, the Red Shadow of "The Desert Song" and the singing star of Lillian Albertson's production, "The New Moon," again appears in the role of Robert, a French aristocrat who sells himself as a bond-servant in the perilous times of 1788, at the Biltmore Theater Monday night. The engagement is limited to two weeks.



PERRY ASKAM

The cast and company of 100 remain practically the same as when seen here last spring. Cecil Stewart will again conduct the orchestra, as he has done in the past. Seats for every performance are now on sale at the Biltmore.

Seymour Felix Stages Revue at Grauman's

Seymour Felix, who has forgotten more about staging dance routines than most choreographers will ever know, yesterday introduced an unusually effective Indian prologue to "The Big Trail," Grandeur feature at the Chinese Theater. Swift, dynamic, flashingly barbaric, the dance is accomplished by perhaps fifty superbly trained coryphees to the rapid savagery of tom-tom music.

The revel begins and ends with a melodious but inauspicious popular number, name unreported, which is sung by Roscoe Taylor and Franklyn Record dressed like Indians. Immediately following the introduction the curtains part to reveal a totem pole surrounded by the girls, who perform intricate genuflections before the impassive idol over all.

PARAMOUNT SCHEDULES 'LAUGHTER'

Nancy Carroll, Fredric March Head Cast of Film Starting Thursday

"Laughter," a Paramount film, will have its western premiere at the Paramount Theater Thursday, in conjunction with a new Jack Partington stage show, "High Speed."

"Laughter" is the story of a girl who has to decide between riches and the man she loves. The story is an original from the pen of H. D'Arrast, who also directed. Headed by Nancy Carroll, the cast includes Frederic March, Frank Morgan, Glenn Anders, Diana Ellis and others.

Rubinoff and the Paramount orchestra will be held over for another week, theater officials announced. Jack Partington's stage show again features Comedian Ray Bolger as master of ceremonies.

Amos and Andy Voice Contest Being Planned

In conjunction with the opening of "Check and Double Check" Saturday, the Orpheum Theater has completed arrangements for a contest for the best voice impersonations of Amos and Andy.

The competition is open today, tomorrow and Thursday. Contestants will be called upon to speak two or three sentences into the microphone of the new RCA home record-making instrument, placed in the lounge of the Orpheum. Dialect of Amos, Andy, or both may be used, and the impersonation may be rendered from memory or read.

The recording radiola will be inclosed by a thick screen to prevent sound disturbance. After the entrant has made the record it will be played once for his or her benefit and then preserved until the selection by the judges of the winners.

Noted Actress Will Speak on Art of Acting

Mrs. Patrick Campbell brings her secrets of voice and diction to the women of Los Angeles Friday afternoon at the Vine Street Theater. Under the title of "Beautiful Speech and the Art of Acting," Mrs. Campbell will lecture at a special matinee.

Mrs. Campbell has been a colorful international figure for years. Her success in the drawing-room as well as on the stage lends authority to her contention that in either sphere a woman may enhance her charm by a proper knowledge of certain rules.

Many will remember the actress in "Ghosts," "Second Mrs. Tanqueray," "Magda" and "Pygmalion."

"Big Fight" to Start Thursday

Belasco's stage play, "The Big Fight," in which Jack Dempsey played the star role, has been made into a talkie by James Cruze, and will have its premiere showing starting Thursday at Pantages Hollywood Theater.

Lola Lane is seen in the role of Shirley, a manicurst. She is in love with Tiger, the fight champion, and their romance carries them through a series of episodes, with a sporting world background.

In the cast are Guinn Williams, Stepin Fetchit, Ralph Ince and Wheeler Oakman.

"Cup of Sugar" Comes Downtown

Kathryn Givney

Enacts one of the important roles in the comedy which starts a new engagement tonight at the Figueroa Playhouse.

CRITERION ANNOUNCES NEXT FILM

"Billy the Kid" Starts on 29th Inst.; John Mack Brown Featured

"Billy the Kid," featuring John Mack Brown, Wallace Beery, Kay Johnson and others, comes to the Criterion Theater Wednesday, the 29th inst., according to an announcement. "Up the River" will close on the 28th inst.

JOHN MACK BROWN

"Billy the Kid" is called a romantic drama of life in New Mexico, and will be presented on "Realife Film," a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer invention. The film is said to offer a larger scope to the picture reflected, one of human-size depth, with clarity and stereoscopic illusion.

King Vidor, who has guided such pictures as "The Big Parade," "The Crowd" and "Hallelujah," directed "Billy the Kid."

Singers Charm Large Audience at Town House

With Everett Marshall, baritone, and Carolina Segrera, coloratura soprano, enchanting an unusually large audience with their songs, the series of morning musicales presented by Genevieve Gray, were successfully inaugurated yesterday morning at the Town House.

Many will remember Everett Marshall as a leading baritone with the Metropolitan Opera, but most people will remember him as the hero opposite Bebe Daniels in the motion picture, "Dixiana." In concert, however, as well as in opera or the motion pictures, he is destined to succeed, judging from the insistent applause that brought him back for many encores at the morning concert. The baritone has an intimacy of manner that popularizes him immediately with his audience.

Mr. Marshall's program was well planned, with concert songs by composers of Italy, Russia, France, Hungary and America, interpreted with a studied intelligence and reverent regard for each composer and his country. Technically, his singing is not entirely flawless. His voice is of a warm resonant quality, especially pleasing when used in its natural robustness. One is often conscious, however, of lack of ease in tone production. Emotional depth and a flair for the dramatic were revealed in his two operatic numbers, "Zaza, piccola zingara" from "Zaza," by Leoncavallo, and the duet from "La Traviata," by Verdi, which he sang with Miss Segrera.

Miss Segrera, a coloratura soprano from Italy, shared honors on the program with Mr. Marshall. Her voice is well equalized, and exceptionally pure of tone. Her head tones are approached with remarkable ease and were displayed to advantage in her selections by De Falla, Joaquin Nin, "La Wally," from Catalini's opera "La Wally," and in the duet with Mr. Marshall. A winning personality and refinement and restraint in interpretation should secure her favor with audiences. Her work, too, is marked by an inherent warmth of temperament.

Max Rabinowitch, accompanist for the two singers, deserves especial mention for his reserve in allowing the soloists to remain in the foreground, and for his delicate and beautiful tone.

BURLESQUE SCORES

"Paree by Night," current burlesque at the Follies, offers quantity as well as quality. Fagan and Clark prove themselves versatile comedians. Leona White, the soubrette, is likewise featured. In the supporting player roster are Dorothy Akern, Vilma Jozsy and Pauline Elliott. Stanley and Jones play straight roles well. The work of the forty chorus girls deserves mention.

Whispers in the Wings

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

THE Macloons, Lillian and Louis, have a way of doing the totally unexpected when it comes to casting their productions, and flashing surprise names before Los Angeles theatergoers.

CAROLINA SEGRERA

Yesterday, a scout who keeps his ear to the ground and hears all sorts of rialto rumblings, brought the news that Carolina Segrera, known in musical byways as Mrs. Everett Marshall, would sing the feminine lead in "La Violette."

Miss Segrera is the possessor of a lovely coloratura soprano voice. She is a Cuban, a brunette with big dark eyes and charming ways. The Macloons think she should score a great hit.

"La Violette," of course, is the Viennese operetta which the Macloons heard and purchased while they were abroad this summer. It is in rehearsal here now preparatory to opening soon in San Francisco. If at all successful on the Coast, it will be taken right into New York. Allan Prior sings the leading masculine role.

Leo Carillo Coming Back

It's "Mister Antonio" with none other than our old friend Leo Carrillo which will open the Hollywood Playhouse under the Henry Duffy banner, it was told yesterday. The play starts a week from Thursday and marks the fifth Pacific Coast theater to go back under Duffy supervision.

Eddie Cantor's Plans

The newest dope on the Eddie Cantor show, to be done in Los Angeles and San Francisco, is that he has written it himself. It is a straight comedy and presentation will be made to determine its picture possibilities.

EDDIE CANTOR

It seems that he has been ambitious to write a play for a long time. He's written lots of vaudeville acts and sketches and was the author of the book of Earl Carroll's "Sketchbook."

Meanwhile there's a rumor about town that "New York's biggest comic is going to appear at the Mayan!" Maybe that's Eddie.

Film Rights Secured

One of the reasons for the revival of "Little Orchid Annie" at the Hollywood Playhouse was the desire of the producers, Ed W. Rowland and Leslie Pierce, to insure their title to the producers' share of the motion-picture rights. The other reason was—they thought they could make some money on the show.

With Thursday night's performance, the required number of performances, according to stipulations in Authors' League contracts, will have been given. This includes the four weeks here a year ago, two recently in San Francisco and time here now.

There is a lot of brittle brightness to the show, much that is snappy in the way of comedy and lines. Most everybody thinks it should make a good farcial film. I understand that a couple of companies are dickering for it.

Wholesale Migration of Actors

There's been a wholesale migration of actors to the north within the past couple of weeks on invitation of one Donald Peck, manager of the Empire Opera Association of the Vancouver Theater.

Peck, swooping down out of the north in a search for talent to man his musical productions, signed and took back some thirty-odd Los Angeles singers and actors. Chief among them were Ria Briggs, prima donna; Ernest Charles, tenor; John Phillip Ryder, Aimee Torriani, Lester Door and John Valentine. They are to appear in "The Merry Widow," "Naughty Marietta," "Sally, Irene and Mary" and other shows of like caliber booked for the Vancouver season.

Schildkraut Out of Play

From New York comes word that Joseph Schildkraut is out of the cast of Rafael Sabatini's play, "The Tyrant," after a "disagreement" with the producer, Charles L. Wagner. Louis Calhern is to succeed him.

Mr. Schildkraut may go to work for Jed Harris.

Also Reported From New York

Another play impends from John Colton, author of the vehicle which marks Miss Maude Adams's return to the stage. At least John D. Adams he will produce something which Mr. Colton has adapted from the Hungarian (the Hungarians, incidentally are again having their innings) and that a French star will figure more or less prominently in it.

Warren Williams will, it is said, be in the cast of "Vinegar Tree." Miss Boland's play. . . Ina Claire is going to the first nights. . . Claudette Colbert is back in town from the films and a trip around the world and says that she may return to the stage if she can find a play. Her husband, Norman Foster, last seen in "June Moon" is committed for the time being to the talkies.

Although "A Farewell to Arms" was considerably less than a success Mr. Woods is said to have made on the venture. In three weeks he got one-third of the $80,000 brought by the picture sale out of which he had to pay a loss of $17,000. . . The Woods production of Mr. Davis's "The Ninth Guest," will depart at the end of this week.

FILM COMPLETED

John Robertson has completed final scenes on "Madonna of the Streets" at Columbia and now has his production in its first stage of cutting.

NET OF BARKER BROTHERS DOWN

Nine Months' Earnings Equal 20 Cents a Share

Orders for Third Quarter Business Extensive

Future Prospects Promising, President States

While net profits of Barker Brothers Corporation for the first nine months this year were insufficient to cover the usual dividends on the common stock the company has been successful in contracting for a very substantial amount of business in the last quarter, a large portion of which will be reflected in the year's profits, Clarence A. Barker, president, announced yesterday.

Consolidated net profits of the corporation and its subsidiaries for the nine months ended September 30 amounted to $170,473.67 after all charges, including taxes, equal after preferred dividends to 20 cents a share on the 150,000 common shares outstanding.

This compares with $363,664.28 earned for the same period last year or $1.45 a common share, and represents a decrease of $183,190.61.

LAST QUARTER ACTIVE

By far the largest portion of the year's profits occur during the final quarter of each year, Mr. Barker stated, adding that this volume generally runs three times larger than the other quarters. December alone has accounted for 40 per cent of the year's earnings.

"On the basis of a number of large orders the company has recently contracted for, prospects for the balance of the year are very promising, although a portion of this new business will be carried over into next year," he said.

SALES DECLINE

Consolidated net sales for the nine months aggregated $9,528,872.43. Cost of goods sold amounted to $6,270,052.99 against $7,292,312.74 last year, leaving a gross profit of $3,258,819.44 as compared with $3,659,636.45 in 1929. Other income totaled $104,647.26 against $101,261.29 a year ago.

Net profits for the September quarter amounted to $37,882.21, equal to $1.27 a share on the 28,900 preferred shares outstanding on which the three months' dividend requirements amount to $1.62½ a share. This compares with $42,965.47 or $1.47 a preferred share in the preceding quarter and $139,393.74 in the third quarter of 1929 equal after preferred dividends to $1 cents a common share.

BARGAIN TIME PROCLAIMED

J. B. Lovelace, Investment Expert, Advises Accumulation of Sound Stocks on Declining Price Trend

BY EARLE E. CROWE

"America is on the bargain table," declares J. B. Lovelace, investment counsel of Los Angeles, who advises in the investment of more than $40,000,000 of investment funds.

Taking this positive stand at a time when most advisers and commentators on the stock market are either noncommital or openly bearish, Mr. Lovelace mailed letters to his clients Saturday advising that common stocks of leading American industrial, public utility, railroad and financial institutions are again entering the buying zone.

This authority made similar recommendations on November 13, 1929, and June 24, last. These buying points were followed within four months by advances of 35 to 95 points in the averages.

SCALE BUYING URGED

In writing to his clients, including two large investment trusts, Mr. Lovelace does not suggest purchases at current prices but strongly advises that "accumulation should once again be started." His reason for waiting for a lower level of prices than prevailed during the November lows is the unfavorable economic developments following the American drought and revolutions and unrest in many foreign countries.

But Mr. Lovelace feels now that prices have entered a zone where the known unfavorable factors have been substantially discounted to the point where accumulation on the scale down is warranted.

"I strongly urge this policy of accumulation upon all clients," he writes, "with a full appreciation of the many unfavorable factors in the present situation and also a knowledge that many of the stocks recommended in November and June are now selling at higher prices than prevailed at those buying points. As against this the recognized averages have declined to new lows about 10 per cent under the November 13 low point."

Summarizing his opinions he continues: "We now have stocks on the average available at lower levels than in November; a year of readjustment is behind us; many stocks are selling at unquestioned bargain levels; the market leaders are better deflated. The stage is set for accumulation."

STOCKS GROUPED

In his bargain table of values for accumulation Mr. Lovelace groups his stocks to yield the investor from 4 to 12 per cent depending on the requirements of the investor. Price limits are suggested between which accumulation is advised.

In the 4 per cent group, for illustration, he suggests the purchase of General Electric between 51 and 36 to average 4 per cent; Allied Chemical between 180 and 130; and Standard of New Jersey between 57 and 43. Pacific Gas and Electric and Southern California Edison are recommended as purchases on a 4½ per cent basis between 50 and 40.

American Telephone is placed in the 5 per cent bracket and the buying zone fixed between 200 and 165. Southern Pacific is in the 6 per cent group at a range from 108 to 92.

TARIFF WALL SUITS CANADA

Financial Leader Says Action of United States to Drive Manufactures to Dominion

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—"I'm delighted with the new American tariff act," said Sir Herbert Holt, in discussing Canadian-American business relations with me. Sir Herbert is chairman of the Royal Bank of Canada, the largest banking institution in the Dominion.

"Why are you delighted with it?" I asked. "The schedules generally are higher."

"Why? Because American firms will now be forced to come to Canada and set up their own manufacturing plants, if they wish to enjoy the Canadian market," replied Sir Herbert. "Per capita, I think we are the richest—certainly among the richest—of the nations of the world. We have 10,000,000 people, whose standard of living is far higher than that of any other nation, with the exception of the United States.

"Only this week, the officials of two large American concerns were in Montreal, making arrangements to erect factories across the line to handle their Canadian trade. Let the United States raise its tariff walls! That will not hurt Canada—it will help Canada. It means more American factories and more business for Canada, that's why I am delighted!"

Sir Herbert is 74 years of age. Irish born and was 19 when he entered Canada. With no influential friends, he has become Canada's richest citizen. He is interested in water power, paper, banking, steel, mining, railroads—in fact, his business has become international. His advice is eagerly sought and freely given. He believes in the future of Canada and is optimistic regarding present conditions in the Dominion.

"I think Canada will come back first when conditions change," he said to me. "In my opinion we are down on the bottom now, with indications pointing to a faster recovery in Canada than in the United States."

Sir Joseph Flavelle, another outstanding Canadian business man and banker, sees no short cut to business prosperity. When I suggested that millions of bushels of Canadian barley were being sold in the West at from 5 to 10 cents above the threshing bill, he remarked:

"Yes, that's true. It's very hard on the individual farmers who raise barley. One farmer raised 1500 bushels of barley this fall, and received, after paying for his threshing, a check for $15.01 for his year's work.

"Now what's the future of barley or wheat? For the farmer who raises barley or wheat exclusively, there is little future. But, tied up with diversification, there is a glorious one.

"That 1500 bushels should not have been sold, but fed to cattle or hogs. Take corn! I can remember when it was selling for 10 cents a bushel. I remember when farmers of Iowa burned their corn to get rid of it. Then they hit on the idea of feeding it, when the corn prices were low, to their live stock. Was it successful? It made Iowa the great corn belt—the finest farming section of the United States.

"These are trying times—very trying times, but we must keep in mind the mistakes we have made in the past, and let those mistakes be stepping stones to future prosperity. Every wise farmer will quit the one-crop idea. All of us have learned that diversification in business pays. The farmer must learn it, too.

"Canada will overcome its troubles today, and be a stronger, more powerful nation in the years to come. These dark days will be looked back upon as the testing days. The strong men will survive and the weak ones will fall out."

PRESIDENT ELECTED

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (AP)—The bond market charted a ragged course today in which the rally in stocks and news from foreign countries attracted a moderate amount of buying. Some of the second and third-grade rails moved to lower levels, and industrials continued their downward trend.

While the volume of business fell off sharply from recent sessions, highest grade issues were under accumulation in the afternoon.

Special news was believed responsible for the bullish trend of Brazilian and German bonds. They registered gains of from 1 to 3 points. Bond circles heard revolutionary forces in Brazil had announced investors' interests in Brazilian bonds would be protected by them if they gained control of the government. Buying of German issues was inspired in part by the victory of the Bruening government in the Reichstag Saturday, when the international credit bill was passed. German International 5½s rallied a point, while German Central Agricultural Bank bonds were up 2 and 3.

The reactionary trend of bonds in recent sessions, which some persons in financial circles find inexplicable in view of the easy monetary conditions was responsible for the city of New York deciding to sell only $50,000,000 4 per cent bonds tomorrow instead of $75,000,000 as originally contemplated. The feeling was that a better price could be obtained from bidders if the size of the offering was reduced.

The improvement in high-grade rails and other domestic issues accumulated by large investors was the best in many sessions. Atchison general 4s advanced 1 point. Chicago and Northwestern general 5s reacted sharply. Utilities were irregularly higher. New York and Richmond Gas 6s reached a new 1930 high at 104½.

Warner Brothers 6s rebounded 3½, but General Theaters 6s worked ½ lower.

United States governments were fairly steady and dullness ruled all but Liberty Fourth 4½s. They sold within a small fraction of the year's peak price.

If last price quoted, low and last are same. If low and last are omitted, high, low and last are same.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—The crude rubber market was strong again today both here and in England. The close in the market was at 9¾c, while London ended unchanged to ⅛d higher than Saturday. Large trade operations are said to be buying heavily for 1931 delivery. The statement of F. R. Henderson, president of the Rubber Exchange of New York, issued Saturday in which he declared that rubber could easily lead the commodities in a general recovery because it had fallen far below the cost of production also came in for general comment and was held responsible for some of the improvement in sentiment.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—The week opened with a moderate supply of cattle and demand continued strong. Trade was active with strong competition for all classes excepting dairy cows, which are slower to move. Prices were rather uneven, but generally steady to 25c higher, the in-between and lower grades showing the most strength. California and the intermountain States furnished bulk of the supply, with a few loads from Arizona.

A load of good 906-pound steers topped at $8.00, with several loads of 750 to 1423-pound steers going at $7.00@8.50, those at the lighter weight making $8.40. A load of 1144-pound Utah steers were sorted out at $8.75. A number of loads of medium steers brought 7.50@7.85, with odd lots of plainer steers at 6.75@7.00. Imperial Mexican steers sold readily at 6.50@7.00, with a few plainer loads at 6.35@6.40.

A few loads of fairly good California and Utah heifers were taken at 7.00@7.35, with plainer heifers at 6.00@6.50. A few loads of medium to low good intermountain cows scored 5.75@6.25, with bulk of other common to medium she stock going at 4.75@5.65. Low cutters and cutters ranged from 2.50@4.50, but sales under 3.00 were scarce. Bulls were fast sellers, the good kinds cashing at 5.75@6.50 and lower grades down to 4.00.

CALVES—Desirable vealers continue in short supply. Sales of heavier calves were steady to strong, with a few sales looking a little higher. A few head of choice vealers brought 12.00@12.00, with medium kinds at 10.00@11.50. About four loads of southwestern and California calves cashed at 8.75@9.75. Cull vealers and common, heavy calves sold down to 6.50 and below.

HOGS—An active trade quickly cleared the yards at about steady rates, quality considered. A load of fairly good, 181-pound Nebraskas with freight benefit brought 11.30. Other loads were largely mixed weights or light offerings. Four loads of 146 to 194-pound Texas, Colorado and New Mexico butchers sorted at 11.00@11.15, with a load of strictly good 221-pound Californias at 11.00. A few bunches of light light sorted off loads made 10.75@10.80 and a load of 135-pound easterns brought 10.50. A few head of local feeders sold up to 10.85, with odd packing sows at 8.50@9.00.

SHEEP—Nothing was available in this division. Medium to choice lambs, 75 pounds down, are quoted at 6.50@8.00, mediums to choice ewes quoted 2.75@3.75.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Rally Lifts Local Stocks for Appreciable Gains on Week's Opening Session

Although some irregularity entered into earlier operations of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday, strong evidence that buyers are being attracted by current low prices was indicated with a marked improvement in quotations as the session advanced with a steady increase in activity. The general list was headed in an upward direction at the close with a majority of issues finishing the session at their highest levels for the day.

Southern California Edison was one of the principal traders and with Pacific Gas and Electric strengthened sharply. Although the Edison stock went ex-dividend quotations advanced to 49 3-8 and ended at 49 1-4 for a net gain of 1-2, equivalent to a full point when allowing for the dividend. Pacific Gas spurted 1 1-4 points to 49 and Pacific Public Service 3-4 to 25 3-4.

Union Oil issues continued to trade rapidly and also displayed marked improvement. Union Oil reached a top at 31 and closed at 30 for a net gain of 1 3-8 and Union Associates, after reaching 29 1-8 finished at 28 7-8, up 3-4 net. Standard Oil of California advanced more than a point to 53 and ended at 52 3-4, up 7-8 net.

Richfield hit a new low at 7 1-8 early in the session, but recovered to 7 1-4, down 1-4 net and Rio Grande, which also marked a new bottom at 8 3-8 closed up 3-8 net at 8 7-8. Macmillan marked another low point off 1-2 at 6 and Barnsdall, which has not been traded on this board for some weeks past, transferred at 16, a record minimum and off 4 points from the last previous sale. Signal rallied 1-4 to 18 1-4.

Transamerica was sold in excess of 2000 shares but held within 1-4 all day. The close at 17 5-8 was 1-2-point lower than Saturday's close. Seaboard National Securities dipped a point to a new bottom at 44 and Seaboard National Bank yielded 1 1-2 points to 42. Security-First National reacted 1-4 to again sell at 100. Citizens' National sold at the same price, unchanged.

Sales totaled 19,977 shares valued at $705,662; previous day, 29,091 shares valued at $1,006,986.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20. (AP)—The San Francisco stock market, like numerous football teams, scored a week-end upset, coming back strong at the opening today and making up surprising gains in the face of a bearish runaway finish last week.

The bulls marked up the leaders in a style not seen for weeks. Then they settled down to holding the gains and pushing a few issues higher.

The close found Pacific Gas up 1¾, Pacific Public Service, Standard Oil of California and Caterpillar up more than a point each, and a number of oil and industrial stocks fractionally higher for the day. Natomas showed the greatest weakness in losing 1⅞ and hitting a new low at 19¼.

Great Western Power preferred 6s reached a new high at 108, up 1½. Share turnover was 24,890, for which a little more than $600,000 was paid.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (AP)—Prices worked steadily higher in today's curb market, and net advances of 1 to 3 points were numerous. Sales aggregated 615,900 shares.

The limited advance suggested heavy short covering on the big board, for the interest on the curb is mostly limited to a few actively traded issues. Electric Bond and Share, a favorite of curb bears, rose 3 points in heavy trading.

Utilities displayed group strength. American Gas, Electric Power and Light warrants, United Light A, and Hydro-Electric Securities gained 2 to 3 points, and American Superpower gained a point. Oils in the main were firm. Cities Service rose more than a point in active trading, although the shares of Indian Territory, a subsidiary, eased. Most of the Standard shares gained a little, though Standard of Ohio lost 2 points, presumably in response to gasoline price cutting at Cleveland. Houston and Consden each gained a point. In the natural gas group, United Gas was active and firm.

Industrials were generally higher. Atlas Plywood soared up about 6 points. Deere gained 3 and Dow Chemical nearly 2 points. General Aviation and Technicolor rose about a point.

Pampa Farmer tumbled 4 points to a new minimum at 10.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low and both low and close when same as the high.

Wheat Market Continues to Point Higher

CHICAGO, Oct. 20. (AP)—Notable fresh gains in grain values today went hand in hand with a substantial decrease of 3,000,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply figures, the first reduction of another cold wave prediction, number with reports a third successive week of diminished shipments from Canada, remained unthreshed. Reports from Alberta and Saskatchewan, the biggest wheat-producing districts in Canada, remained unthreshed. Rains were reported to strengthen the wheat market. Moreover, some buying of grain appeared to be due to encouragement over unfavorable conditions of securities. Wheat prices at Chicago closed firm, with December 1½ higher than Saturday's finish, corn closed 1⅛@2¼c advance, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 17c.

Higher cables on wheat values at Liverpool were a factor in today's advance of wheat at Chicago. Reports that stocks of wheat were less than a year ago and that there was a decrease of 1,200,000 bushels in the amount of wheat on ocean passage were also bullish factors.

Export prices for wheat were scored as bullish. The United States wheat visible supply figures were reported showing the total decrease had been diminished 1,029,000 bushels in the last week.

Wheat cash prices went higher owing largely to sympathy with wheat strength. Premiums and lower quotations on hogs, provisions were bullish when cereals made material gains.

Miniature Golf Law Signed by Mayor Porter

The ordinance requiring miniature golf courses to close at 12:30 a.m., to shade their lights, and regulating their electric signs, was signed late yesterday by Mayor Porter. It will become effective thirty days after official publication, which is expected tomorrow.

The Association of Miniature Golf Course Owners has threatened to contest the ordinance in the courts or to circulate a referendum petition.

Three Lawyers Cited by Judge for Contempt

Punctuality is one of the prime virtues in the legal profession, Superior Judge Schauer ruled yesterday in citing two attorneys for contempt because they failed to appear in court to represent their clients. He cited a third attorney for contempt for assertedly misrepresenting the facts of a case to him and fined the lawyer $50, which was paid.

John H. Myers is the attorney who was fined for misrepresenting the status of his client. Judge Schauer held that Myers stated his client had never been in trouble before when, in fact, the man was then serving a short term in the County Jail.

C. V. Rude and Ira Brunk were the other lawyers cited. Judge Schauer ordered them to appear before him this morning for hearing.

JUDGE KEETCH TO SPEAK

Superior Judge Keetch will broadcast at 1 p.m. today over station KMTR from the City Hall, speaking on "Obligation of Citizenship."

COUNTY TO SEEK SPEED ON BUILDING

Supervisors Order Survey as Movement to Create Unemployment Remedy

A resolution calling upon all county departmental heads to make a survey of work and building projects which can be speeded up to provide more employment, was adopted yesterday by the Board of Supervisors on motion of Supervisor Beaty.

Chairman Graves, who offered the measure, declared it a fitting action for the county's part in "prosperity week." The resolution adopted is as follows:

"Whereas: Los Angeles county can assist materially in aiding and alleviating the unemployment situation by speeding up projects now under consideration and the advancement of these projects will in no way entail an additional expense to the county, therefore

"Be it resolved that the Board of Supervisors call upon heads of all county departments to conduct surveys of their departments to determine what contemplated work can be started immediately in order to provide employment that otherwise would be held off until after the first of next year."

ZONING HEARING TO END

The final hearing on the zoning of a triangular area of territory in the Palms district will be conducted Friday at 2:30 p.m. in Room 360 of the City Hall, it was announced yesterday by the City Planning Commission. The property involved is bounded by Kelton avenue, the Culver City boundary and a line running from Melvil street and La Cienega Boulevard to National Boulevard and Overland avenue.

MAJ. BIRD GETS ANOTHER TRIAL

Rehearing on Manslaughter Charge Ordered

Murder Accusation Held to Have Been Illegal.

Rights of Defendant Lost, Declares Court

Maj. Owen R. Bird, convicted of manslaughter after a murder trial for the slaying of Percival G. Watson, must be retried on the manslaughter charge, according to a decision handed down yesterday by Division Two, District Court of Appeal.

The decision finds that the prosecution by proceeding to trial on the murder charge after two magistrates had bound over the Los Angeles sportsman on the lesser accusation had violated Maj. Bird's constitutional rights. It is asserted that a person accused of an infamous crime is entitled to a hearing before and a commitment by a magistrate in lieu of an indictment by the grand jury.

CHARGES CHANGED

Maj. Bird was declared to have shot Watson at the Bird home on November 26, 1929. On December 3 of that year, the first murder complaint was filed. After a preliminary hearing, he was ordered held for manslaughter. A new complaint charging murder was filed on January 24, last, and again Bird was ordered to face trial on a manslaughter charge. The prosecution then filed an information charging murder and trial was had on that accusation.

"It is immaterial what the District Attorney thinks the evidence shows," the opinion reads; "the important thing is what does the magistrate judge to be disclosed by that evidence. The District Attorney is elected to prosecute and not to judge."

It is said further:

"We do not believe that the American people have become, or that we should be so insensible, to the liberties of the person as to intrust the accusation and confinement of men to the judgment of the public prosecutor, who, no matter how honest he may be, is naturally biased and prejudiced against the accused from the time he determines to prosecute."

QUESTION ASKED

At another point, the opinion reads:

"The magistrate decided that there was reason to believe the appellant was guilty of manslaughter and not of murder. Perhaps the jury would not have determined he was guilty of manslaughter had he not been tried for murder. Can anyone assert that the defendant was not irreparably and immeasurably damaged by being publicly accused and tried for murder?"

Procedure followed by the prosecution was defended in briefs filed with the court stating that the prosecution was proceeding under a section of the Constitution providing that the District Attorney, after a preliminary hearing, should file an information that "may charge the offense, or offenses, named in the order of commitment or any offense, or offenses, shown by the evidence taken before the magistrate to have been committed."

ILLUSTRATION GIVEN

This provision was found unconstitutional. An illustration was cited whereby a man might be bound over for burglary and informed against for an attack. It was said that under such circumstances a defendant might actually be deprived of the aid of counsel in examining witnesses produced by the prosecution because he might be denied knowledge beforehand of what the District Attorney intends, perhaps secretly, to include in the information.

In reversing the judgment, the Appellate Court issued directions to the trial court, on request, to permit the amendment of the information to make it in accord with the commitment.

Justice Thompson wrote the decision. Presiding Justice Works and Associate Justice Craig concurred.

OIL PERMITS GRANTED

Ordinances permitting J. D. Langford & Co. and J. L. Camp to drill for oil in the Venice district were adopted yesterday by the City Council.

MAN KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

Victim's Wife Also Near Death From Injuries in Crossing Tragedy

Hurled fifty feet in a collision between their automobile and a Pacific Electric freight train N. D. Chiames, 44 years of age, of 838 North Ridgewood Place, Hollywood, suffered fatal injuries at the San Gabriel Boulevard crossing near San Gabriel late yesterday, and his wife was so badly crushed that her death was considered last night to be a matter of hours.

In addition to being completely scalped, Mrs. Chiames suffered a fracture of the spine, a broken left arm and internal injuries.

Chiames's chest was crushed and his skull fractured, and he died soon after being taken to the hospital.

According to the witnesses the wig-wag signal at the crossing was working, but the conclusion reached by the police is that Chiames either did not see it, or decided he could cross in safety.

The motorman of the train, which was made up of eleven cars, was L. E. Roberts, who said later he saw the automobile approaching, but was helpless to avert the collision. The train was traveling at about thirty-five miles an hour, and the automobile at about the same speed, or a little faster, it is said.

Roberts applied the brakes, but struck the automobile, which was then in the middle of the tracks, squarely in the side.

The tonneau of the car was knocked off by the impact. The two victims remained pinned in the debris until the train crew, assisted by spectators, extricated them. Both were unconscious. An ambulance was summoned from Alhambra Emergency Hospital.

Identification of Chiames and his wife was obtained through letters and bills found in his pockets. Capt. R. E. Conly of the Temple City Sheriff's office began an investigation.

G. C. Brown, 55, of 1412½ West One Hundred and Seventh street, received injuries of which he may die when his automobile collided at Ninety-sixth street and Vermont avenue last night with a car driven by Albert Bouvier of 1212 West Seventy-first street.

A hit-and-run motorist struck and instantly killed Mrs. Frederica Bailey, 28, a pedestrian, of 121 West Twenty-eighth street, at Ninth and Lawrence streets last night.

In his frantic haste to escape, the driver abandoned his automobile when traffic impeded his departure and scurried away on foot.

Mrs. Bailey was the wife of Samuel Bailey. Police learned the automobile of the hit-and-run motorist had recently been sold by a dealer in used cars and hope to be able to trace its owner.

OPERA BACKERS' CONTRACTS END

Merle Armitage Not Signed Again as Manager

New Pledges to Be Sought for Future Seasons

Deficit Increases Despite Larger Attendance

Directors of the Los Angeles Grand Opera Association at a meeting held yesterday afternoon, voted to make no new contracts, either for singing artists or for a general manager, until a new group of guarantors has been secured. David T. Babcock, president of the association, in a statement made after the meeting, said that this decision makes it impossible at this time to renew the appointment of Merle Armitage as general manager of the association.

Verbal notice was given to Mr. Armitage last Friday that after ninety days his employment as manager would end, Mr. Babcock said yesterday, but added that the latter may be re-employed when new contracts from the association guarantors are secured.

DEFICIT GROWS

The five-year contracts of the original guarantors of the association ended with the close of the present grand opera season, Mr. Babcock said, and until new ones are written no obligations can be incurred.

"We have just closed an opera season that has been a brilliant artistic success and one that established an attendance record," Mr. Babcock said, "but in spite of the good season we have been through, we were forced to carry over from last year a deficit of approximately $21,000. Although our records are not yet complete, we will probably have a deficit this year of about $11,000.

"In view of this fact and that we are faced with the necessity of securing a new group of guarantors for the next opera season, the directors are not prepared to sign any contracts."

ARMITAGE LAUDED

Mr. Babcock paid a high tribute to the work of Mr. Armitage as manager of the opera association and said that productions given in the season past were proof of his ability.

He explained that the 1930 season was the most ambitious ever undertaken in the city and included productions never before presented here. Complete scenic sets for "Tannhauser," "Salome" and "Girl of the Golden West" were built for the Los Angeles showings and are now the property of the association.

"Our expenses for the 1930 season were necessarily larger," Mr. Babcock said, "by reason of the number of extra rehearsals we gave the players. For one opera alone the cost of the rehearsals was about $6000, spent largely for orchestra payment, but when the opera was finally presented it was truly an artistic success."

PARLEY IN BAY CITY

The future plans of the association, Mr. Babcock said, will not be announced until new contracts from the guarantors have been secured and until after a conference with the San Francisco association which has been co-operating in joint production. Several of the directors, including Mr. Babcock, will leave for San Francisco on Sunday night for the conference.

Mr. Armitage was selected as general manager of the opera association at the time of its formation in 1924 and he was one of the co-founders. He first came to Los Angeles as an impresario in 1921 with the "Beggars Opera," and has since been prominently identified with musical productions.

Auto Accident Awards Made

Judgments of $5000 to Herbert Smith, 15 years of age, and of $2500 to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burt A. Smith, were awarded yesterday by a jury in Superior Judge Craig's court. The verdicts were against the Highland Fruits Company and were for injuries received in an automobile accident on Mines avenue September 8, 1929.

Young Smith's right hand was fractured, and he received injuries to his right eye and right knee. His father suffered internal injuries and Mrs. Smith was injured about the head and neck. The youth sued for $25,000, and his parents for $20,000. Attorney Walter M. Rheinschild appeared for the plaintiffs.

EVERYTHING is going in sweet peace and serenity with our little playmates in Europe.

Rumania is in the midst of some kind of a civil war which doesn't seem to be about anything in particular. Spain is rolling in a near rebellion and is demanding the abdication of the King. Germany is fuming and foaming. The Fascists and the Reds are trying to edge each other off the stage, the better to be able to foment riots.

King Alfonso is the ablest monarch who has occupied a throne in Europe during this generation. He has faced, with courage and equanimity, storms before which any ordinary soul would have fallen. If Spain gets rid of him she will find herself rocking around on wind-swept seas without a rudder.

NOW WE KNOW

At last we have something upon which we can rely as to the propects of the winter rains.

A month ago, all the scientists got together and cerebrated with the result that we were to have a winter of unusually heavy rains. Last week, the same scientists again cerebrated to the point of announcing that the same signs and experiments show that we are going to have a dry winter. There is one great consolation; they can only be wrong once out of the two guesses. What we need is a couple of sacred rain dances with Mayor Porter in a feather headdress and a rattlesnake between his teeth, calling upon the high gods. It always works in Arizona; there is no reason why it should not work here.

OPENING THE DOOR

The assurance that the International Pacific Highway is to be built means the dawn of a new era for California. It opens up the richest territory on the face of the earth—with markets offering possibilities beyond imagination. To the tourist it offers a trip more fascinating than Europe.

For those who do not mind imperfect roads and sometimes crude hotels, this trip will be possible by the autumn of next year. Eventually it will be a system of finished highways. The sooner you go the more color and atmosphere you will see. The tourists will, of course, in the end, take away something of the quaintness.

FLEAGLE'S SWEETHEART LOCATED HERE ADMITS EFFORT TO SAVE KILLER

When death from a gunshot wound forever silenced Jake Fleagle, notorious bandit and murderer, in a hospital in Missouri, it clamped tight the lips of a sweetheart of five years, who has been living under an assumed name in Los Angeles for the past two years.

The black-haired, black-eyed Colorado girl, who cast her lot with the West's most merciless desperado, was located yesterday in a very modest rooming-house, where she is living under an assumed name, and where the landlords knew nothing of the past life of their quiet and unassuming tenant.

"I have nothing to say about my life with Jake," the girl replied after admitting her identity as Beatrice Holden, Grand Junction, Colo., 28-year-old girl and female companion of the bandit for several years.

As onished that she should be discovered in her hide-out, the girl declared that she was unknown to the owners of the boarding-house on West Twenty-seventh street, except as a modest young lady seeking employment as a milliner.

"Be careful what you say," she entreated, "if my true identity is known I would be forced to move, and I haven't the finances."

She would not discuss the days and nights spent with Fleagle in the most exclusive hotels and apart-

PHONES TO HOOK UP WORLD

Bell Laboratories Chief Tells Electric Club About Proposed Linking of All Wire Systems

BY RANSOME SUTTON

World-wide telephony—by which man may maintain conversation between any two points on the earth—was predicted yesterday by Dr. Frank B. Jewett, director of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, in an address before the Electric Club at its weekly luncheon in the Biltmore. The feat, he said, will be accomplished by a linking together of all the networks in the world.

Telephone engineers working in the Bell laboratories, he said, are concentrating on the perfection of such a hook-up, not to perform a stunt but to attain a goal they have set as part of their business program. The dream will be realized "as soon as possible," the speaker stated.

Many members of the Telephone Pioneers of America, holding their first meeting here, about 100 guests and close to 400 members of the Electric Club heard the address. The Telephone Pioneers' organization is made up of those who have been with the Bell company for at least twenty-one years.

Cross-country service, Dr. Jewett explained, did not become practical until twenty years ago. Up to that time, it was regarded as an achievement to transmit the voice a distance of 1000 miles. Since then, two main milestones in electrical transmission have been passed. The first had to do with "loading" of lines, and the second with amplifiers.

A wire, it seems, will not carry a message over extensive distances without amplifiers. You can shout into the receiver, and the message starts off with a bang, but gradually quiets down and arrives at

JURY TO OPEN WALKUP QUIZ

Helen Lee Expected to Tell How She Was Hired to Help "Frame" Police Commissioner

Under the direction of Chief Deputy District-Attorney Stewart more than a dozen witnesses today will give to the grand jury their versions of the asserted plot to "frame" Police Commissioner Walkup. The investigation, according to Stewart, will probably take all day and no other business has been scheduled for the grand jury.

According to statements already in the hands of the authorities the witnesses to be called will tell of the inception of an asserted plot which was to have as its climax the arrest of Walkup on a morals charge while in a compromising situation with Helen Lee, a pretty blond.

Miss Lee, who was arrested a number of weeks ago, will be the first witness to tell her story to the grand jury. Stewart said yesterday. The young woman has already informed the authorities that she was hired at $5 a day to lure Walkup into her apartment and bring about his arrest.

Other witnesses, according to Stewart, will tell the grand jury of efforts on the part of a City Hall official to engage another woman to play the part assumed by Miss Lee. She was told, according to her story, that after the Walkup "job" was completed, two other city commissioners were to be "framed."

When the investigation was first put under way a number of weeks ago Conner M. Shawn and Edward S. Ward, two men named by Miss Lee as having had a leading part in the asserted plot, fled from the city and up to yesterday had not been located.

Chief of Detectives Taylor, with Detectives James, McMullin and Nolan have gathered most of the evidence to be presented today.

ment-houses from Seattle to San Diego, where they spent money with a free hand and left a trail of ill-gotten currency from the robbery of the First National Bank of Lamar, Colo., in May, 1928.

Fleagle and his gang, who became known as the "wolf pack" obtained $212,000 in the robbery, which brought death to two bank officials, and the leader, according to police, fled to San Francisco, accompanied by Beatrice, who then became known as the "bandit queen."

Only a studied silence, after deep concentration, answered a request for information on her attempts to save Fleagle from the gallows through a plan to surrender to the authorities and serve a life sentence in a Federal penitentiary.

LETTERS AID CAPTURE

The girl tightened her lips anew, when it was revealed that her love letters to Fleagle had paved the way for his capture and death. She admitted that she had conferred with officials over the probabilities of her sweetheart's surrender, but hatred and revenge flashed across her countenance and it was evident that she had unwittingly led him into the law's trap.

Authorities admitted that they had intercepted correspondence between Fleagle and his sweetheart here that finally marked more plain a trail that they had been following for months. She was endeavoring to get Fleagle to return to California and make his home, according to the police. They also intimated that his love had cooled somewhat after he and she spent their fortune in high living, and that Fleague wanted to remain in his more or less secure habitat in the mountains.

CAPTORS RETURN

Detective Lieutenant Harry Wilde with Detective Lieutenant Chester Lloyd and Postoffice Inspector Kline returned yesterday from their trip which resulted in the capture and fatal shooting of Fleagle, last of the Fleagle "wolf pack" in Bronson, Mo., last Tuesday.

Wilde in telling of the shooting said:

"While Fleagle was, perhaps, ten times wore merciless than any of the notorious old-time bandits ever hoped to be, he was, at the same time, one of the gamest men I ever saw. He was the only man in my experience as a police officer who refused to reach for the sky when I told him to. I don't like shooting men but it was a case of him or me and he got some of his own medicine."

TRACED TO OZARKS

Fleagle was shot by Wilde and died the next day. He was wanted for many bank robberies and for the cold-blooded murder of four men. His brother and two members of his pack were hanged in Colorado a year ago for the same crimes. Fleagle had often boasted he would not be taken alive.

He was traced to the little Ozark Mountain town by the Los Angeles officers after a year's search by Colorado and Kansas officers had failed.

"I first saw him on the station platform," continued Wilde. "He boarded the day coach and Lloyd and I moved toward the door to meet him as he entered the aisle. He walked in and brushed against me as he was about to pass.

"I jammed him up against a seat with my knee and at the same time told him I was an officer. I had taken my revolver from my belt and had it grasped in my right hand.

DEFIANCE SNARLED

"Fleagle glared at me an instant and then with a snerl snatched for his own gun which he carried in a loose pocket holster. I jammed him harder against the seat and told him to stick his hands up.

"'I won't do it!' he snarled and pulled his gun out with a jerk. Almost at the same instant I fired and Fleagle doubled up like a jack-knife. That was the end for him. Except during an operation he was conscious until he died and all he seemed to care for was that his mother might reach him before he passed out."

GLAB PARTY ENDS IN FIGHT

House of Mysterious Murder Scene of Fracas; Two Men Injured Decline to File Complaints

Unwillingness by persons involved to sign complaints last night made a closed incident, as far as police are concerned, of the so-called free-for-all fight which early yesterday resulted in injury to two unbidden guests at an all-night party in the Ventura Boulevard home of Mrs. Hazel Glab, widow of John I. Glab, wealthy druggist, who was slain mysteriously two years ago.

Those injured in the melee are A. M. Day, scenario writer, Rose Garden Court, Hollywood, and D. H. McMillan, Savoy Hotel. Both were treated for minor head lacerations at the North Hollywood Receiving Hospital but declined to make charges.

When police reached the Glab home at 12744 Ventura Boulevard in response to calls from neighbors they found the place in a state of disorder, they reported, and Mrs. Glab hysterical. Day and McMillan were nursing their hurts, assisted by Ray Allen, chauffeur for Day.

Mrs. Glab told Capt. Canto of Van Nuys division that she and Mrs. Bessie Burke, 921 South Angeleno avenue, Burbank, were entertaining some friends when Day, McMillan, Allen and another man arrived uninvited and helped themselves to the refreshments. This precipitated an argument which waxed hotter as the evening wore on and finally ended in the defeat of Day and McMillan and flight by their assailants.

Mrs. Glab's husband, a former Chicago druggist, was shot to death in front of the Ventura Boulevard residence in June, 1928. His unidentified slayer has never been captured.

TELEVISION CLASSED AS MERE TOY

Dr. Jewett of Telephone Laboratory Discusses Future of Radio

PASADENA, Oct. 20. (Exclusive) Many claims have been made for television which are absurd, Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, declared last night at the monthly meeting of the University Club of Pasadena, in its clubhouse.

"There is no possibility either television or radio will replace the telephone. The element of privacy or the lack of it is one reason. And another is that the channels of the air could never bear the communications traffic.

Many eminent men in science were among Dr. Jewett's auditors, including Dr. Albert A. Michelson, regarded as one of the world's foremost physicists, now engaged in checking his former findings concerning the speed of light. Dr. Michelson at one time taught Dr. Jewett at the University of Chicago.

Present, too, was Dr. Robert A. Millikan, who introduced Dr. Jewett at last night's meeting, and paid him warm tribute.

"It is, of course, inconceivable there will be a time when we will not have the telephone," said Dr. Jewett. "Television is merely an interesting toy in which scientists see no great possibilities. The best television has to offer at present is so poor it is worse than the motion picture was twenty years ago.

"As for radio, it was thought for a time short-wave radio might replace the telephone. But the short wave is extremely unreliable; sometimes it will work and at other times it will not.

"And, of course, radio cannot offer the privacy that is required. It is possible for anyone with sufficient knowledge to build a radio that can tune in on any radio communication."

Dr. Charles E. St. John presided at the meeting, which before adjournment paid high tribute to Dr. George Ellery Hale, who was responsible for the establishment here of the Mt. Wilson Observatory. Dr. Hale was prevented by illness from being present, and on motion of Dr. Franklin Thomas the meeting voted to send him a message of friendship and sympathy, thanking him for his services as one of the most valued members of the University Club.

Earlier today Dr. Jewett told the students of California Institute of Technology in a formal address that a telephone cable soon may be laid under the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR MANN ACT PLEADER

After pleading guilty yesterday before United States District Judge Kerrigan to a charge of violating the Mann Act, Clarence J. Leaton was sentenced to six months in the County Jail. It was charged by the government that Leaton transported Evelyn Gertrude Scrivens from Brookfield, Mo., to Daggett, Cal.

ELECTRICAL STOVE BIDS REQUESTED

Supervisors Consider Use of Them Instead of Gas Ranges in New Hospital

That electricity may be used in the place of gas for cooking at the acute unit of the new General Hospital was indicated yesterday when the Board of Supervisors ordered bids to be advertised for on light and heavy power ranges.

The action followed reading of a communication from the Los Angeles Bureau of Power and Light calling attention to the advantages of electric stoves for the culinary department of a large institution like the new $11,500,000 hospital.

The board has received bids on light and heavy gas ranges, but will hold them until bids have been received on the electric equipment in order to compare the prices.

Four bids on equipment were opened yesterday. They are as follows:

Kitchen equipment: Dorham Hotel and Supply Company, $38,466.60.

Steamers and kettles: Dorham Hotel and Supply Company, $42,743.16.

Dish washing machines: Dorham Hotel and Supply Company, $13,357.65; the O. S. Blakesley Company, $11,664.74.

No bids were received on scales and meat racks, which had been asked.

The supervisors also opened bids on fifteen new galvanized portable houses, 12 by 16 feet, to be used by patrolmen of the flood control district during the rainy season. The bids receivede were from the following:

National Tank Company, $2970; Nigg Engineering Company, $3675; Fred P. Greenfield, $2985; R. A. Miller, $3720; Brombacher Iron Works, $4930.

The bid of R. A. Miller was not signed, and therefore was not accepted.

The board also opened the only bid received on supplying the flood control district with 50,000 burlap bags, which are used, filled with sand, in times of an emergency when dikes and levees break. The bid was from the Remis Brothers Bag Company and was $4000.

ANTICIPATE INCREASE IN CITRUS CROP

Fifty Per Cent Gain Over This Year's Output Said to Be in Prospect Now

Next year's California citrus crop will be increased approximately 50 per cent over this season's movement, closing the end of this month, it was learned yesterday from C. O. Cornwell, traffic manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, on his return on the Los Angeles Limited from Middle Western traffic centers. Mr. Cornwell made arrangements with Union Pacific officials at Omaha and Chicago for handling the increased movement anticipated for next year.

Present estimates show that California's citrus crop next year will equal or exceed the 75,000 carloads moved in 1928-1929, Mr. Cornwell announced comparative figures showing this year's movement to date to have been 51,401 cars, or 38,493 cars of oranges, 1141 cars of grapefruit and 12,767 cars of lemons. In 1928-1929 there were 75,177 cars, or 60,114 cars of oranges, 826 of grapefruit, and 14,237 of lemons.

There was an increase of approximately 300 cars of grapefruit.

The California Fruit Growers' Exchange markets 75 per cent of the entire State's crop and has increased acreage for next season, Mr. Cornwell was accompanied by his wife and their daughter Ann.

Defense Counsel Assert Supreme Court Should Not Review Reversal

Replying to the State's appeal for a hearing by the Supreme Court in the case of Alexander Pantages, theater man, granted a new trial on a charge of having attacked Eunice Pringle, counsel for Pantages yesterday declared that the conclusions of fact and law arrived at by the Appellate Court as a basis for its decision are in accordance with reason, common sense, legal precedent, fairness and justice.

It is declared that there is "no urgent reason or necessity why this court should review the findings of the Appellate Court in this instance."

SOUTHLAND LITERATURE MAY GET DISTINCTIVE TYPE

Day-dreaming played a part in giving America one of its most noted designers of type faces.

Frederic William Goudy of Marlborough-on-Hudson, New York, who has designed about sixty type faces, made this revelation yesterday at the Biltmore when he was asked about his early endeavors.

"I designed my first type face way back in 1895," said Goudy. "I was just sitting at a window and whiled away the time by drawing a few capital letters. I thought it was a pity to waste them; so, I sent them to a Boston type foundry."

Goudy said he was surprised when he received a check for $10. Now Goudy is an authority on type faces.

Mrs. Goudy, who is accompanying her husband, is an experienced compositor.

Creation of a type face expressive of the Spanish traditions of Southern California, and to be used in the printing of the literature of Southern California, was forecast at a dinner last night at the Alexandria given in Mr. Goudy's honor by the Los Angeles Master Printers' Association together with the Los Angeles Club of Printing House Craftsmen and the southern division of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association.

The suggestion for a distinctive type face to be used in Southern California came when Roscoe M. Breeden, one of the dinner guests, asked Mr. Goudy to design the type. Mr. Goudy answered the request indirectly. He said:

"A good type face is designed without conscious effort to copy any previous face, but with that unconscious force of balance that must go with any good design.

"Perhaps I would have to come to Southern California and get inoculated with the climate before I could get started on a Southern California type design."

BUILDING BLAST CLEW RUN DOWN

Police to Question Plumber Who Made Alterations

Accident or Design Verdict Hinges on Pipe Cap

Repair Workman Yesterday Added to Casualties

Investigation into the causes of the explosion of illuminating gas that wrecked the Garment Capitol Building, 217 East Eighth street, last Friday narrowed down last night, the police said, to a search for a plumber known to have worked on the gas fixtures of the building a few months ago.

This man, when located, Detective Lieutenant Kotzenberger declared, will be able to tell the authorities whether an outlet from the main gas line on the fifth floor, where the explosion originated, was capped at the time a steam boiler, heated by gas, was moved to the eighth floor.

ONLY CHANGE

The moving of the boiler, the detective asserted, was the only operation involving the use of gas fixtures on the fifth floor since the place was occupied eighteen months ago by the Beverly Hills Frocks Shop. If the plumber, who is expected to be located today, reports that he capped the pipe, the search will then concentrate on finding who removed the cap since the removal of the boiler. There was no stop in the pipe at the time of the explosion and the valve connecting the smaller pipe with the main gas line was open.

So far the investigating officers have been forced to work without the benefit of any information that Hyman Schulman, proprietor of the Beverly Hills Frocks Shop, may be able to give them. Schulman and I. Chavin, a presser, were both on the fifth floor of the Garment Capitol Building at the time of the blast and are still so seriously ill from burns and shock that physicians have declined to let them be interviewed. At the Hollywood Hospital it was declared that perhaps several days more will elapse before the condition of the injured men will warrant their being interviewed.

TOLL ADDED TO

Another name yesterday was added to the list of those injured as a result of the explosion.

A fragment from the wall on the fifth floor of the wrecked building fell on Robert Exum, 20 years of age, of 381 Glendale Boulevard, one of a crew of workmen repairing the building, badly injuring his back and causing internal injuries. He was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

TELEPHONES TO HOOK UP WORLD

the end of a long line as a whisper—unless amplified several times en route.

"The great transmission problem today," said Dr. Jewett, "is to connect the telephone networks on opposite sides of the oceans, so as to bring the whole world in telephonic touch. How can it be done? Amplifiers cannot be installed and maintained along the cables on the ocean's floor. New transmission and insulating materials will have to be invented and that's what we are doing, with promise of success.

"Radio channels lack the reliability demanded by business. The radio serves sufficiently well for social and general communications, but business demands exactitude, and that is the business of the telephone companies. World-wide telephony, not as a stunt or pastime, but as business, is the aim of the work we are doing in the Bell laboratories."

The Bell Telephone Laboratories, located in New York City, employ between 4000 and 5000 experts.

Dr. Jewett was born in Pasadena and educated in the old Throop Polytechnic Institute, now the California Institute of Technology. His parents live in Alhambra. "This convention to me," he said, "means a trip back home."

penny of money paid for any wrongful purpose or that he or the members of his office force were ever wrongfully inuenced in the performance of their duties.

"Interviews with every official connected with the Corporation Department under the administration of Mr. Friedlander have established the fact that in no instance was any official influenced in the performance of his duty by any suggestion from Mr. Friedlander or any other person in the office. All of the matters concerned in this case were handled in the ordinary course of business and passed upon in the sole discretion of the official in the department to whom such matters were addressed, without extraneous influence of any kind.

"The dismissal, of course, is a gratifying termination of the action and in itself establishes the fact that there was no evidence of personal guilt against Mr. Friedlander. It was the absence of such proof that induced the dismissal of the action."

Defense Attorneys Jerry Geisler and Otto Christianson for Crawford had no comment to make.

AND POWDER MUST BLEND WITH THE SKIN
THE natural skin tone you hear so much about today cannot be had with bargain counter powder. For in this day and age no sophisticated woman relies on her powder box for color. Color must come first and the powder that goes on top must actually blend with the skin . . . That new Beige powder from Primrose House is the favorite in smart circles today because it is exactly the right shade and texture for that natural effect. So fine, it actually becomes a part of the skin. It does not cake or clog the pores nor does it ever leave the face spotty or hard as do the very light or extra dark shades. Costly? Perhaps. But you can easily learn its worth by buying a dollar's worth of this $3 powder. In bonze, $1 and $2. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York City

OF THE COMMUNITY CHEST

PAUL D. HOWSE SAYS:

"The almost entire absence of begging charities and of actual beggars on the streets of Los Angeles is, I believe, to be attributed to the splendid work of the Community Chest. This condition does not exist today and the business interests of this city can well afford to fill the coffers of the Community Chest, knowing that the funds are being properly disbursed and that there will be no annoyance from charity solicitors as a result.

"We must remember that during business stagnation, the call on our charities is heavier than usual and the tendency of donors is to cut their subscriptions. This must not be done. Let us all increase our subscriptions where we can."

Ex-Champion Selected to Direct Casino Venture at Ensenada, Mex.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, was elected president yesterday of the Hotel and Casino Playa Ensenada at a meeting of the board of directors of that company, which will shortly open a modern hotel and casino at the Mexican coast resort. He succeeds Martin J. Healy of San Diego, who became treasurer and chairman of the board of directors.

Immediately after his election yesterday he left for Ensenada accompanied by Spencer Penrose, owner of the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, who is also a large stockholder in the Mexican venture and is having a home built near the casino.

He went to arrange all details for the formal opening of the hotel and casino, which will take place on the night of the 31st inst.

The company which owns the enterprise includes both Mexicans and Americans among its stockholders and it has obtained a twenty-year concession from the Mexican Federal government for the operation of the casino. In addition to operating the hotel and casino it will also operate a new steamship company which will run ships to Ensenada from San Diego and Los Angeles Harbor.

The new steamship company is to be known as Liberty Line. The first sailing under the flag of this line will be that of the steamship Ensenada from San Diego on Friday. This ship will make daily trips. The line has purchased the steamship Commodore and is reconditioning it with the intention of putting it into service between Los Angeles and Ensenada within about two months. It will sail from this port three times a week. The Pacific Steamship Company has withdrawn the steamship Admiral Rogers from the Alaskan service and will operate it between Los Angeles and Ensenada, leaving here every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The steamships Ruth Alexander and Emma Alexander will continue to make their week-end voyages to Ensenada.

INFLUX OF TOURISTS INCREASES

Out-of-State Automobiles Entering California Show Gain Over Period

A total of 633,496 tourists from other States arrived in California by motor car alone from January 1 to September 30, this year, it was announced yesterday by Don Thomas, executive secretary of the All-Year Club, Southern California's national tourist advertising organization.

"This shows a net increase this year of 18,169 motor tourists, or 2.9 per cent over the corresponding nine months last year," said Mr. Thomas.

"Local business executives have been impreseed at the tourist business measuring up so well this year in comparison with other lines of business activities.

"During September, 76,664 tourists in 29,261 autos with licenses of other States arrived in California. These totals are the result of accurate checks made at the twenty-five inspection stations at the State's borders by the California Department of Agriculture. The figures do not include California cars returning to the State."

Results of Los Angeles Business Confidence Week Movement Stimulate Others, Wire Reports

Inspired by the success of the inauguration of Business Confidence Week at the meeting of associated service clubs, the Chamber of Commerce and similar organizations here last Friday, the movement for a resumption of the return of business prosperity is spreading throughout the entire United States. A telegram from headquarters of the Lions International, which suggested the movement, sent to Harry Stevens, local secretary of the Lions, by Melvin Jones, international secretary, reads:

"Extend congratulations of Lions is using 20,000 posters to the same effect; 2500 street cars in Chicago are bannered with similar sentiments, which thirty-eight Lions' clubs there are backing up, issuing special newspaper editions and decorating autos and display windows.

Secretary Steven reports that work here "has only begun." A thousand street-car cards are to be placed this week, many large stores and theaters are to use slogans in their advertisements and on screens, and all this week, the keynotes of the service-club luncheons will carry out the same idea.

Los Angeles is the only city that broadened the plan to include all the service clubs and civic organizations. The work will be continued here throughout this week to bring about the desired result of renewing confidence in business generally and making true the local slogan: "Buy More, Hire More."

This low price is made possible because, more than a year ago, a committee of carpet experts representing a great association of retail stores of which Bullock's is a member approached a well-known manufacturer of Broadloom and offered him a standing order of thousands of yards if he would meet their specifications. He committed himself to exacting standards and because he could manufacture this Broadloom in this large quantity, he could and did reduce his price to a minimum, after which Bullock's added to value by reducing Bullock's mark-up to a minimum, too!

BACK TO THE FARM

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has bought a 150-acre farm near Princeton, in New Jersey. But that does not mean that he is going to be a rancher. The tract may yet blossom out into a private landing field for the Lindbergh family.

MONEY FOR GERMANY

New York bankers expect to handle the better part of an issue of $125,000,000 of short-term paper being placed by the German Reichsbank. A lot of Germans would like to repudiate all the nation's obligations, but it is promised that this bunch of notes will be cared for on the dot.

SEEN IN MOSCOW

Moscow now may boast of an American newspaper. It is an eight-page affair and is issued every five days. The publisher is Anna Louise Strong, an American writer and lecturer, who is supposed to be an authority on Russian subjects. There are now some 2000 trade and industrial specialists from America in the Moscow district and it is supposed that this class will supply the support for the publication. The visitor in Moscow will get quite a thrill in being able to find a paper that he can read.

EARTH IS FLAT

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, who still insists that the earth is flat, is making a journey over it to prove that he is right. He went west from Chicago and if he comes back to the city from the east side it would seem to be evidence of the rotundity of the world. But not to Wilbur. He stopped in Vancouver long enough to offer a reporter $5000 if he could prove to his satisfaction that the earth was really round. He is going to be mighty hard to satisfy. He knows the world is on the level because that is the way it looks to him.

PEDESTRIAN DEATHS

Nation-wide records received by the California State Automobile Association show that 55 per cent of the motor vehicle fatalities last year were those of pedestrians. This means that 16,500 people were killed in traffic during that period, as approximately 30,000 were slain in all.

While many of the agencies sending in the reports lay most of the blame upon the motorists, others place it upon the pedestrians, saying that they did not exercise sufficient care in crossing streets or highways. If walkers would observe so simple and obvious a rule as that of looking to the left before starting across a street and to the right on approaching the center there would be far less fatalities. But many do not seem to look anywhere save straight ahead, which is a very dangerous manner of proceeding, particularly while there are so many careless drivers whisking around corners or trying to beat the stop signals.

Then, too, there is frequently an element of uncertainty as to which shall take precedence, the motorist or the person afoot. Drivers complain that even after they have made definite and repeated hand signals for the pedestrian to go ahead he often will not do so, but hangs back in a way that leaves the driver, in doubt as to what to do. But it is always safer for a person caught in a traffic tangle to stand still and allow the cars to proceed than it is to dodge back and forth. When the way is clear he may proceed without hesitation.

It is a frightful commentary upon the lack of caution in driving and walking that as many as 16,500 pedestrians should have lost their lives in the traffic in this country in a single year. If there is an element in the conservation of human life upon which expert attention should be centered it is this.

USURY LAW INITIATIVE

The attempt to amend the California usury law through an initiative measure appearing as Proposition No. 10 on the November ballot is being actively opposed by many organizations and individuals solely concerned with the economic dangers and evils which usurious practices entail.

Those sponsoring the amendment deny any intent to break down existing safeguards against excessive interest charges. It is asserted by them that the existing law is full of ambiguities, and while such criticism in some respects is justified, there is good reason to fear that the proposed changes would intensify rather than remedy the known defects of the statute.

On the whole the present law accomplishes the specific purpose for which it was enacted—prevention of the outrageous practices of the usurer. Many of the contradictions and much of the indefinite character of certain provisions of the law have been ironed out by judicial decisions and the law as now interpreted is understandable, workable and, for the most part, equitable both to the borrower and the lender.

W. H. Workman, president of the Morris Plan Company, a financial institution specializing in comparatively small loans for moderate interest, advocates defeat for Proposition No. 10, explaining that the present law, in effect for nine years, meets all basic requirements of the borrower and the lender. This organization declined to join in supporting the proposed amendment and was unable, upon investigation, to discover any satisfactory account of the origin and specific purposes of the proposal, its president declares.

Under the law now on the statute books the legal rate of interest may not exceed 12 per cent a year, and when this rate is operative the conditions under which it is determined must be stated in writing. Under the proposed amendment this vital protection is eliminated and opportunity is afforded for countless pretexts for violating or evading any fixed or fair interest rate.

A provision contained in the amendment prohibiting a corporation from enjoying the protection of the usury statute is calculated to work disadvantageously to large users of credit and capital. Building loans are virtually exempted from the requirements of the usury law, thus leaving the building industry—one of the most important activities in California—at the mercy of the money lender.

Further opportunity for grave abuse is found in a clause making it impossible for the borrower to save unnecessary interest charges by paying off loans before they fall due, the proposed change permitting the lender to collect interest for the full period of the loan.

There is no general need for revision of the usury law—a fact in itself sufficient to justify defeat for Proposition No. 10. Added to this, is the ever-present danger of writing back into the California statutes a loophole for practices which intelligence, morality and humanity condemn.

Such changes in the usury law as may be required should come through legislative action after careful and disinterested discussion and conference and study. They should not come as the result of initiative proceedings originating with and sponsored by the legal and interested representatives of certain lenders of money.

The Times very strongly urges defeat for the usury initiative. It is entirely in the interests of the lender. It is unnecessary, it is dangerous, it is discriminatory.

RESULTS FOLLOW QUICKLY

A temporary but passable road across the barrancas of the west coast of Mexico, to be built immediately, is the first fruits of the International Pacific Highway Conference conducted here last week. This road will close the worst gap in the highway from the American border to Mexico City, and travel over it will be possible, it is promised, within a year. Such travel will accentuate the desirability of the paved highway that will follow and will influence the public to demand its early completion.

Extension of the road south from Mexico City, through Central America, and its linking with the South American roads that eventually will be knitted into a unified highway extending from Alaska to Argentina, is another part of the program. The section of the Mexican link that is now promised is one of the most difficult on the entire route.

As a result of the conference, every Mexican State through which the highway will pass has pledged every effort to put it through, and provision was made immediately in the budget of Nayarit for as much of the cost as that rather slightly populated and not wealthy region can afford. Federal assistance and aid from other States are expected to supply the remainder. Jalisco, the other barranca State, is able financially to take care of its part of the program, it was said.

Such results fully justify the conference and make its date one likely to be recorded in history as a time when the first practical steps were taken in a very important international accomplishment.

MILTON A. McRAE

Raphael Herman's beautiful tribute to the late Col. Milton McRae, which appears in another column of this page, will be read sympathetically by thousands of friends of the great publisher and by all who appreciate his services in the cause of American journalism. There is nothing to be added to and nothing to be taken from the glowing words of Mr. Herman as an exquisite valediction to his lost and loved friend. The wreath of laurel he thus places on the grave of an old comrade is in itself perfect and complete.

His prose-poem of farewell, however, will quicken the sentiment of all who read it for those, whether in a conspicuous or in a humble position, who are trying—as Col. McRae did through a long newspaper career—to exalt the public press into something bigger and better than a mere recital of sensational news items. Such was the endeavor and such was the success of Milton A. McRae when he took over the management of the Scripps-Howard newspaper syndicate and sent its products into the homes of millions of Americans in a form that was above fear and above reproach.

From the city of Detroit, where he started his life work as a reporter on the Detroit Tribune, to the city of San Diego, where he made himself a home for his declining years, the conspicuous fighter for the cleanest in public print and the straightest in telling the story of world events has received many appropriate eulogies and encomiums. They have come not only from his colleagues on the Scripps-Howard newspapers, but from an even greater number who have benefited from the patriotic and philanthropic efforts to which he devoted his spare hours and the fruits of his industry.

Raphael Herman's last word on how much Col. McRae did to leave the world better than he found it adds to the tributes which have gone before a resonant personel note of affection, "the touch of nature" that "makes the whole world kin."

CIVIC REPERTORY THEATER

Season tickets and subscriptions are now on sale for the 1930-1931 theatrical season to be given by the Bowl Theater Association, which is sponsoring the Civic Repertory Theater. The success and extension of this truly civic and noncommercial movement depend upon the response of Los Angeles patrons of letters and arts to the efforts of its sponsors. Their aim is to do for Los Angeles what the Theater Guild has done for New York; to produce fine drama of real cultural value at prices within the reach of everyone.

Drama in its highest form can no longer be produced on a paying basis in America unless it is subsidized by those who believe its cultural asset makes it worth the price. If Los Angeles is to have drama of this description—from which rich and poor alike may reap the benefit—it must follow the example of eastern cities; it must establish a civic theater and support it by generous subscriptions for its season tickets. A repertory theater managed along these lines is more than an amusement show house—it is an educational institution.

For the coming season the Bowl Theater Association has secured the productions of such well-known playwrights as George Bernard Shaw, John Galsworthy, Norman MacOwen, C. K. Munroe and Anton Tchekov, with the special portrayal as a holiday offering of Barrie's immortal "Peter Pan." Los Angeles has resources in acting and directing personnel unsurpassed even in New York itself and these will be drawn on freely for filling the leading roles.

The Civic Repertory Theater is a cultural and educational asset for Los Angeles and in every way worthy of support.

THE LEE SIDE O' L.A.

By Lee Shippey

GOOD times or bad times, Southern California keeps growing prodigiously. When times are good elsewhere in the country, people invest part of their profits in a visit to this land of romance and many of them decide to stay. When times are bad elsewhere and they are out of work, they say: "Well, there's nothing to do here. Let's go to California."

Recently we told how a period of depression in the East, years ago, caused a group of Indianans to decide to come to California—and the result was the founding of Pasadena.

The other day a dispatch from Redlands told that many impecunious automobile tourists were being helped in Redlands and San Bernardino. Just as people used to get into covered wagons and set out with the slogan of "California or bust," now they get into flivvers, even though nearly busted at the start. It is the new hegira, not in response to any chamber of commerce or All-Year Club publicity, but in spite of it. The chambers of commerce and kindred organizations do everything in their power to discourage such immigration. But nothing can stop it. California has become America's land of golden dreams.

And though many of the dreamers will have sad awakenings, eventual good will come of it. Destitute home-seekers were a problem here in the seventies and eighties, but out of it evolved the California of today.

Not Invited

Yesterday we visited an auto camp in the fringes of Los Angeles and found ample evidence that this new hegira really is a far bigger thing than the old hegiras were. It took only a few hundred people to make up a great and historic caravan in the days of covered wagons, caravans about which books and plays are written now. But today thousands can rattle along in motor cars and hardly attract attention. These new invaders are not burdened with household goods as were the pioneers. They are the lightest of light housekeepers. They do not bring along herds and implements. Many of them arrive with empty hands and almost empty stomachs. And tied, strapped or wired to many a flivver are all the possessions of their owners.

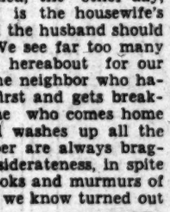
We wish it were otherwise. We wish they would stay among their friends. We know many of them are going to suffer. We don't see how we can care for all of them. But they are here and coming fast.

Wasted Air-Mail Stamps

Every day a number of Angelenos who want to send letters from downtown to Hollywood or to Pasadena or some other near-by community in a hurry stick air-mail stamps on them and trustingly drop them into letter boxes—and get them back next day for restamping. For air-mail stamps are not good on letters going to places to which no air-mail service exists. If you want to send a local letter in a hurry the best plan is to put on special delivery stamps and then sometimes it is hurried.

A Daniel Come to Judgment

Selective immigration is what we need in California. The man we ought to try to get first is that Chicago judge who ruled, the other day, that the kitchen is the housewife's private realm and the husband should keep out of it. We see far too many men in kitchens hereabout for our ease of mind. The neighbor who habitually gets up first and gets breakfast and the one who comes home from work and washes up all the dishes after supper are always bragging of their considerateness, in spite of our warning looks and murmurs of "Ssh!" One chap we know turned out a big washing the other day while his wife was in the city shopping. It's getting so that pretty soon the appropriate Christmas gift for father won't be slippers and a smoking set, but a couple of big kitchen aprons.



New Terrors of Death

The great men of a bygone day,
When they were due to pass away,
Could feel serene and blest,
Sure men would say they'd done their stuff
With honesty and skill enough
To well deserve a rest.

But now when dissolution nears
The worst of terrors, dreads and fears
The hearts of great men stir
For once they're safely past reply
Their records will be pounced on by
Some fake "biographer."

BYRON DUDD.

Joshua Little Says

A song popular with radio artists tells of a fellow's yearning for the time when he went barefoot and wore patches on his pants. Golly, that's just what I'm trying to dodge!

A river never causes much trouble till it gets on a rampage. So it's queer those Mississippi States don't move all the rampages out of their reach at about this time of year.

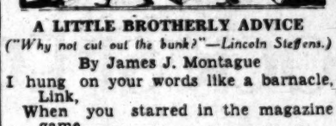
The last man I would ask for a cool, sane, unprejudiced view of a fellow would be some one in whose face he had just slammed a door.

The man about to be hanged, who remarked: "This will be a great lesson to me," also was convinced that experience is the best teacher.

I suppose they call it the root of all evil because a fellow has to dig for it.

NO CALL FOR WAR

Sometimes judges have refused, but in an Ohio court a woman was admitted to American citizenship after she had announced her refusal to fight for her country. The judge figured that there wouldn't be any scrap and if there should be it is not the business of a lady to fight the battles of the nation.



A LITTLE BROTHERLY ADVICE

("Why not cut out the bunk?"—Lincoln Steffens.)

By James J. Montague

I hung on your words like a barnacle, Link,
When you starred in the magazine game,
And declared civic virtue had gone on the blink,
And the cities were sodden with shame.
But though scoundrels and grafters still followed their trade
Reaping ill-gotten gains by the bale,
I always was strong for the fight that you made
To put big offenders in jail.
Yet when you cry angrily: "Bunk must be cut!"
I cannot refrain from observing: "Tut! Tut!"

Dear friend of my youth, we are children no more,
And we both ought to know, at our age,
Although virtuous people may wail and deplore
And the righteous may thunder and rage,
The bunk is ingrained in the flesh and the bone,
It has lasted through stress and through storm,
You will find it is wiser to let it alone—
It is one thing you cannot reform.
Remember Canute, when he vainly defied
The nearer approach of the incoming tide!

Perhaps, in the course of a few hundred years
By diligent effort, men may
Put a curb on the will of the rude racketeers
And hold the gross grafters at bay.
But not, in the furthermost march of events
That the keenest of eyes can foresee,
Will they ever eradicate sham and pretense
(I confess that I find both in me!)
For the bunk has its home in the vain human heart,
And what you can't finish, you'd better not start.

TRIBUTE TO COL. MILTON A. McRAE

BY RAPHAEL HERMAN

No spoken or written word, but silence—deep, meditative and sacred—is really the only tribute I should pay to the memory of my departed friend and mentor, Col. Milton A. McRae.

Nevertheless, I wish to express a sentiment or two in appreciation of his friendship and kindness to me. As the coffin containing his remains was borne out of his home in San Diego, and forever removed his genial and kindly face from view, thoughts upon thoughts surged through my mind, struggling for expression.

I could hardly realize that his lips, which had been so eloquent in defense of righteousness and had spoken so many kindly words, are now sealed in eternal silence—that his countenance, so expressive and magnetic, is wrapped in the pallor of death—that his heart, that throbbed with love and sympathy and generosity, has been brought to a standstill. I cannot realise that he has been taken from us forever.

Not only I, but the whole nation, laments his loss, for he was a great man and a great leader; his achievements are cutstanding and form in themselves a monument to his memory.

When I recall him as a traveling companion, observing him hour by hour, day by day and month by month, I marvel at his wonderful characteristics, for I was very intimate with him, for there is a strange felicity and wondrous enchantment which comes from true intimacy of heart and close communion of souls.

To me and to all others who knew him, he was a supremely great man, for he was at once an idealist and a realist. As an idealist, he mapped out the path which leads to the ideal world in which we should live, thus creating the desire for a better life, higher thinking and nobler acting. As a realist he created, he built, he constructed and thus he connected the ideal with the real world. When working for civic improvement and human development for the betterment of the less fortunate, he was patient with their criticism and suspicion.

The intellectual pattern that ran through his life was one especially in keeping with the things that I have just mentioned. This, together with his conception of human valuation, was the secret of his power.

He emerged triumphantly from the fiery conflicts and temptations of life and preserved perfect consistency with himself and unselfish fidelity to his convictions. His life stands out pre-eminently as a continuous record of patriotism and devotion to duty, relentless to hypocrisy, tender to humanity; his heart always on the side of the friendless, the needy and the erring, always desirous of serving others.

This conception of the characteristics of this truly great man I acquired by the process of observation from year to year, in traveling with him twice around the world and several times to Europe, thus applying the acid test of continuous and close association.

There are not many real Christian characters in the world, but Milton McRae was one of the few, and I mean by Christian character can best be expressed by quoting the Hon. Charles Evans Hughes, who said that a real Christian character means—

"Faith without credulity; conviction without bigotry; charity without condescension; courage without pugnacity; self-respect without vanity; humility without submissiveness; love of humanity without sentimentality, and meekness with power."

I really do not know how to express adequately the wonderful traits of his character, his noble impulses and his goodness of heart. I do not know what to say that would bring balm to the sorrowful and wounded hearts of his lovely and charming daughters, who not only loved him, but literally worshiped him, except it be the thought that

"Death is but a path that must be trod,
If man would ever pass to God."

GOODNESS ME! WHY WHAT WAS THAT?

The suggestion that the writing of mystery stories be introduced in the grade schools—an educational novelty already in operation in New York City—doubtless springs from a desire to give boys and girls some broader playground for the employment of their imaginations and the exercise of their reluctant pens. Already the production of such a "thriller" as "What Happened to the Baby Carriage?" has opened up untold possibilities for the making of a new kind of uvenile literature, fashioned by the youngsters themselves.

Every home probably abounds in mysteries sure to tempt the novelistic aptitudes of the young Dumas, and none of them criminal or of significance to the police. If the alert investigator will find out what happens to all the golf balls purchased by Dad and never accounted for at the end of the day; or why a bushel of plump cherries simmers down to only twelve small jars of preserves; or why all the books and magazines in a man's den are so carefully, and as he thinks unnecessarily, shifted and sorted every time the place is dusted, then something really worthwhile will have been accomplished.

Children have curiosity in abundance, and tireless enthusiasm in following the trail of the unexpected. Why turn the lens upon ancient topics of tepid romance when every stairway is alive with clues and every footfall at midnight requires an explanation?—[Christian Science Monitor.

These Tax Exemptions

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] This exemption of various organizations and persons from taxation is becoming a serious problem. People who vote should realize that expenses of government must be paid from taxes and every exemption that is voted means added expense for the people who are left to pay the money that must be raised to carry on. Every election there is a plea to exempt something from tax and while one or two worthy classifications do not mean so much, the accumulation of exemptions such as we are permitting in this State is amounting to enormous sums. And, remember this, the tax money is going to be paid by some other property owner, probably a person of small means attempting to own his own home on a fifty-foot lot and raise his children to be good citizens. This hospital tax exemption plea and every other similar request should be decisively vetoed.

I often think when passing some of our million-dollar and more church edifices, how fine it would be if they would say to us, "Here, friends, we run our churches on business bases nowadays, buy and sell real estate for profit, we think it only fair that we should bear our share of taxes with the rest of the community."

Made in England

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I would call attention to the letter of "H. C. S." of October 10 that "daylight saving was made in Germany to win the war, but proved a flop." Daylight saving was first suggested by William Willet, a builder, a resident in Chelsea, London, in 1907. In 1908 a bill embodying same was presented to the House of Commons and adopted in 1916.

"Willie the Worst"

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—[To the Editor of The Times:] You may remember back about thirty years, when Ambrose Bierce was an editorial writer on the San Francisco Call. If you do remember the class of writings of Bierce you will agree that he "said things." One of his bits referred to the gentleman now staging his own reception over the United States, in cities where Hearst papers are published.

The matter referred to was a verse in which it went about as follows:

"There was William the Great.
There was William the First.
There is William the Hearst,
Who is Willie the Worst."

No Literary Theft Here

AJO (Ariz.) Oct. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In simple justice it seems that a reply is required to the letter recently published in your columns containing the accusation of plagiarism by the author of that very beautiful poem entitled "Unawares," which has touched the hearts of so many.

I believe that an indignant denial will voice the general sentiment and approval of your readers.

The letter alluded to made the assertion that the poem was plagiarized from James Russell Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal." Both of these poems lie on my desk before me. I have compared them and have utterly failed to discover the remotest indication of a literary theft.

Ideas cannot be considered personal. There is no law which prohibits general use of general topics of interest and no one can reasonably claim a monopoly.

"JUSTITIA."

Appeal to Dog Friends

HASTINGS-ON-HUDSON (N. Y.) Sept. 26.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Will you kindly publish in a conspicuous place in your paper this appeal?

Will readers of The Times who love their dog, help pass the dog exemption bill, which received a favorable report and will come up for vote next December in Congress? The committee on the District of Columbia, to whom was referred the bill to prohibit experiments on living dogs in the District of Columbia, reports "that it gave ample opportunity to the proponents and opponents of the bill to express their views and present their arguments and feels that the testimony of the proponents outweighs that of the opponents and should be accepted. Having considered the testimony of the proponents and opponents, we report back to the House that the legislation do pass."

Will all friends of the dog help to pass this bill to protect dumb creatures that cannot ask for help? This act will be a great step forward in humane civilization and we hope that our nation may be the first to pass such legislation.

Upon request, petition letters to be signed and literature will be sent to the public. Address Vivisection Investigation League, 88 Lexington avenue, N. Y. C.

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason

THE MORAL LESSON

Still, still we read of gangsters slain, their bodies lying in the rain; some foes who would not be denied came up and filled them for a ride, and filled them by some lonely shore, with lead worth fifty cents or more, and now they lie out in the storm, dead to think about reform. If they could sit up they would say, "We know at last crime doesn't pay." They'd heard the truth a thousand times, as they went forth to pull their crimes, they'd heard it from the gray police whose moral maxims never cease; they'd read it in the public prints, along with other helpful hints; they'd heard it on the radio some forty thousand times or so, they'd heard the message every day that crime's a game that doesn't pay. They'd seen a lot of high-class knaves go tumbling into pauper graves; they'd seen good crooks once wearing bells, incurred for life in prison cells; they'd seen men go from gangster bands to perish at the hangster man's hands. The moral lesson were so thick a man could hit ten with a brick. But when a man is bent on crime he has confidence sublime; less gifted crooks may well be canned, but he has brains at his command. He'll shun the errors of the skates who journey to the prison gates. His vanity is far from small; he feels superior to all. And now he lies out in the rain, with none to protest or complain. The victim of some outlaw war, he got what he was playing for. He can't sit up and he would say, "It must be true, crime doesn't pay."

Musical Chair for Princess

Princess Elizabeth of England is delighted with a little old chair her given her by her grandmother, Lady Strathmore. It belonged to the Duchess of York in her childhood, and is a carved affair of Swiss pine, gayly painted with Alps and skipping chamois. When the Princess sits down, from somewhere inside the chair comes a merry little tune, followed by tinkling bells and the notes of an Alpine horn.

UNION CAJOLES SIGN-MAKER

Craftsmen Objects to Intensive Campaign

Employers Declare Agent Keep Issue Clouded

Wage Scale Asserted to Be Highly Satisfactory

Post-working New York union of sign painters have arrived in Los Angeles, it was learned yesterday, bent on capturing control of the new and growing Neon sign industry in Los Angeles. Local manufacturers of Neon signs say that the sign "racket" in the East is one of the highest and most remunerative in the country, and that the local open field is a great temptation to organizers."

The first Neon sign made in Los Angeles appeared only five years ago. Now there are twenty or two dozen manufacturing and erecting concerns. They employ from four to 150 persons each. Many of them are small. The industry is growing, and wholly unorganized, has in it some who wish to keep it clear of exploitation by outsiders.

TRAINED LOCALLY

Electricians, sheet-metal workers, glass blowers, structural erectors and commercial artists are engaged in the industry. Principally them are the electricians and sheet-metal workers and glass blowers, some of the craftsmen are unskilled, except the sheet-metal workers, and they have made no trouble. The drive just started is among the glass blowers. When the industry was begun here several hundred glass blowers were brought from the East. As the industry grew, many trained apprentices and finally the whole of the craft was locally trained men.

These craftsmen say they are approached by union agitators on their way to work, during noon intermissions and at home and are urged to join the union. At the same time other organizing efforts call upon manufacturers and workmen them to enter into a union agreement. The manufacturers say that the organizers represent to them that the other plants are about to sign up, and theirs is the last one. The same sort of a line is given to the craftsmen. In addition, it is represented to the craftsmen that their employers are entering the agreement, while at the same time representation is made to employers that their employees have practically signed to a man.

TORE UP CARDS

Leading manufacturers said that not a single plant of consequence has signed at all, has yielded to the union. The extent of unionization among craftsmen is not known. Men who joined later tore up their union cards, saying that they had been talked into the deal against their normal inclination. One manufacturer said:

"When I told them that I would not sign up, these high powers, when they were plenty fast, said: 'Well, you might as well now as later because we're going to find a way to unionize the whole thing and if we can't reach you in one way we will through another.' I didn't like it a bit."

GOOD PAY HERE

The industry is declared by its leaders to be paying its craftsmen current or better-than-current wages and some of the craftsmen have complained that they do not like with their jobs jeopardized by the unions because they are said to be. The union solicitors have not made their advances along the line of more pay, according to the craftsmen, but have talked of the advantages of "co-operation" painted rosy pictures of union power and control.

A similar union campaign against the same industry in San Francisco is said here to have been repulsed. It then became practically dormant for a time and finally broke again with a measure of union success. The apparent "dormant" period was found to have been a time in which the organizers were pressed by the employers while they worked more covertly among the employees.

Leaders here say they will not be caught napping and that the organizers have not yet succeeded in disrupting the field.

Rabbi Pleads Zionist Cause to Ministers

Pleading for support of the Zionist movement, Rabbi Julius L. Temple Emanu-El, in an address to Christian ministers at the Chinese Presbyterian Church today, said the Jews are suffering from Great Britain in that they seek nothing by force that they wish only to purchase from the Arabs and redeem by modern farming methods, various acreage which formerly supported 2,000,000 persons but which is unfit for agricultural purposes.

Dr. William Mullen told of the results of evangelistic work recently carried on at the Plaza, and at San Julian street and at the mission at 421 East Fifth street. Dr. Mullen conducts an open-air Sunday-school for the boys of the Plaza district every Sunday morning.

Africans Curious About Film Queen

Miss Nina Nicol, who arrived at the Hollywood Plaza Hotel yesterday from Capetown, Africa, said she found the natives there asked about Hollywood.

"I just had to come here in person," she said, "to see the wonderful city in the world."

Miss Nicol is young and blond and already a successful writer of stories for children.

Born in Boston of sea-roving parents, she has spent the last few years junketing to little-known parts of the world. After a visit to the Southland she will go to Java and Sumatra.

TIME SHIFT PLAN HIT BY STUDENTS

University Papers Assail Daylight Saving Proposal as Pernicious Idea

Prominent student publications all over the State are voicing opposition to the daylight saving proposal on the November ballot.

Generally they base this opposition on their convictions that school work would suffer, that there would be no saving in daylight saving and that only a few would profit while thousands would suffer if the measure should be successful.

"Not only the student body but the faculty favors keeping California time as it is," the Daily Bruin, publication of the University of California at Los Angeles, said editorially.

"Nobody can convince us that California has so little sunshine that we need a New Yorker's ideas of fidoodling with the clocks."

The Daily Californian, published at the University of California at Berkeley, had this to say about daylight saving:

"We can think of nothing much more ridiculous than the agitation which has been waged in favor of the measure. Why on earth the people of a great State would even have to go to the polls for such a proposition is a bit too much for us.

"There is no reason for confusing the railroad time tables, hitting the theater business at its heart and hoodwinking the calendar just to further enrich the already wealthy stockbrokers and gasoline manufacturers."

"Since it will not get dark until an hour later every night (if daylight saving is passed) the studying of lessons and home work will be postponed an hour and that will mean an hour of sleep lost or school work neglected," the Collegian of Fresno State College stated.

Board to Study Safety Features of New-Type Bus

An application by George Mercier, an employee of the Imperial Bus Company, to operate an interstate passenger service between here and Portland with a new type of bus having a semitrailer, yesterday was taken under advisement by the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation pending a test of the safety of the new vehicle.

The board hitherto has gone on record against carrying passengers in semitrailer or trailer equipment. In view of the fact that the new vehicle is regarded as an innovation in bus travel, the board seeks to analyze safety features of the equipment before making a definite decision, it was stated.

The semitrailer is so constructed that in making turns the wheels follow in the track of the power unit, eliminating all danger in making turns, according to the application, which holds that there is no odor of gas or vibration in the passengers' compartment, due to the fact that the driving unit has no gear connection with the semitrailer.

According to the board's engineers, the construction of the whole vehicle is very light.

Excitement of Being Held Up Causes Death

The excitement of being held up was blamed yesterday for the death in General Hospital of Mrs. Minnie Tuggle, 54 years of age, of 728 Crocker street.

Two purse snatchers waylaid Mrs. Tuggle Saturday night in front of her home. One struck her on the chest but the physician at Georgia-street Hospital could find no evidence of physical injury.

Mrs. Tuggle, still highly agitated, was removed to General Hospital, where she died yesterday afternoon. She told the house physician there she long had suffered from heart weakness. An autopsy will be performed today.

Southlanders to Attend Session of State Chamber

Fifty Los Angeles and Southland delegates to the annual meeting of the California State Chamber of Commerce at San Francisco will leave here on the Sunset Limited tomorrow night.

They will meet with the board of directors of the State chamber Friday, devoting Thursday to committee meetings on topics of interest to Southern California.

Plans for the 1931 Fiesta Year will be formulated. The Olympic Games program also will receive study.

The meeting will be held the 23rd, 24th and 25th inst.

Finland's Music to Be Played

A novelty not before attempted will be given by Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley in his concert-lecture at Bullock's tomorrow morning.

Masterpieces of the music of Finland recently received by him from the Finnish government will be heard. They depict the charms of that "land of a thousand lakes" with its peasant dances, dark forests and midnight sun.

In addition to this, the regular Philharmonic Symphony program will be taken up. It includes the Bach Passacaglia, Brahms's Fourth Symphony, Debussy's "La Mer" and the famous Ravel "Bolero."

PENNSYLVANIANS TO MEET

The Pennsylvania State Society of Southern California will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Fraternal Brotherhood Hall, 845 South Figueroa street, this evening. The entertainment will be in charge of W. J. Overholtzer of Adams county.

Among the attractive affairs of Sunday was the informal buffet supper with which Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Roberts entertained at their home, 2151 West Twenty-first street, in honor of Miss Elisabeth Hollenbeck Bell, charming young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonzo E. Bell of Bel-Air. Fifty guests were bidden and an enjoyable program featured the evening's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gardner Green of Beverly Hills, after a delightful summer in Southampton and Syracuse, N. Y., are again at home here. They were accompanied on the visit east by their little daughter Gloria. On August 28, a tiny daughter was born, who is to be called Robin Gardner Green.

Dolen-Burke

Miss Marian Dolen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Dolen of Glendale, was married Tuesday morning to Thomas A. Burke of Los Angeles. The marriage was solemnized at the Holy Family Catholic Church in Glendale with Father Michael Galvin reading the service and Vincent Burke serving at the mass.

Dahlias in autumn shades were used in profusion for decorations. Presiding at the organ was Mrs. E. J. Lunenschloss, who also accompanied Mrs. Marie SeLegue, who sang Gounod's "Ave Maria."

The bride wore a frock of ivory satin made princess style with puff sleeves and trimmed in rhinestones. Her hat was of lace and satin. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Frances Mary Dolen was her only attendant, wearing pale green crepe and a hat of harmonizing velvet. She carried yellow roses. Jack Loughborough was best man.

Mrs. Burke was graduated from Immaculate Heart School of Hollywood and Mr. Burke attended St. Joseph's College. They will live in Los Angeles.

Many Affairs

Of unusual historic interest, was the Virgilian celebration held during the past week at Westlake School and Holmby College, bimillenial programs having been given throughout the world.

Formal dedication of the school's Virgilian garden was made, and the sun dial, with the school's motto "Possunt qui posse videntur" inscribed on it. Many of the plants and trees mentioned by Virgil are already in the garden, including the arbutus, daphne, poplar, plane, rose, rosemary, thyme and crocus. Others will be added from time to time.

The program, in two parts, was given. Dean Charles Rieber of the University of California, appointed by Phi Beta Kappa society to give Virgilian lectures, talked in the school auditorium. The students then took charge of the garden ceremony. Miss Helen Temple gave Tennyson's "Tribute to Virgil;" Miss Evelyn Chambers, "Virgil Birthday Celebration Throughout the World;" Miss Helen Fisher, "Our Virgilian Garden;" Miss Elizabeth McCollum represented the alumnae on the program, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Gulick read her original "Sonnet to Virgil," completing the program.

Wednesday afternoon, Miss Jessica Smith Vance and Miss Frederica de Laguna, principals of Westlake School and Holmby College, were hostesses at the annual tea, given in honor of the faculty, alumnae and students. Great Hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion with baskets of chrysanthemums and other fall flowers, potted palms and ferns, and tall tapers.

Miss Wendt's string quartet gave a program and Miss Vance and Miss De Laguna were assisted in receiving by Miss Amy Rhodes, Miss Mary Annette Anderson, Mrs. Beth McCausland Sandusky, Miss Harriet Johnson, Mrs. Russell, Miss Theodora Towle, Mrs. Charlotte Rhodes, Mrs. John Matthews, Mrs. Richard Hartley. Those assisting at the tea tables were Miss Frances Murison, Miss Ethel Jacoby, Miss Junita Van Berg.

Quiet Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Edwina Janet Kruce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Kruce, to James Harold Langford, son of Mr. and Mrs. James I. Langford of Knoxville, Tenn., was quietly solemnized Saturday morning at the home of the bride's parents, 418 Lucerne Boulevard. After honeymooning in Honolulu, Mr. and Mrs. Langford will make their home in Los Angeles.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Answers the Same Purpose

Just as effective against moths as a cedar chest is the chest made of soft wood, well-oiled with oil of cedar once a year.

Are They Yellow?

After the summer's hard wear have you a collection of yellowed white stockings that you wonder just what you will do with? You can change them to a pretty tan shade by boiling them for a few minutes in strong tea and then rinsing them in clear water.

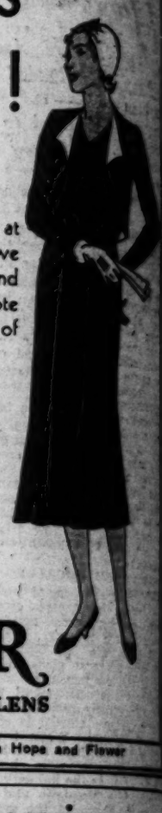
Safe Bandaging

Never use anything but safety pins or adhesive tape to fasten the ends of a bandage. If you have not these on hand, tear the bandage back through the center several inches, tie the ends and then pass one end in one direction and the other end the other way around the injured member and tie together. Under no consideration use a plain pin for fastening a bandage.

Announcements

Did you know there are cards already printed for the announcement of one's moving from one house to another? A space is left for the new address and outside of filling in the space and writing the address there is no extra bother. They save so much letter-writing and time on this very busy occasion and nobody will be hurt because you did not let them know you had moved.

No doubt that this is NEW!



WHEN we saw this dress at the Jaeger pre-view we ordered one on the spot . . . and then we went home and wrote about it! . . . It's that kind of a dress!

HOME DECORATION TALKS—NO. 17

by Fay Fraser

AMATEUR DECORATING

Often I have had the privilege of lecturing on interior decoration at clubs and women's meetings. One of the most frequent questions I receive after my lectures is "I would just love to try to redecorate my own home, but I can't afford to hire some one to do it; do you think I could paint it myself without making a mess of it?"

Ordinary lacquers and enamels are difficult for women to work with, I know. When I have tried them, brush marks seem invariably to show. I would put so much paint on my brush that it "stuck" and became "tacky." For a long while I searched for a paint which would flow smoothly and be self-leveling so that any one, with no experience at all, could use it.

A year ago I heard of Flex. Some of my friends were talking about it enthusiastically. "Any one can use it," they said. "It flows on like water, yet in a few hours it has a hard, elastic finish which is actually as smooth as a plate of glass."

I tried Flex myself and I can recommend it to you. Neither an enamel nor a lacquer, it is the newest thing in color finishes. It is flexible and it will not crack even when applied to leather or fabrics, yet its hard, resistant, durable finish makes it unsurpassed for furniture, woodwork or automobiles.

LISTEN TO FAY FRASER OVER YOUR RADIO!

Every Tuesday and Friday morning at 9:30 Miss Fraser will take up a special problem in home decoration and show how it can be solved. Listen to her over KFRC, KHJ, KMJ, KOIN, KOL, KVI, KFPY and let her show you how you can increase the beauty and charm of your home.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

MOTHER BROWN IS PUZZLED

E'en though polite and saying "please,"
You'll find it seldom pays to tease.
—Black Pussy.

It was quite dark in the back shed, as Mother Brown opened the door from the kitchen and came out with a saucer of milk and a plate of food for Black Pussy. Black Pussy followed her as far as the doorway. There she stopped. Mother Brown put the two dishes on the floor and then turned to discover that Black Pussy had not followed her out into the shed.

"I thought you were hungry," said Mother Brown. "You've given me no peace with your teasing for something to eat. Now come out here and get it. I've given you enough for two cats."

"Meow!" said Black Pussy and, arching her back, she rubbed against the doorpost. But she did not come out into the shed. Mother Brown lost patience. She gave Black Pussy a push out into the shed and shut the door. For a moment Black Pussy stood listening. There was no sound. She reached forward for a mouthful of that good supper and, as she did so, Jimmy Skunk suddenly stepped up. Black Pussy gave one look, turned, and shot out through the little round doorway that led out of doors. Jimmy calmly walked over and began eating.

It was a good supper. It was a very good supper and there was plenty of it. Jimmy didn't hurry. He took his time. He ate and ate until there was nothing left. He even licked the plate clean. Then he turned to the saucer of milk and drank and drank until there was none left. He licked out the saucer. He smacked his lips. He looked up at the door to the kitchen. "I'm much obliged for my supper," said he, as if Mother Brown could hear him. Then, instead of trying Black Pussy's bed again, he went out through the little round doorway and ambled back home. Such a big meal made him feel sleepy.

Hardly was Jimmy Skunk out of sight when Mother Brown opened the kitchen door into the shed. "My land!" she exclaimed. "The cat really was hungry. She has licked the plate and saucer clean. Well, I guess she won't be hungry for some time after this."

Mother Brown picked up the empty plates, took them back into the kitchen and shut the door. Meanwhile, outside, Black Pussy was wandering about, hungry and disconsolate. She saw Jimmy Skunk leave and slowly amble away until he disappeared in the dark. She knew then that it was safe to go back into the shed. She went back. There was nothing to eat there. Even the dishes had disappeared. Poor Black Pussy! She sat down by the kitchen door and began to cry. "Meow!" said she. "Meow! Meow!"

She saw Jimmy Skunk leave and slowly amble away until he disappeared in the dark

After a while, Mother Brown came to the door and opened it. She thought that Black Pussy was merely crying to come in. But Black Pussy began rubbing against her and arching her back and crying, just as she does when she is hungry. On Mother Brown's face was a puzzled look.

"What under the sun is the matter with you, Black Pussy?" she demanded. "I gave you enough for two cats and here you are teasing for more. If I didn't know better, I should think that you had a family to feed. Well, you've had enough for one night, and I'm not going to give you any more, no matter how much you tease."

"Meow!" said Black Pussy, which was her way of saying "Please." "Meow! Meow!"

But all her teasing did her no good.

...Your legs are too heavy for the ...t of the body, the first thing you ...ld do is to plan to devote a ...rt of the day to taking a good ...ng brisk walk. Once you have ...n a time, stick to it and let ...thing find you ready for a walk ...ry day. Begin today and walk ...ly, striding along vigorously ...d pushing the toes against the ...und. As you feel the muscles in ...ur legs moving, you may say to ...urself: "This walk is good for me; ...m improving my health, it is ...ning my legs." Walk a little ...nger each day as your increasing ...ength permits until you are cov...ring at least five miles daily. This ...s the very best exercise for bringing the hips, thighs, and buttocks to normal.

The best exercise to develop the calves of the legs is to stand on one foot, balancing the body by placing one hand against the wall and rising alternately on the heel and toe. Do this as often as you can without making the muscles of your calves sore. Begin with twenty times and increase the number each day until you can rise on the toes and heels at least fifty times for each leg.

Jumping rope, bicycle riding, skipping, hopping on one foot, and ballroom dancing are all good exercises to use, and I am sure if you will persist in them you will find that they will bring you legs of which you may be proud.

If you are trying to reduce the legs you should cut down on the starches, such as bread, pastries, and also the fats, such as butter and oils, and you should include more of the nonstarchy vegetables in your diet.

If you are building the leg, use a well-balanced diet as outlined in the Friday menus.

If you will follow these directions persistently, you will undoubtedly be able to have legs which are slender and at the same time well developed with the proper curve at the calf.

The Importance of Rinsing

Soap combined with bluing will cause rust spots.

Impure soap combined with starch will make the clothes an ugly yellow.

If washing soda, borax or strong soapflakes should be used to help loosen the dirt and it is not thoroughly rinsed out, the heat of the iron will weaken the fiber of the material.

Unless rinsed absolutely clean of all soap, colored clothes will never have that clear, pretty appearance, and white clothes are apt to have a gray, unclean appearance unless all soap is washed out.

Christmas Shopping

Make out your list for shopping before you start out, and make out that list immediately and be finished shopping early.

On this list group together the articles that are purchased on the same floor.

Start your shopping on the highest floor on your list so you can use the stairway if the elevators are crowded.

For the little things, patronize the stores in your neighborhood instead of trying to be waited on at the crowded counters downtown.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 4 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture sties and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

RESTRAINT OF ANY KIND ANNOYS THE ACTIVE BABY

The bouncing baby lives up to his name. He wants to be up and down constantly and resents any attempts to hold him in one place. Hardly a mother lives who has not perspired and worked to put a diaper on a baby struggling to get to the other end of the bed, to stand on his head, to turn over; in fact, to get into any position except on the flat-on-the-back one.

Mrs. A. B. A. finds her baby unusually resentful of any kind of restraint and writes: "Why does my baby fuss so about being dressed or changed? He loves his bath but it is just war every time I dress him. He was 11 months of age the 15th of September, and weighs twenty and one-half pounds. He has six teeth and is starting to walk.

WON'T SIT STILL

"I have trouble also getting him to sit still in his high chair at feeding time. He wants to stand up and eat. I have tried to curb this by refusing to feed him, but he gets so tired and sleepy and he doesn't want to eat at all. We adopted our baby when he was 7 months of age, and, perhaps we are too lenient with him. He is so beautiful and we love him so. I'll be very grateful if you'll tell me how to handle this problem, Mrs. Eldred."

When dressing the baby it is helpful to give him some small object in his hands to keep him occupied so he forgets that he is being forcibly held in one position. His own little shoes, a ball or a large piece of paper to rattle, a chain of stout safety pins linked together, or large, wooden buttons strung on a stout cord are all interesting to the small child. If you keep any one of these for use just at the time you are dressing or changing him, it will come each time as a new toy and its appeal will remain constant.

START SELF-FEEDING

Self-feeding is the kind of activity which will prevent the child's desire to stand up in the high chair when being fed. We have leaflets on cup feeding and spoon feeding which describe a usable method of teaching the child how to operate these utensils. Either or both of these will be helpful to you, or any other mother who is concerned with these problems. A self-addressed, stamped envelope must be inclosed with your request for them.

When baby is joyfully intent on the intricate process of loading a spoon and putting it into his mouth, he can't possibly take time to stand up. The restless child is the bored child, and being fed soon becomes a tiresome proceeding for most children.

Be sure that he has a keen appetite for each of his meals. He is old enough now to have breakfast at 7; lunch at 12, a small midmeal at 3:30 or 4, and his night meal at 6:30 or 7. Help him with his feeding, for otherwise, he would grow tired and irritable, but begin to put the responsibility upon him. Then he'll enjoy his food and stay put while he is eating it.

Winter Flowers

There is perhaps no prettier flower for winter decoration than the bright straw flowers. One cannot always afford hothouse flowers and when the garden has stopped blooming we miss our little friends. However, the straw flowers are colorful and sometimes hard to tell from live blossoms.

Burned Garbage

Many housewives who have hot water or steam heat burn all their garbage during the winter months. No odor can escape from the radiators into the house, the garbage acts as a splendid fire brightener and there is no care of a half frozen garbage kettle during the cold weather.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

BUCKWHEAT HOTCAKES

Sift together one and one-half cupfuls of buckwheat flour, one-half a cupful of white flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, and one teaspoonful of salt. Add one cupful of sour milk and two tablespoonfuls of melted shortening or butter, then add enough more sour milk to make a batter the same as for other hot cakes. Pour by spoonfuls on to a hot oiled griddle, and bake until well browned on both sides.

TAPIOCA AND CAKE CRUMB CREAM

Six level tablespoonfuls of quick-cooking tapioca, three eggs, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt and two-thirds of a cupful of fine stale cake crumbs, two cupfuls of milk, and one teaspoonful of almond extract. Scald the milk in the double boiler, beat the tapioca slowly, and cook for ten minutes, stirring frequently, beat the yolks of the eggs, add the sugar and salt to them, then slowly pour the hot mixture over them, return to the double boiler and cook slowly for five minutes. Remove from the fire, add the extract, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, add the cake crumbs, place in a dish, and allow to cool.

CAULIFLOWER FRITTERS

Remove the large outside leaves from a medium-sized head of cauliflower and cut the flower from the stock in symmetrical bunches, and drop in salted water, and allow to stand twenty minutes. Drain, and pour over boiling water, to which has been added a half a cupful of milk, and allow it to cook until tender, then allow them to cool. Brush them over with melted butter, to which has been added salt and white pepper. Dip them in a frying batter, covering them well, and fry in deep hot shortening until a golden brown. Drain well, and serve.

BELGIAN HARE EN CASSEROLE

Cut the Belgian hare into joints the same as for frying, saute it in one-fourth of a cupful of shortening, to which has been added two slices of bacon cut in dice, until a golden brown. Place the hare in a casserole and season with salt, paprika and a few grains of cayenne pepper, add a half a cupful of water to the casserole, and cover tightly, and bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes. Rub two tablespoonfuls of butter to a cream, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and another half-cupful of water, after removing the hare from the casserole, and one tablespoonful of lemon juice, stir until the sauce is smooth, return the hare to the casserole, place in the oven, and continue the cooking until tender.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters, but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

There's plenty of good medicine behind your radio dial each morning after you greet the morning sun, duck out from the shower and split fifty-fifty with your newspaper and the breakfast eggs. This is especially for those whose dispositions have a tendency away from the angelic until the sun swings into midday.

Slip over to the dial this morning — get acquainted with Ken Niles and his Hallelujah Hour at 7:45 o'clock over KHJ. If you've crept from between the sheets at an earlier hour, try Don Julio's Spanish entertainers at 6 o'clock over KTM, followed at 7 o'clock by Bill Sharples's Breakfast Club. Swing your dial over to Capt. Dobbsie's "Start o' The Day," KFI, at 7:45 o'clock.

The most important part of the day is "the get-away"—try it some morning. If you've ordinarily only given the radio a mean look as you've dashed to work, try giving it a chance to help you in making a better start.

They tell us that—

KHJ's Joe and Vi go on the air at 7 o'clock tonight—Joe's boss warns him to "either get a new watch or he'll get a new secretary"—poor Joe's late again.

A corking good half-hour—KECA at 7 p.m. "A Story of Cork." Zoel Parenteau and T. J. Vastine in a musical program.

KNX and KHJ at 7:15 o'clock tonight — Columbia's Paramount Publix Hour—special arrangement of Romberg songs—Gypsy Ensemble —Jesse Crawford, organ.

A beautiful program of Spanish music and song—KECA at 5 o'clock tonight. An NBC feature.

Ted Weems and his orchestra—KECA at 9 o'clock tonight—hits from "Tin Pan Alley" composers. This goes out from the Blossom Room in Hollywood over the network.

Columbia feature—KHJ at 8:45 o'clock tonight. Another "What's Wrong With This Picture"—five deliberate errors—awards for those who detect and correct them.

KNX at 9 o'clock tonight—Hap and Sap still running along the border trying to capture rum runners.

Light opera favorites—KMTR at 9 p.m. "Mikado," "Apple Blossoms" and "No, No, Nanette."

If you can't get to the ringside—KFWB at 9:30 o'clock tonight—Hector McDonald and Tod Morgan mix it at the Olympic.

KFI at 7 o'clock tonight—ensemble with Arthur Lang and James Burroughs—one hour.

Here come KNX's Arizona Wranglers in another old-fashioned hoedown with the Sage Brush Caller —8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Lindsay MacHarrie in his "Song Parade" at 8:15 o'clock tonight over KHJ. A half-hour of the latest.

Songs of the "days of the mustache cup and pug dogs"—KECA at 6:30 o'clock tonight—singing violins—an NBC feature.

KHJ has two fashion periods tonight—Peggy Hamilton at 6 o'clock and a fashion parade at 9:30.

Mother-and-Son Suits Postponed

Mrs. Laura Jane Kirk's suit against her son, Norman T. Kirk, to recover more than $30,000 which she asserts she advanced to him for investment, yesterday was continued to December 17 when called before Superior Judge Craig. Mrs. Kirk is 78 years of age, and is the widow of John E. Kirk, inventor of harvesters.

Hearing on the son's petition to have a guardian appointed for his mother occupied several days last week in Superior Judge Hazlett's court. That trial was continued until November 10. Kirk contends that his mother is incompetent to manage her finances, which he asserts have shrunk from $150,000 to $65,000.

Chemist Faces Bigamy Trial

Charged with bigamy, Robert R. Ferguson, official of a chemical company, was arraigned before Municipal Judge Ballard yesterday and ordered released on $5000 bail pending preliminary hearing, which was set for the 24th inst.

Ferguson, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Hunt, married Miss Katherine Swope in San Francisco two weeks ago without the formality of getting a divorce from his wife, Mrs. Hazel Ferguson, 1631 Hipoint street.

Suspect Held After Repeated Attempts to Die

R. L. Dunn, 26 years of age, who says he is a son of a former Governor of Oklahoma, made three attempts to end his life yesterday, according to a police charge. He had written a farewell note without addressing it.

"Darling, I am going fast," it stated, and then became unintelligible.

Dunn first attempted to hang himself from an electrolier in his room at a downtown hotel, say the police. He then gashed his wrists and throat with a razor. He is asserted to have fortified himself for his suicide attempt by drinking a pint of whisky.

After being taken to Georgia-street Hospital he tried to hang himself with his suspenders. He is expected to recover.

TRIBUTE PAID TO CENTENARIAN

Ontario Church Does Honor to Charles E. Harwood

Special Services at Bethel Congregational Edifice

Favorite Hymns and Anthem Sung, Favored Psalms Read

UPLAND, Oct. 20.—For several days friends and relatives of Charles E. Harwood, "the grand old man of Upland," have been paying their tributes of love and respect to him as he reached the hundredth milestone of a colorful, philanthropic life.

The crowning event of the birthday of the grand old man came Sunday morning when special services were held in Harwood's honor at Bethel Congregational Church of Ontario, of which the Harwood family has been faithful members since its founding forty years ago.

The church services were arranged by a special committee numbering Benton Ballou, chairman; Rev. Charles L. Knight, pastor of the church, Miss Gertrude Reid and Miss Metta Fugit.

Harwood repeatedly requested that "no fuss" be made over him, but he took an active interest in the church program, requesting that his favorite hymns be sung, that the choir sing one of his favorite anthems, and that Raymond Hill, organist, play one or two of his favorite selections upon the Harwood Memorial Organ. The hymns sung were "How Firm a Foundation," "Rock of Ages," and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The anthem was "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," and two organ selections were Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," and the March from "Faust."

NINETY-FIRST PSALM READ

The ninety-first Psalm, Harwood's favorite Psalm, was read by Rev. Knight, and his text, favored by Harwood, was taken from Joshua 24:15, "But as for me and my house, we will serve Jehovah."

At close of the service Harwood stood with others of the family in the reception line, and expressed himself deeply touched with the tribute the community paid him.

Following the services members of the Harwood family met for the birthday dinner at the Harwood home at Fifteenth street and Euclid avenue. At each place at the table was a beautifully painted place card, showing a century plant in full bloom. Several members of the family came from distant points for this event, including Mrs. Paul H. Harwood and daughter, Miss Catherine of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Langdon C. Henry of Seattle.

Among other aged members of the Harwood family are the Rev. J. H. Harwood of Hawthorne, 93; Mrs. Katherine Tracey of Claremont, 88; Mrs. Susan M. Lester of Spring Valley, 95.

One hundred years ago Harwood was born in Bennington, Vt., and in 1852 he graduated from Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., and is the only surviving member of his class. For several years he has returned to his alma mater for "home coming" ceremonies, and each time is given special honors as the only member of his class to respond at roll call.

IN CITY FORTY-THREE YEARS

Forty-three years ago he came to this community, and became at once actively engaged in the citrus-growing business, and bears among other titles, that of "father of the lemon industry in the west end of San Bernardino county." For thirty-seven years he has served as president of Upland Lemon Growers' Association, which has the largest lemon-packing house in the world.

Each day Harwood spends some time in his yard sawing wood, to which form of exercise he attributes his longevity.

Last week the honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon Mr. Harwood by Pomona College, which institution he has served many years as a trustee.

One of Harwood's most highly prized messages of congratulation upon reaching his hundredth birthday came from President Hoover. Harwood and President Hoover have been close friends for years, and recently when Harwood was in Washington he enjoyed tea with the President at the White House.

Probation Given J. A. Reid by Federal Court

FRESNO, Oct. 20. — Two years' probation was granted James A. Reid, former local postoffice employee, when he faced Judge Cosgrave in the Federal District Court here today to be sentenced for smoking in a restricted area in the Sierra National Forest, a charge to which he pleaded guilty last week.

Leniency was recommended by Asst. U. S. Atty. Chanesian, who cited Reid's long service in the postoffice department, and the fact that he is now serving a jail-term as part of probation granted on a State charge of failure to render aid after an automobile accident. Fresno business man, was fatally injured.

The Clotho Fruit Company and Jack Horner, its general manager, were fined $500 each by Judge Cosgrave upon pleas of guilty to charges of violating the Interstate Commerce Act by underbilling car-lot shipments of grapes. The defendants were specifically accused of defrauding railroads of $400 by billing shipments of fruit to eastern markets at less than the actual weight.

Jacob and Christina Wulf, owners of a store here Kerman, were acquitted of charges of selling liquor, after a short trial before a jury.

Motorist Fined After Accident

Guick was injured Saturday night when he was attempting to cross the California-street and El Molino-avenue intersection. He incurred fractures of two ribs, but is reported to be recovering tonight at the Pasadena Hospital.

Hugo Jacobson of 2050 East Washington street, a witness, testified that Leffingwell passed his car on the wrong side of the street at a forty-mile-an-hour gait.

The defendant declared that he would have been able to avoid striking the pioneer merchant had not the latter suddenly changed his course and stepped into the car's path.

COACHELLA GRAPEFRUIT IN

First of New Crop Arrives at Redlands for Packing; Tests Show Sugar Content Above Standard

REDLANDS, Oct. 20.—Coachella Valley grapefruit began rolling into Redlands today to be packed for the hungry eastern consumer under the C. V. label. The Crafton Mutual Orchards will pack upward of fifty cars this season for members of the Mutual Orange Distributors in Coachella Valley.

Each season the Coachella Valley Grapefruit Growers' Association sends its fruit to the Crafton house to be packed under M.O.D. and Valley labels.

Yesterday tests were made of the valley's early grapefruit and it was found to be running in sugar content far over the requirements. Coloring is coming along nicely, too, and the peak sizes will be from sixty-fours to eighties, the very best for marketing.

In the office of J. A. Steward, sales manager for the Mutual Orange Distributors, today was displayed a beautiful cluster of sixty-fours, uniform size, and testing seven and one-half to one. The legal test is six to one. A few hours in the sweat or gas house and the color, just now turning, will give that characteristic rich primrose to the breakfast appetizer. For eating qualities the Coachella Valley grapefruit is unequaled, being high in sugar content and with the proper proportion of acid to give it a test, it is declared here.

In the party making the Coachella Valley tour yesterday were J. A. Steward, sales manager for M.O.D.; Dave Deroo, manager for the Crafton Mutual; H. H. Pord, Jr., field man for the M.O.D., and W. O. Cook, horticultural inspector.

"The valley looks wonderfully prosperous," remarked Steward today. "The Cochella Valley grapefruit shipment will be nearly 150 cars, if our estimates are correct. The fruit is of high quality, clean and testing high. We will have it on the market within another week, we hope."

Parade Feature of Ontario Fete on Halloween

ONTARIO, Oct. 20.—Ontario community's annual Halloween frolic and mardi gras, Friday evening, the 31st inst., will feature a parade of fifteen sections, those in charge of the event announced today.

Valuable prizes are to be given winners of each section featuring clowns, comedians, animal make-ups, girl impersonations, foreign characters, decorated doll buggies, rube bands, soldiers, sailors, decorated scooters, tramps, miniature floats, decorated wagons, boats, airplanes, roller skaters, clown bands, animal imitations requiring more than one person, comic characters, decorated bicycles, animal-drawn vehicles, with horses barred.

Judges have been appointed for the costumed parade, for the vaudeville numbers to be presented on an open-air stage, and for the best costumed individual or couple mingling with the throngs on the sidewalks.

The fun frolic is open to all youngsters and adults of Chaffey district, including Ontario, Upland, Cucamonga, Fuasti, Alta Loma, and Etiwanda.

The west driveway of Euclid avenue will be roped off between A and C streets. Stages for the vaudeville entertainment are to be erected at intervals and a continued performance on each stage is proposed.

Entry blanks for the parade and stunts have been issued to the children through the school principals.

The community fun frolic was inaugurated last year, and is designed to concentrate the youngsters in one place, thus giving them something to do other than think of committing mischief, according to sponsors of the event.

All clubs of the community are uniting in staging the Halloween Madri gras.

Charges Filed Against Depot Hold-up Suspect

VENTURA, Oct. 20.—Complaints were filed late today in Oxnard Justice Court against Charles G. Galtra, 29 years of age, charging him with holding up two agents at the Oxnard Southern Pacific depot September 10, last, and escaping with pay checks valued at $1250, $25 in cash, and a pistol.

Galtra, authorities declare, has confessed that he was one of the bandits who pulled the hold-up, and has also, they say, admitted he later cashed checks, with names forged by him, taken in the robbery.

Charges already have been filed in Los Angeles county against Evan Galtra, brother of the man in jail here, who has confessed to cashing another of the checks taken in the Oxnard hold-up.

Jewelry Stolen at Beach Home

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 20.—An unknown visitor has been making himself at home for sometime in the beautiful summer home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Weiss on the ocean front here, leaving behind him a group of distinguishable fingerprints.

The intruder evidently spent some days as an uninvited guest in the spacious house in Aliso Canyon, for besides the many valuable heirlooms stolen he depleted the pantry shelves of a large amount of foordluau. When Mr. and Mrs. Weis came to spend a few days away from their home in Tustin they found the burglar had entered the home and taken several thousand dollars worth of jewelry, among them a valuable necklace, diamond pin, watches, and numerous other articles. Several pieces of expensive tapestry also disappeared.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Carter was called and he discovered that the tramp had broken a window with a stone and made his entrance. Carter found fingerprints and will make a check-up in an effort to ascertain who the intruder and thief may be.

An operation Tuesday night for a mysterious infection was unable to save the life of Mrs. Allen, who had been taken by her husband to Denver from Ventura three weeks ago in a vain attempt to find a remedy.

She leaves two children by a former marriage, Carolyn, 12 years of age, and Phillip, 10. Other relatives, besides her husband, father and mother, are four sisters: Mrs. Fred Mercer, Mrs. Neill Baker and Miss Orpha W. Foster of Ventura, and Mrs. Stephen Percy of Los Angeles. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Bill-Board Ads Don't Pay, Says Theatrical Man

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 20.—Theaters have come to the conclusion that bill-board advertising does not pay, Lou Baumgartner, manager of the Fox West Coast Theater here, told the members of the Santa Paula Rotary Club today.

Baumgartner said that in the days of the horse and buggy when travel was slow on the highways, people might have seen the bill boards, but not today, when cars are driven so fast the occupants do not have time to see them and when they are in competition with numerous hot-dog signs. It is easier to make the change in advertising shows in the newspapers than on boards, he stated.

He said the Fox organization has 1000 theaters and the order has gone forth that outside advertising is to be eliminated and while the budget for advertising is not cut, it will be spent on newspaper advertising.

IMPERIAL AREA PLANS PAGEANT

Fair Grounds Made Ready to Present Valley Story

"The Desert Calls," Title of Initial Production

Will Be Given in November; Phil Whiting Directs

IMPERIAL, Oct. 20. — Under the direction of Phil Whiting, production director, a section of the Imperial County Fair grounds is this week being converted into a big amphitheater where "The Desert Calls," historical pageant of Imperial Valley, is to be presented here November 6 to 9, next.

A patch of desert, with the Colorado River and local mountain ranges in the background, is to furnish the setting for the pageant story, which opens with a scene depicting prehistoric Indian tribes who are believed to have once inhabited the lower Colorado River area.

Scenes taken from the early reclamation period, when the Colorado River broke through its banks and filled the Salton Basin with water, will furnish a dramatic anticlimax to the pageant, and the final chapter will be a prophetic vision of Imperial Valley as it will appear following the completion of Boulder Dam.

J. S. Cameron, president of the Imperial Valley Pageant Society, stated today that he is receiving letters of inquiry regarding the dates from all over the Southwest, indicating much interest outside of Imperial Valley.

The cost of the pageant has been underwritten by Chambers of Commerce in the valley cities.

Headless Body Found by P.E. Track at Beach

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 20.—The crew of a south-bound Pacific Electric train discovered the body of an unidentified stranger lying near the tracks last night.

Investigation disclosed that the victim, with his coat removed, had either voluntarily or by force accepted the railway roadbed as a sleeping couch and had been decapitated by a passing car. Whether or not the man was the object of foul play has not been decided by the authorities. Conductor J. E. Beardsley and Motorman R. J. Miller made the ghastly find.

The victim was about 40 years of age, weighing about 150 pounds and was attired in a khaki shirt, size sixteen, "salt-and-pepper" trousers, and black shoes. A black felt hat lay on the outside of the rails. He had an eagle on crossed flags tatooed on an inner, right forearm. One of his teeth had a gold crown. In the man's pockets was $1.45 in small change and a package of smoking tobacco and cigarette papers.

The body was removed to Grooms & Reisenberg's undertaking establishment in Costa Mesa and the case given over to the Sheriff's office for further investigation. Finger prints were made by the officers.

GERMAN AIR EXPERT HERE

Dr. Theodore Von Karman, Internationally Known as an Authority on Aviation, Comes to Caltech

PASADENA, Oct. 20.—Dr. Theodore Von Karman, internationally known aviation authority, arrived here today from Germany to take up his duties as director of the California Institute of Technology's aeronautical research and instruction.

The California Institute's aviation program will be divided, roughly, into two general fields of work, airplane and dirigible research. Much of the theoretical work will be conducted in the new $500,000 Guggenheim aeronautics laboratory on the local campus.

The dirigible experimentation and research will be centered in the Guggenheim lighter-than air laboratories to be erected in 1931 at Akron, O., but supervised by the California Institute of Technology.

Two California Institute teaching fellows and five internationally known scientists have been selected for the Akron laboratories, Dr. Von Karman revealed.

Three European experts, Dr. W. Tolmien and Dr. F. Seyferth, both of Gottingen, and Dr. T. H. Troller of Aachen, will arrive here within a few weeks to discuss their Akron assignments.

A. M. Kueth of the United States Bureau of Standards, and Frank Wallendorf of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, together with Ernest E. Sechler and W. B. Oswald, both of the California Institute of Technology, will complete the dirigible research staff for the time being.

Dr. Von Karman indicated that turbulence will be the major research problem of the local laboratory, while air currents and aircraft construction principles will be studied at Akron.

POMONA, Oct. 20.—Joseph P. Drake of 209 North Howard street, Glendale, is in the Pomona Health Center suffering from skull fracture and other injuries sustained when his truck, loaded with three tons of watermelons, smashed into an automobile driven by Robert I. Police and firemen were kept busy for several hours, picking up the scores of melons, smashed and otherwise, which were strewn over the vicinity when the truck overturned. It was necessary to call a street-department truck before the street could be cleared, and police were necessary to keep small boys from making inroads into the melons.

Lloyd Beal, 20 years of age, of 703 East D street, Ontario, was treated at the Health Center for a bitten tongue, sustained when he drove his machine into the rear of a truck on the Valley Boulevard, west of this city.

Calexico Stores Set Exchange Rate on Peso

CALEXICO, Oct. 20. — By mutual agreement here today, merchants in this city reduced the trade value of the Mexican peso at local stores to 42 1-2 cents. The previous rate was 45 cents, but the exchange on Mexican silver has been below this figure for several weeks.

Since the peso declined below the 45-cent level, large quantities of Mexican silver has been received by local merchants through regular trade channels. The situation here was further complicated last week by the enforcement of a Mexican Presidential edict which bars the importation of Mexican silver coins into Mexico. At present local merchants have no outlet for the disposal of their Mexican money.

With the local trading value of the peso reduced to approximately the exchange value, business men in this city anticipate that the influx of Mexican money will be decreased.

STORE ROBBED AS OWNER DIE

Two Burglars Arrested in Ventura Grocery

E. J. Johnstone, Proprietor, Succumbs Soon After

He Was at Brother-in-Law's Home in Los Angeles

VENTURA, Oct. 20.—While E. J. Johnstone, 61-year-old local resident, lay at the point of death in the home of his brother-in-law in Los Angeles at 2 o'clock a.m. today, three burglars were looting his grocery store here.

Three hours later Johnstone was dead and two of the burglars were in the city jail, charged, upon their asserted confessions to police, with burglary and grand theft of an automobile.

Clever work by Officer R. R. B. resulted in the capture of the men. Hearing glass being broken at the store, known as Ole's Grocery, he summoned Officer Jim Brown to headquarters and the two, on being drawn, entered the darkened store to discover a trio of bandits thoroughly rifling the shelves and drawers. One made a break and got away in the darkness, but the other two were caught. They gave their names as Mitchel Slader, New York, and John E. Olson of Pennsylvania, 18.

The prisoners confessed the theft of gasoline, cigars and other articles from a truck belonging to the Coast Wholesale Grocery Company, to stealing five gallons of gasoline and a suit of clothes from Joe Imagno of this city and to taking a small sedan, upon which they had stolen license plates in Los Angeles, according to police.

Johnstone, owner of the store, succumbed to a heart attack at the Los Angeles residence of his brother-in-law, C. W. Gunning. He had lived for more than ten years in this city.

Woman "Shaken Down" in Order to Get Evidence

UPLAND, Oct. 20. — Mrs. Brown, Los Angeles, had to be literally "shaken down" before evidence could be produced that she was in possession of liquor, following her arrest near a rockpile with the car in which she was riding with S. C. McCormick, also of Los Angeles, went on the rocks, according to local police.

According to police who made the arrest, McCormick's automobile left the highway and plunged into the rockpile.

As the police approached, Mrs. Brown threw a bottle of liquor away, according to police. The bottle didn't break and quickly she retrieved it and thrust it down in front of her dress.

Then she defied the police to get the bottle.

They conducted her and McCormick to the police station, and then the "shake down" took place. A few shakes from the police and the bottle appeared from the other end of Mrs. Brown's dress.

She was fined $60 for possession of liquor, and McCormick was fined $25 for reckless driving.

School Board to Open Bids

COSTA MESA, Oct. 20.—Bids for the grammar school building proposed to be constructed here at Twenty-first street and Orange avenue will be opened by the members of the Grammar School Board on the 27th inst. Construction will start immediately after the bids are accepted and the school will be completed for the opening of the second semester in February, according to announcements made today.

It is estimated that the cost of the structure, including six class rooms, the principal's office and a dining-room, will be about $60,000. The Costa Mesa grammar school is so crowded that two sessions are taught daily, one in the morning and another group in the afternoon. Even though the new school was provided for the present children the crowded condition will not remedied and another building is needed.

AUSTRALIA LOOKS AHEAD

Col. Bailey, Antipodean Authority, Speaks on Island Continent Before Pacific Association

Australia is going through a period of temporary depression, but it is a period brought on by the government itself through developing sections of the country far beyond its present needs—development that will more than pay for itself in the future.

Col. Edward P. Bailey, authority on Australia and president of International Explorers, pointed out Australia's condition and interesting facts about the Pacific continent to 200 members of the Pan-Pacific Association for Mutual Understanding last night in the City Club.

With an eye always on the future, the guiding hands of Australia have prepared it and are further preparing it for the place it is destined to play in the world's commerce and as a place of residence, Col. Bailey declared.

One irrigation project cost the government in New South Wales $40,000,000 it was brought out. Produce from the lands placed under cultivation through this development totaled $4,000,000 last year and is expected to increase to a yearly yield of $15,000,000.

In Sydney, with its 200 miles of harbor frontage, $35,000,000 was expended on a single bridge, while the government spent $60,000,000 to build the Federal government city of Cambria, 204 miles south of Sydney.

Australia, Col. Bailey asserted, leads any country in the world in airline development. Many of its sections—particularly the inland arid regions—cannot be traversed, and aircraft connect all Australia's major cities with scheduled planes operating parallel to the coast completely circling the island continent.

Most of the 6,500,000 population of the country is grouped on the eastern coast. For many years the Australian Alps, running down the east coast, formed a barrier that could not be surmounted, but engineers have driven passages inland, opening up vast lands for stock raising, mining and agriculture.

Along the west coast one of the country's most unique and as yet undeveloped potential industries is ripe for commercial control—turtle canning and shipping. Huge turtles, ranging in weight from 250 to 500 pounds, come up on the sands by the thousands. Only a few are killed for local food consumption. They can be marketed for 12 cents a pound, but so far no company has been organized to place their capture on a large-scale basis, Col Bailey said.

Pearl fishing, sheep raising and cane-sugar farming are other industries of Australia that help form the present commercial backbone of the land, the speaker pointed out.

BURGLAR ROBS RESIDENCE

Cutting away a rear screen, a burglar last night gained entrance to the home of Mrs. Mary A. George, 6812 Arbol Drive, and carried away furs, jewelry and clothing valued at $1500, according to a report to Hollywood police. Mrs. George was absent at the time of the burglary.

COURT HIKES INTO HILLS IN DEER-KILLING ACTION

Court went hiking yesterday afternoon when Superior Judge McLucas, accompanied by lawyers and counsel in a habeas corpus proceeding, adjourned to Dume Canyon, Malibu township, to determine from personal observation what targets there are there for a rifle with a range of a half-mile or more. The matter before the court is a habeas corpus petition by Dr. R. C. Eshelman of Santa Monica.

The sporting dentist shot a five-point buck in the Santa Monica Mountains September 16. The buck ran some distance and fell dead in Dume Canyon, also called Zuma Canyon, adjoining the Rindge ranch. Dr. Eshelman was arrested there, convicted before Justice of the Peace Webster of Malibu and fined $25, with the alternative of going to jail for five days.

Eshelman, through Attorneys Roy A. Linn and H. Perk, Jr., yesterday went before Judge McLucas on habeas corpus proceedings attacking the constitutionality of County Ordinance 1749, new series, under which he was convicted. This law prohibits the discharge of firearms having a range of a half-mile or more within the county. The petitioner contends that jurisdiction as to game hunting rests with the Legislature, and that the Supervisors circumvented this by passing the ordinance.

Deputy County Counsels Prichard and McFadden argued that the law is constitutional, and that the petition covered too much territory. Judge McLucas elected to try the case on the facts.

Eshelman testified that he fired three bullets from a 30:30 rifle while he was in the neighborhood of Lighthouse Peak, on the northwest side of the mountains, when two or three miles inland.

The three bullets hit the buck, which staggered a quarter of a mile to Dume Canyon and dropped dead, the dentist said. He asserted the surrounding area is high country, uninhabited, and that the only house in the region is a Rindge ranch cabin beside the highway.

Judge McLucas, who has lived in Santa Monica twenty years and knows the region, took the examination. Eshelman testified that the nearest highway is Roosevelt Coast Highway, two miles from where he fired his rifle, and that he saw ten hunters in the area that day. He knocked over the buck at seventy-five yards.

"You must be a good hunter," commented the judge.

"The deer there are very tame," corrected Prichard.

It was brought out that game in that region includes quail, dove, foxes, coyotes and mountain lions.

"Predatory animals are excepted—you can shoot them," interrupted Prichard. It was agreed by judge and counsel that no bears have been seen there in years.

Geography of the Malibu developed so many conflicting assertions that Judge McLucas decided to take petitioner and attorneys to Dume Canyon, where yesterday afternoon was spent in hiking and observing. The case resumes at 10 a.m. today.

AIRPORT LEASE DECISION WAITS

Supervisors Defer Action on El Monte Site

Realty Board's Protest on Plan to Be Heard

Metropolitan Field Offered County for Less

Objections on the part of the Los Angeles Realty Board to the proposal to lease 968 acres of land near El Monte for an A-1-A county airport yesterday caused the Board of Supervisors to set the date of consideration of the plan over until next Monday.

The proposal to lease the property for forty years at a rental of $185,000 per year after the first year, with an option to purchase the land for $3,250,000 within the life of the lease, was to have been considered by the Supervisors at their meeting yesterday. A communication, however, signed by the secretary of the realthy board, objecting to the proposal, halted the proceedings. The matter was laid over for a week at which time members of the realty body will be given an opportunity to make formal objections before the Board of Supervisors.

The land with a fully equipped A-1-A airport has been offered to the county by the thirty-four owners of it. The county would pay $85,000 rental the first year and $185,000 each year thereafter for a period of forty years. Under the terms of the lease the county could purchase the property any time within the life of the lease, or renew the option at the expiration of it.

The Supervisors have asked the Los Angeles County Regional Planning Commission to prepare a report on all the details relative to the acreage as an airport.

Another offer to lease a fully equipped airport to the county was laid before the Board of Supervisors yesterday in a communication from Lloyd L. St. John, president of the Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport Company, Ltd.

The company, according to St. John, will lease to the county the Metropolitan Airport in Burbank. There are 394 acres in the field fully equipped as an airport. The port is offered to the county at a rental of $57,000 per year with an option to purchase within ten years for $850,000.

Following the reading of the communication the proposal was referred to the County Regional Planning Commission.

THURLOW G. RICKMAN SANITY CASE PUT OFF

Continuance of the sanity trial of Thurlow G. Rickman was granted yesterday by Superior Judge Craig, who put off the hearing until the 27th inst. Rickman, a real-estate broker, was adjudged insane when examined before Judge Tryon in psychopathic court, following which he demanded a jury trial. Rickman is accused of sending a "damages bill" of $1,200,000 to George L. Eastman.

TEXAN COPIES DOG CATCHER METHOD

No Chance to Make Get-away

PRISONERS transported by State Agent Crane of Texas are not going to jump out train windows and escape. For Crane transports his prisoners in a specially built automobile constructed on his ideas.

Alone, except for the companionship of his daughter, Mrs. Bert Weeks, Crane left here yesterday morning with two men who had escaped from the penitentiary in Huntsville, Tex. His departure was the occasion of much interest on the part of local police and citizens.

Crane's machine resembles a dog-catcher's wagon, only the wire cage built on the light truck chassis is of much heavier steel fabric. Two seats run full length on each side of the cage similar to those in a police patrol wagon. The door is at the rear and is secured with three heavy padlocks. Over this a steel tail gate is also clamped by a lock. And as an additional precaution against escape the prisoners are handcuffed together with a long steel chain.

"I haven't lost a man yet," said Crane. "It beats train travel for we make a jail each night and there's no chance of them getting away while I sleep."

Crane said on his return trip to the Texas prison he is scheduled to pick up two more prisoners en route. The two who went in his charge from here are A. Van Tassel, 33 years of age, and Ricardo Aguirre 25, who were serving time in Huntsville for burglary at the time of their escape. Arrested here on suspicion of burglary they were identified as escaped prisoners through fingerprint records.

Film Writer's Record Cleared by City Court

A second criminal charge against Courtney Terrett, film writer, was dismissed yesterday in Municipal Court when Judge Thompson found him not guilty on a charge of breaking glass on the highway.

Police testified that they stopped Terrett's automobile September 21, last, at Wilshire and Harvard Boulevards and that some one threw a bottle of liquor from the car to the pavement. On cross-examination by Leonard Wilson, defense attorney, the officers admitted that there were five persons in the machine and that they could not be certain that Terrett was the offender.

Municipal Judge Stafford recently dismissed a bribery charge against Terrett, who was accused of handing the officers $10 each when stopped with the request that they "forget" the traffic violation.

New York Red Riot Featured in News Reel

The spectacular riot precipitated by Reds recently in front of the City Hall, New York, is among the current news events depicted in the latest issue of the Times-Universal Newsreel, now on view in Southern California theaters. Graham McNamee, National Broadcasting Company announcer, gives an accompanying description of the outbreak as the Communists engage police in a hand-to-hand battle along Broadway.

Another interesting group of scenes reveal Clarence Kehr, Toledo's 6-year-old mystery boy, at his feats of strength. Clarence, who weighs only eighty-four pounds, lifts his father and mother with ease.

The schedule of showings may be learned by phoning Newsreel Book at REpublic 3171 and inquiring about Newsreel No. 84.

SHAVING OF HEAD CAUSES RIFT

Wife Declares Pate Polishing Just Prior to Dance Caused Anguish

When Charles A. McDaniel played golf during his wife's illness, that was pretty cruel, Mrs. Frances McDaniel asserts in her divorce petition on file yesterday, but when he shaved his head just before taking her to a formal dance, that was the end.

The complaint states this caused her great humiliation in the presence of her friends and relatives.

In addition, McDaniel falsely accused his wife, a school teacher, of being too familiar with her pupils, and nagged her until she bought him an automobile, she says.

KEY GROUPS OUT IN CHEST DRIVE

"Million-Dollar Committee" Starts Its Canvass

Wealthiest Individuals and Concerns on List

Aggregate of $1,150,000 Set as Their Quota

In answer to the challenge made to the heart and conscience of the city's wealthy citizens by this year's great need of the Los Angeles Community Chest, the task of obtaining the subscriptions of the wealthiest 246 individuals, concerns and corporations of the city now is being effected by the "million-dollar committee" of the central division. This committee, headed by Mayor Porter, consists of two groups led by Russell H. Ballard and Harry Chandler and comprises fifty of the outstanding business and financial leaders of the city.

Organization of this committee resulted from a luncheon given at the Biltmore last week. It was the consensus of opinion of many influential men at that meeting that the situation confronting the charitable organizations in the Community Chest for the coming winter is such as to necessitate substantially increased subscriptions from the wealthy, if a community crisis is to be avoided.

At the meeting, personnel of the committee was allocated to subcommittees by lot. The assignment of prospect names to the committee was allocated to subcommittees by quotas for the two groups set. One group has been assigned a quota of $500,000, and another has a quota of $650,000, or $1,150,000 in all. The work of the committee began Monday morning and a complete and final report is expected to be presented at the first general report luncheon of the campaign in the Biltmore at noon next Tuesday.

Keen rivalry has developed between the members of the two committees, and it is understood that both groups are bending every effort toward attaining and exceeding the quotas by the time of this meeting. The importance of the work of these subcommittees is apparent and the results during this week will, to a very large measure, determine the success or failure of the Chest campaign as a whole, it is believed.

PILOTS TO DESCRIBE AIR DEATH

Inquest Scheduled Today in Case of C. W. Cushman, Killed as Planes Pile Up

Two airplane pilots flying the ships that crashed while landing at United Airport last Sunday are scheduled to testify today at the inquest to be held over the body of C. W. Cushman, former University of California athlete, who was killed. The inquest will be at the Fillbach mortuary, 152 Palm street, Burbank, at 9:30 a.m.

Cushman was decapitated when the propeller of a biplane flown by Don McKee struck him as he sat in the rear cockpit of another open biplane operated by D. D. Santry, pilot instructor from Grand Central Air Terminal.

Santry was in the act of landing his plane when McKee's plane settled down upon him. McKee is reported to have said the lower wing of his ship obscured a view of the Santry craft.

Following the inquest Cushman's body will be shipped to his father, E. B. Cushman, 350 Perry avenue, Oakland. Cushman leaves a widow, reported to be in Oakland.

The dead flyer came here from Durango, Mex., where he was assistant manager of the San Luis Mining Company, to take flight instruction and to purchase a plane. He was graduated from California in 1910 as a mining engineer. He was a track man and a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

Mayor Decrees Marine Day for Visit of Band

In the presence of seven members of the United States Marine recruiting staff, which is located at 105 West Sixth street, Mayor Porter yesterday signed a proclamation designating Sunday, the 26th inst., as United States Marines' Day in Los Angeles.

The visitors called on the Mayor in connection with the scheduled arrival on the 26th inst. of the famous United States Marine Band, known as the "President's Own," which will play on that day in the Coliseum.

This is said to be the first visit of the noted band, consisting of eighty-five pieces, in the Southwest, and marines in this section are showing a keen interest in the coming event. Music lovers from all over California are expected to attend the concerts in the Coliseum. The band is from Washington, and is making a tour of the West.

The marines who called on the Mayor yesterday include Sergts. A. G. Bryan, H. D. Marcus, W. J. Holton, W. B. McMelleon, L. J. Gelinas, H. Self and D. H. Nelson.

ACTION POSTPONED ON EXIT LIGHT CHANGE

Following a conference yesterday between the Fire Commission and the Building and Safety Commission over the proposal by the Pacific Coast Board of Underwriters to change red "exit" lights to green in theaters, hotels and apartments, action was deferred pending an investigation by the building and safety department on the extent to which the change has been adopted generally throughout the country and the reasons therefor. Last week the Fire Commission signified opposition to the plan as needless expense.

GARRIGUS GOES OVER TO GRAVES

Primary Candidate for Supervisor Repudiates Mahaffey Indorsement

Repudiating a previous indorsement of Don Mahaffey, candidate for Supervisor from the Third District, M. L. Garrigus yesterday announced his support of Sidney T. Graves, incumbent and candidate to succeed himself. Garrigus was a candidate at the primary election.

In announcing his switch from Mahaffey to Graves, Garrigus declared that since indorsing the former he has found that Mahaffey is an "open tool of certain interests that seek to rezone the north side of Santa Monica Boulevard and the west side of La Brea for industrialization. Garrigus pointed out that Graves has publicly stated that he will not permit such rezoning unless a majority of the property owners in that district petition for the change. He further challenged the accuracy of statements made by Rev. R. P. Shuler, principal spokesman for Mahaffey. Garrigus writes:

"Mr. Mahaffey's chief ballyho Rev. R. P. Shuler, stated positively that Mr. Mahaffey is using his own funds." Garrigus charged that he has found out that many big private interests are financing the campaign of Mahaffey.

At the Graves headquarters it was announced yesterday that a branch headquarters will be opened today at 3014 Whittier Boulevard. The East Los Angeles phase of Graves's campaign will be conducted from these headquarters.

FUNERAL OF ZURO TO BE TOMORROW

Body of Motion-Picture Musical Director Will Be Taken to New York

Friends and coworkers in screen musical circles will pay final tribute to Josiah Zuro, musical director at Pathe Studios, Inc., tomorrow at 5 p.m., when they gather for funeral services at the chapel at 901 West Washington street.

Zuro, for the past two years under contract for musical adaptions for the screen, lost his life when his auto turned over Sunday as he was driving toward San Diego. Zuro and Oscar Potoker, a musician and friend, were pinned beneath the heavy machine. Zuro died while being taken to a hospital at La Jolla. Potoker was seriously injured, but is expected to recover.

The body of the 42-year-old director is at the Glasband & Groman chapel and is being prepared for shipment to New York for interment, immediately after the funeral services. His father, Louis Zuro, lives in New York City. He was unmarried, and lived here at 8439 Sunset Boulevard.

King Obsequies Set for Today

Funeral services will be conducted at Edwards Brothers Mortuary, 1000 Venice Boulevard, at 2 p.m. today for John King, 77 years of age, first Mayor of Newport Beach, who died last Saturday at his home at 7324 Crenshaw Boulevard.

Past masters of Los Angeles Lodge No. 42, F. & A. M., of which he was worshipful master in 1899, will serve as pallbearers. Burial will be in Rosedale Cemetery.

Mr. King came to Los Angeles from Manchester, Eng., forty years ago, and was for years in the restaurant business. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Willa King, and many relatives in England.

To aid the farmer, the Italian government has ordered that all footstuffs for army horses, mules and other live stock be purchased direct from farmers' federations.

NIBS AND POP HAVE SQUABBLE

Nick Bican's Ineligibility Proves Firebrand

California Coach 'Blows Up' Over Loss of Tackle

Card, Bear Scrap Climaxes Great Verbal Week-end

BY PRESCOTT SULLIVAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—One of the coast's most bombastic week-ends has passed, leaving in its wake enough strong verbiage to last through an ordinary football season.

"NIBS" PRICE.

Stacked up along the gridiron trail tonight are these choice bits:

"Glenn (Pop) Warner is a poor sport," Nibs Price.

"The Stanford team is the dumbest I've ever coached," "Pop" Warner.

Add to these the fact that Nick Bican, California tackle, has been declared ineligible for the season; the statement of Howard Jones that Stanford was under wraps in the Oregon State game and the firm conviction of Paul Schissler, Oregon State coach, that U.S.C., as he saw it, is a stronger team than Stanford, and you have some idea of the hectic goings-on of the past few days.

POP'S INSPIRATION

Warner's personal opinion of his own team was inspired as he watched the Cardinal machine sputter almost to the stalling point against an Oregon State team that had been beaten by Stanford last year, 40 to 7.

What Nibs Price is purported to have said came on the heels of information supplied by Stanford, tending to show that Bican was be-

DANA NEW GRID STAR; CHALKS UP 35 YARDS IN TRIO OF DASHES

BY JOE PUNT

Time—Late Saturday afternoon, October 18, 1930.
Place—Stanford Stadium, Palo Alto.
Occasion—Stanford vs. Oregon State.
Dramatis Personnae—Football players, coaches, officials, water boys, visiting scouts, cash customers, pass-moochers, etc. Stanford is leading 13 to 7, three minutes of play remain, Oregon State has the ball in midfield.

The visiting agriculturalists from Oregon go into a huddle, emerge, step quickly into position and Buerke "fades" as the ball is passed to him, obviously for a long pass. A Stanford end dashes in to hurry or block the throw and an Oregon State back calmly, and illegally—not to say effectively—tackles him and holds him while Buerke tosses the pass far down the field for a first down on Stanford's 25-yard line.

Pop Warner, slightly irascible over the seeming impotence of his athletes, explodes with a roar when he spots the illegal play and breaks away from the bench shouting, gesticulating and probably cursing in attempt to catch the eye of Referee Herb Dana.

He is successful. Mr. Dana promptly, and properly, slaps a 15-yard penalty on Stanford because Pop had in the excitement of the moment stepped beyond the confines within which the coaches are incarcerated to keep them from biting officials and otherwise enjoying themselves.

This plants the ball on Stanford's 10-yard line in Oregon State's possession. Three plays add about as many yards and Oregon State calls for time out for three reasons (1) to get their breath (2) to figure out a play which will tie the score and (3) to prevent the gun from ending the game while they are still doing whatever it is that college quarterbacks do in place of thinking.

Oregon hatches a scoring play and gets into position to pull it the minute the whistle signals that play is to commence. Suddenly a Stanford player with rare presence of mind, remembers that Oregon has already exhausted its legal number of "time outs" (or should it be "times out?") or mebbe he just wanted to upset the boys or something but anyhow the Oregon onslaught is stayed while the referee and timekeeper go into a huddle to check the situation.

Coach Schissler of Oregon State, noting with rare presence of mind that time is fleeting, dashes from his bench to remind the officials to take time out while they are checking up to see whether the Stanford athlete's protest is correct.

Coach Schissler is successful. He catches the attention of Referee Dana and that young man, with malice towards none and justice for all, promptly slaps two penalties on Oregon State, 5 yards for taking time out too many times and 15 yards because Mr. Schissler, following the noble example of Mr. Warner, had strayed beyond the sacred precincts of the Oregon State bench.

Quiet finally is restored. Nothing can be heard but the muttered cursings of the coaches which drown out the exhortations of the 20,000 spectators. Oregon deploys for a pass. The scoring play is successful except that nobody catches the pass. The gun sounds the end of the game.

Players dash for their respective benches but quicker than the players are Coaches Warner and Schisler who, as one man, dash for Referee Dana to throttle him before the eyes of 20,000 customers. In the excitement of their dash for Mr. Dana, their eyes intent upon his epiglottis or whatever it is that you throttle people by, the two coaches collide.

A quick—and dirty—look is exchanged. A sudden recollection that after all, a sportsman is always a sportsman. A formal—and hasty grasp of the hand. (Hold it for a still, gentlemen.) In the confusion following this display of friendly good will and all that sort of thing Referee Dana escapes. Curtain.

FORMER CAPTAIN OPINES COACH WARNER BAFFLED

Trojans Labor Behind Locked Bovard Gates

BY BRAVEN DYER

Shrouded in utmost secrecy behind the locked gates of Bovard Field, the Trojans of Southern California yesterday began their final practice drive preparatory to Saturday's grid gigantic with Stanford at Palo Alto.

MARGER APSIT.

Howard Jones barred everybody from the workout which consisted mainly of defensive work against Stanford formations, followed by light dummy scrimmage testing Trojan plays. Jones has so many inexperienced players on his squad that he is going even stronger than ever in his defensive preparations for the Stanford encounter.

Through Al Wesson, publicity purveyor for Troy, news leaked out of several developments during last night's practice. Mr. Wessons, who wields a mean mashie when not caressing his Remington or phoning choice bits of information over the wire, reported that two of Southern California's erstwhile cripples, Marger Apsit and Raymond (Tay) Brown, were able to take part in the drill.

MOHLER AT QUARTER

Apsit appeared at his left halfback berth with the varsity, after spending much of last week as a spectator. He saw no action against the agonizing Utah Aggies. Teaming with Marger in the varsity backfield were Orv Mohler at quarter, Erny Pinckert at right halfback and Galus the Shaver at fullback.

On the front line of defense, Bob

Declares S.C. Favored Over Card Eleven

BY BIFF HOFFMAN
Former Stanford Captain

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—One would not be safe in placing too many bets on the Stanford chances of coming through the season undefeated. Warner has two very large humps to get over when his team runs up against Southern California and California. At present it appears very doubtful whether or not the Cardinals can take the Trojans into camp, and if they do, the California team that has been making such vast improvements by leaps and bounds during the last two weeks, stands an even chance of winning the big game this year.

"POP" WARNER.

The Stanford team is following the same course it fell into last season, looking very strong with the start of the season and trampling over the first two or three opponent teams with all sorts of power, then falling into a midseason slump. There is a mystery surrounding the way that Cardinal team has been functioning and even Coach Warner is baffled. Where is all that class the Cards displayed during the first three weeks, and what happened to all that power that stuck out on every play the Stanford team launched?

In their game against Minnesota and in the game last week-end against Oregon State, Warner's men could not show enough concentrated power to carry them through on

LEGIONNAIRES SWAMPED BY FIREMEN GRIDS, 58-0

Waltzing through their opponents as they wished, the Los Angeles Firemen trounced the Santa Barbara American Legion gridsters, 58 to 0, in a game played at Wrigley Field last night before a crowd of approximately 7000 spectators. The game was one-sided in favor of the flashy Fire-Eaters, who scored just when and where they wanted to.

Jimmy Dyer, flashy fullback for Coach Bill Blewett's boys, copped the starring honors of the night's battle, scoring five touchdowns. Dyer is one of the flashiest open-field runners of the game, and proved his capabilities with no restrictions.

The fans did not get to see much of the inimitable Don Moses, for-

ANGEL INFIELD CRIPPLED

Sigafoos Definitely Out of Play-off; Haney May Not Play; Heath on Star Injured List

BY BOB RAY

With Frank Sigafoos still hobbling around on a "balloon" knee and Fred Haney suffering from a pulled groin tendon, it appeared quite certain yesterday that Jack Lelivelt's Angels will start and probably finish their Coast League championship play-off series against the Hollywood Stars with a crippled infield.

Sigafoos has water on the knee and is definitely out of the play-off, but there is a chance that Haney may get back into the line-up before the series ends. Fred pulled a muscle in his groin in Friday's game and if he does get into the play-off against the Sheiks it will be because of his gameness for yesterday he had trouble walking around, much less running or playing baseball.

FRED HANEY.

With both Siggy and Haney out the Angels' chances of victory will be considerably reduced, but the Cherub athletes aren't the least bit downhearted. They believe that they'll trim the Stars anyhow and aren't the least bit backward saying so.

Lelivelt announced last night that he had given up hopes of Sigafoos's playing and that the second-base duties will be taken care of by young Art Parker, who has performed rather creditably when given the chance this season. If Haney isn't able to play Jigger Statz will hold down third base. Jigger has been performing nobly around the hot corner for the past couple of weeks and has proved he can take care of himself in the infield.

Because the Seraph inner defense is crippled the Stars have been made favorites to capture the flag, but if anybody has the idea that this play-off series is going to be a one-sided affair he's mistaken. Crippled infield or not, the Angels are nobody's set-up and it's my guess that the series is going to result in a whale of a battle that will not be decided in less than six games.

Using the same line-up that they'll send on the diamond in the play-off, the Angels last week took five out of seven from Hollywood and the Stars were trying to win. It seems that the Cherubs just have

BARNARD WOULD CANCEL SACRIFICE FLY RULING

CHICAGO, Oct. 20. (AP)—President E. S. Barnard of the American League today said he would seek elimination of the sacrifice fly from the major-minor baseball rules when the joint rule committee meets in December.

Under present rules, any fly ball that advances a runner one or more bases whether intentional or not, is counted as a sacrifice. President Barnard seeks to eliminate it from the rules altogether and count only an intentional bunt, which advances a runner, as a sacrifice.

"The sacrifice fly is one of the most absurd rules in baseball," President Barnard explained. "Almost every time one is hit, it is merely a stroke of luck. The batter gets up and swings and if he is lucky enough to hit a long fly that advances a good runner one base, he is credited with a sacrifice and no time at bat."

For many years only an intentional bunt was scored as a sacrifice when advancing a runner. Two years ago the sacrifice rule was "loaded up" to include sacrifice fly.

Huskies Nab Oregon Horn Second Time

SEATTLE, Oct. 20. (AP)—University of Washington students didn't bring back a victory from Portland Saturday but the Oregon siren was taken, they say for keeps, this time.

Last year it was stolen from Oregon rooters at the football game here. Only a small body of rooters were here to protect it, however, and the theft was declared an unsportsmanlike trick and the trophy was returned.

Students guarding it were lured away from a Portland hotel room Saturday, reports say, and under heavy escort it was brought here.

ARNOLD VISITS CITY; MAY DRIVE AT ASCOT

Driving a long, low-slung, front-drive stock roadster, Billy Arnold, America's national speedway champion for 1930, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. First he visited the Harry Hartz home at 511 North Sycamore street, where he will be a guest during his Southern California stay. Then he went direct to the Richfield Building, where he conferred with Richfield officials concerning his plans for 1931. He finished a busy day by contracting with Jean Marcenac, famous French automotive mechanic, for work on cars which Harry Hartz has planned for him.

BILLY ARNOLD.

He announced last night that his first California appearance will be at the Bakersfield sanctioned dirt-track race a week from next Sunday.

"I am not yet certain whether I shall enter any of the Ascot events or not," said Arnold. "I plan, however, to try out cars on the track and test out the car Hartz will redesign for next year's events."

Former football player for the University of Illinois and weighing 190 pounds, the young champion's appearance proved a surprise to those here who had previously not seen Arnold. Published photos, following his eastern victories, created such a juvenile impression—because of the champion's youthful face—that many sports writers wrote of him as "Little" Bill Arnold. But, as Harry Hartz pointed out last night, Bill is anything but little and weighs 187 when driving.

Arnold was the real "dark horse" of this year's racing on eastern speedways. Picked by Harry Hartz as a coming champ after Hartz had watched his work on middle-western dirt tracks, the young Chicago lad flashed into immediate fame with a brilliant win at Indianapolis. He followed this by winning both races at Altoona. These victories clinched the 1930 championship bolt.

OUT here in the Far West they are acclaiming one O. E. (Babe) Hollingbery as a "miracle man." He is the coach of the team that beat both California and Southern California on successive Saturdays. The Cougars, as the Washington State team of Pullman, Wash., is called, proved to be a clawing, scrapping bunch of wildcats, for after traveling to Berkeley to defeat California, 16 to 0, they entertained Howard Jones's Trojans at home on the 11th inst. and beat them, 7 to 6. W.S.C. has not lost a game on its home field since "Babe" Hollingbery took over the job of coaching them. Beating California is not a new stunt with "Babe" either, as he formerly coached the Olympic Club team of San Francisco that first upset the

Dartmouth Eleven Sure to Bother Stanford

Harvard and Green to Clash Next Saturday

BY EDWIN B. DOOLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (Exclusive) Several football thunderbolts hit the East last Saturday in the form of football upsets. Maj. Ralph Sasse's West Point eleven smashed through Harvard's defense to win by a single touchdown and thereby justify the new Army attack which the major copied from Pop Warner. Cornell, flashing a light but aggressive outfit, that played in a manner reminiscent of the formidable Big Red machines of a few years back, pushed through Princeton's line for a victory and two touchdowns; Penn's delicately tuned offense crumpled before the aggressive rushes of Wisconsin's hard-charging line; Yale made a thrilling comeback against a fighting Brown team, and Duke pulled the feature of the day by beating Navy, 18 to 0.

It was generally thought that Arnold Horween, who closes his coaching career at Cambridge this season, would put a team on the field that would take Army into camp without much ado. But the Cadets proved to have a powerful unit, well supplied with manpower, talent and reserve material and able to give and take blow for blow with the Crimson forces.

LATERAL PASS FAILS

Harvard's downfall might justly be attributed to the failure of its lateral passes to function properly. The Crimson team has gone more intensely into this phase of offensive play than any other team in the country and when its lateral attack was squashed completely it was a death blow to the Cantabrigian attack. Army sent its end in to hurry or tackle the man with the ball, while the secondaries came up fast to crack the key man, often getting to him before the lateral pass was under way.

Ticknor, Harvard's brilliant center and one of outstanding caliber in these parts, played a great game, and so, too, did Trainer, the right guard, and Wood, the Crimson quarterback. Army covered Wood's beautiful passes so well, however, that they were quite ineffective.

Boston football fans, and they are legion, are awaiting with avidity the game between Harvard and Dartmouth at the Harvard Stadium next Saturday not only because of the intense rivalry between these two well-coached elevens, and the interest the game always arouses, but also because of the battle of centers that is going to take place between Ticknor and Hal Andres, Dartmouth captain and pivot. The latter is, according to his own coach, Jackson Cannell, the finest center to ever play for the Big Green. And Ticknor holds a similar reputation at Harvard.

Cornell, in beating Princeton, surprised the fans in the Palmer Stadium by shooting some beautiful forward passes over the Tiger backs for long gains. Gil Dobie, the Ithacan mentor, never seemed to care much for the aerial game. People thought he was prejudiced against it, but as a matter of truth he wasn't. Dobie told the writer a year ago that if he ever found a passer at Cornell he would use him plenty, and he made good his words. Cornell this year has a passing attack as fine as any team around. It tosses them on any down and with an effectiveness that is most impressive.

SMALL, BUT GOOD

The Ithacan team is small in size, but quite formidable. Princeton outweighed it sixteen pounds a man on the line and three pounds a man in the backfield. But Cornell's Dobiesque precision of movement, its definite blocking and excellent co-ordination overcame the Tigers' defense. Cornell appears to possess the makings of a great team . . . as was anticipated in this column a short while ago . . . and it will give Penn, Dartmouth and Columbia plenty of trouble, and may pull out on the long end of the score.

Dartmouth's smashing triumph over Columbia by a 52-point margin emphasizes the fact that the Green eleven has another remarkable team up in the hills of Hanover this season. If Harvard falls before the north country boys next week, Coach Cannell's team ought to take Yale and Cornell. Dartmouth rooters are a little skeptical about the Green's chances of beating Stanford. The Palo Alto contingent left an impression that will not soon fade when they trounced Army in the metropolis two years ago. Still there are some who believe that the fast style of play, the varied offense, and the subtle scheme of attack employed by Dartmouth constitute the necessary elements for a victory over the Cardinals.

At the present time, Dartmouth, Army, Fordham and Cornell top the list of outstanding eastern elevens. Two of these and possibly three will rise higher or fall into comparative oblivion next Saturday. Dartmouth must beat Harvard in order to retain its prestige; Army will have to trim Yale, and Fordham must defeat N.Y.U. All of these engagements are of utmost importance to the contesting teams for they will have a direct bearing on the team ratings, sectionally and nationally.

Fordham, fresh from victories over Boston College and Holy Cross is ready to face Chick Meehan's versatile and swift-footed band of ball carriers. This contest, always a favorite with New Yorkers, will attract 80,000 to the Yankee Stadium. Maj. Cavanaugh, one of the old war-horses, sent his team on the field minus shoulder pads and hip pads. He thinks they are a nuisance and superfluous. So far his squad has had no bone injuries so the major seems to have the best of the argument.

FIGHTER DIES IN RING

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. (AP)—Carl Baldus, Harlem light-heavyweight, collapsed and died in the ring of the new Lenox Sports Club here tonight. Baldus was matched in a four-round preliminary bout with Larry Hogan. After fairly even battling for two rounds, Baldus fell to the floor in the third round without being hit. The club physician, Dr. Perry Lichtenstein, was called and pronounced him dead. Hogan, a Negro, was arrested on a technical charge of homicide.

EVANS, THOMAS MIX

Huerta Evans, the Huntington Park junior lightweight, who has met Fidel La Barba and other ringmasters and who recently gave Claude Varner a hard fight at the Olympic, will try to stop the winning streak of the new "terror of the sticks," Ritchie Thomas, when the pair clash at the Pico "Bowl near Whittier tomorrow night.

Meaning Nothing

THERE are two details along the line of football records that mean exactly nothing. One is "the high scorer for the season" among football teams and the other is the "leading scorer" among the ball-carriers. One good, ordinary back can run up more points against weak opposition in one game than a star back can score in a whole season against stronger rivalry. One fair team can beat some set-up 80 to 0, where another team is doing a far better job in trimming a real rival 7 to 0.

As a general proposition the "leading scorer" idea merely means weak opposition and lack of high-class competition. It is more of an indictment than a boost. It has nothing whatever to do with real football values, except in a reverse fashion.

Coming Tests

There will be more fur flying this next Saturday. Quite a delegation of the unbeaten will be handed menus that may lead, here and there, to a little indigestion.

Notre Dame hasn't been beaten and neither has Pittsburgh. There is a good chance that Notre Dame won't be beaten at all, but here is another hard test to face, one of the hardest. Pitt was strong enough to beat a high-class Syracuse team, 14 to 0 and Pitt may be strong enough, playing at home, to extend even Notre Dame, a feat that only Southern Methodist has accomplished up to date.

This is only one case. An unbeaten Army team moves against an improving Yale team—a Yale team that is on its way forward—a Yale team good enough to beat Brown, 21 to 0.

A powerful looking Dartmouth team, strongly supplied with reserves, will find Harvard waiting and Harvard hopes to have Eddie Mays ready and a much better line on hand than the Army had to meet. And the hardest game of the day may easily be the meeting of Stanford and Southern California. Here is one battle that is always closely and bitterly fought between two powerful teams that can throw in high-class reserves as long as they are needed.

When it comes to hard fighting there will be no game on the schedule to take the high note from N.Y.U. and Fordham, who put on their civil war in New York. Fordham has now won thirteen games in a row since 1928. N.Y.U. has come back to her own. This will be a contest.

Southern Strength

The South from Carolina to Texas is moving up in a hurry this season. Vanderbilt trims Minnesota 33 to 7 and Minnesota holds Stanford to a 0-0 tie. On the same day S.M.U. from Texas comes to Notre Dame and has the South Bend Simoon collared in an even blow up to the last two or three minutes, the only scare Rockne has known this fall. Georgia comes north to beat Yale after spotting the Blue an illegal touchdown.

South Carolina beats Duke 23 to 0 and Duke beats the Navy 18 to 0. Comparative scores mean little, but comparative performances on the field mean a lot. As good as that Army backfield was against Harvard with Bowman, Letzeiter, Fields and Herb, Yale will find it hasn't the combined speed and savage driving power of the Georgia backs who strike faster and harder than any set of backs I have seen this year. Which brings up the thought that Vanderbilt and Alabama will put on a feature show this week at Birmingham that may have a distinct bearing on the southern championship, especially after Alabama's victory over Tennessee.

The Misfortunes of War

The casualty list in football has been extensive this season. Harvard has had almost no use from Mays and Devens, two of her backfield aces and the main cogs in her lateral passing attack.

Northwestern has missed Hank Bruder, one of the best in the game. Tennessee has lost McEver for the year and there is no better back than this fast, shifty 185-pounder. In most cases it has been an affair of bad knees. And a bad knee is no help to any football player. He could get by better with two bad necks—if he happened to be built that way.

Out beyond the Mississippi they are still talking about this big Kansas team. "For sheer size and power it has no equal in football," one veteran observer writes. "And it is far from being slow."

Notre Dame's hardest job will be to keep keyed up from one hard Saturday to another, with almost no rest. N. D. has already beaten S. M. U., Navy and Carnegie Tech. It still has left a few such teams as Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Northwestern, Army and Southern California. Even these remaining games make a tougher schedule than most teams face.

When it comes to rugged schedules, however, few have anything on Yale. Maryland (pretty good,) Georgia, Brown, Army, Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard. It takes a flock of reserve strength to handle this assignment. Notre Dame has it. Yale has yet to show how much the Blue carries in the way of spares.

"Columbia's defeat by 52 to 0 and Illinois' defeat by 32 to 0 are good things for both teams," writes an expert. Explain that just a little more fully to Lou Little and Bob Zuppke. Fortunately they both have rebounding dispositions and have already proved their places in the sun.

REDLANDS NOW FAVORED TO TROUNCE SAGEHENS

CLAREMONT, Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—With the dogged determination which has characterized great Blue football teams in the past, the Pomona College Sagehens began this afternoon to collect the pieces of their wrecked 1930 machine, in time to put up a stiff battle against the Redlands outfit here this Friday night.

The Sagehens, twice defeated in Southern California Conference play, are doped to lose to the Baptists, but nevertheless they hope to come into their own by breaking into the win column before traveling to Arizona the following week-end.

FAIL TO TALLY

A 2-0 victory garnered by Caltech Saturday night was the final shove to the Pomona toboggan and the Sagehens slid into the cellar position in the standings, the first time in many seasons they have dropped so low. The slim Engineer margin, garnered in the second quarter when a slippery ball led to a safety, held up despite the strong Pomona threats to score. Twice, the Sagehens were in good position to cross the goal line, but they lacked offensive strength to click in crucial moments.

The Pomona backfield was strengthened this afternoon by the return of Bob Baynham, halfback, to the squad, following a two weeks' absence, because of an injured leg. Baynham, while not yet in the best of shape, is expected to be in condition to work against the Bulldogs. He was the big ground-gainer for the Hens in the San Diego contest.

Capt. Al Putnam and Don Murdy, leading Sagehen backs, were on the sidelines tonight, because of the hard game they played Saturday. Both will be in suits tomorrow. The remainder of the Blue squad reported in good shape for training.

Against the Engineers the Sagehens played a much stronger game than in the San Diego tilt, but the Techmen had a bit too much for them. Smart generalship and a smashing, fighting—although clean—line made the Tech eleven a formidable opponent.

The Blue secondary defense, which came in for plenty of work last week, proved strong against the Tech passing attack, but the Sagehen forwards still were bothered by trick plays. Coach Eugene Nixon has not yet indicated whether he will make any changes in the Pomona line-up. Baynham's return will mean probably the retirement to the bench of George Stancer. Jack Witherspoon, the big reserve who won a regular job just before the Tech tussle, apparently is strong enough to remain in that post for a while, at any rate. He went well against the Techmen.

Pomona's passing attack worked better Saturday than any time before this season, and indications are Nixon will work to improve his running attack, which has yet to work in the pinches. Capt. Putnam displayed his former brilliance in breaking away for most of the Sagehen gains.

Murdy completely demonstrated his ability to handle the Blue punting duties, for his long kicks time and again kept the Techmen out of dangerous territory. He also contributed a kick-off which went over the goal line.

Redlands comes here with a highly touted aerial attack, and the Sagehens will work to stop the Beiden-to-Beiden and Beiden-to-Bell combinations which have proved so dangerous to date. This tilt will mark the debut of the Bulldogs into the 1930 title race, testing their strength, for the Hens still have enough power to make them a threat.

HALL, DON KENNEDY MEET AT PASADENA

Richey Hall, former star of the amateur clubs, makes his first appearance at Pasadena Arena Thursday night against the local flash, Don Kennedy.

Four-round semifinal on the card will be furnished by Joe Pimenthal and Ad Cadena, 130 pounds.

Other four-round events will be: Honest Murphy vs. Les Darcy, 140 pounds; Jack Kay vs. Jack Campbell, 148 pounds; Frank Spalone vs. Bob Maxwell, 138 pounds; Bobby Payne vs. Ramon Navarro, 120 pounds.

GILMORE LIONS TRIM SUNFREZE AT HOCKEY

The Gilmore Lions went into a tie for second place last night at the Winter Garden Ice Palace by defeating the Sunfreze Bears, 6 to 1. The game was hard fought and the score does not quite tell the story of the stiff battle. Twenty-three penalties were called during the evening, two of these being for major offenses.

DOMINGUEZ TO TRAIN GEORGE

Mexican Mat Artists Will Aid Title Aspirant

One of the two star heavyweight grapplers Don George sought as training partners for his finish title match with Champion Gus Sonnenberg at the Olympic the 29th inst. accepted his offer yesterday.

DON GEORGE

Jose Dominguez, Mexican mat king, who defeated Joe Malcewicz so easily here last week, and who is scheduled to tangle with Howard Cantonwine, the giant Iowaan grappler, in the second bout of the title card next week, agreed to help George prepare for the mat king.

Bob "Bibber" McCoy, the flying-tackler exponent and the other grappler sought by George as a trainer, refused to give the Hollywood mat star any assistance. McCoy declared he expected to leave for the East early today.

McCoy, however, looks for George to give Sonnenberg a real battle and also concedes him a slight chance to win if he is able to score before he starts tiring.

According to McCoy, who is credited with giving the mat king his toughest match this year, Sonnenberg has more endurance and recuperative powers than any wrestler in the game. He has won many of his matches by letting his opponents tire himself out and then crashing into them with tackles or butts. McCoy himself attempted to score a quick victory over Sonnenberg in Boston but lost the deciding fall when the mat king crashed into his face with a flying butt.

over winning a bout in a Philadelphia ring turned a cartwheel and waved his hands to the fans.

Both battlers, among the hardest hitters in the featherweight class, made it a hammer-and-tongs affair from the beginning. Shea, the stiffer puncher, kept boring in and battered the Filipino's body. Datto, shifty and clever, tried to box his opponent, but Shea wouldn't let him.

Shea stung the Clevelander with both hands for three rounds and Datto was punch-dizzy and bleeding from the nose and mouth when he went to his corner at the end of the third. Shea also showed marks of battle, for Datto's sharp jabs and stinging rights had opened up an old cut over his eye.

Datto was still a trifle wobbly when he came out for the fourth, and Shea's rush carried him against the ropes. He fought his way out and they were mixing it up in the center of the ring when Shea shot over a right to the jaw that sent his opponent reeling.

FIREMEN COP CONTEST, 58-0

mer Trojan star, as Coach Blewett was saving him for future use. However, Moses did get in long enough to score one touchdown.

One of the highlights of the evening's bill was a sensational 95-yard return of the kick-off at the beginning of the third quarter by Sarver, left half, for a touchdown. Although Sarver was afforded ample interference during the most of his run, his elusiveness to the Santa Barbara tacklers was outstanding.

Many fans had gone out to Wrigley Field to see Coach Clarence Schutte, former Minnesota pigskin star, and his warriors give the local denizens of the fire house an even battle, but the affair turned into another one of those lop-sided scoring duels. The spin plays, reverses, double reverses, fake reverses and passes of the Blewett tribe completely surrounded the visitors, who did not get a look in. Capt. "Slim" Hinsdale, who played right end and several other positions for Santa Barbara, was the shining light on his team's roster. Hinsdale is capable of playing up in higher competition than the rest of his team, and kept fighting and plugging until the last whistle was blown.

The starting line-up:

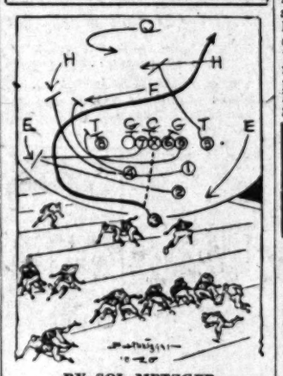
Local Youths Play Against Oxy Saturday

TUCSON (Ariz.) Oct. 20.—When Occidental's Tigers and the University of Arizona Wildcats clash at Phoenix on Saturday two former Los Angeles high-school grid stars will be playing under the colors of the Arizona institution.

Earl Bennett, a graduate of Manual Arts High School, and Kenneth Sagar, former Polytechnic player, have earned places on the Wildcat machine and will be seen against the Californians.

Both are ends. Sagar has been a regular on the Cat squad for two years, while Bennett is being fitted into a regular's position for the first time this season. Each is playing his final year of football.

Play Success Depends Upon Interference



BY SOL METZGER

The swan song of Bill Roper's long coaching regime at Princeton is reaching a high pitch these beautiful October days, for the Tigers meet the Navy Saturday, a game the Philadelphia Councilman and football mentor is tremendously keen to win. Last year it was a 13-13 tie, a very lucky last-minute tie for the Tigers.

Look for this Princeton play when this battle is under way, run from a punt formation. Ball comes to 3, running forward a step or two to let his backs on the right, 1 and 2, get ahead of him ere he swings to the left behind them and linemen 7 and 9.

Already 4 is helping 8 with the Navy's right tackle. Seven and 2 drive the right end out while 1 and 9 lead the runner off tackle, 5 cutting through after stopping the charge of his immediate opponent, to upset the defensive back ahead of him and thus clear a way for No. 3, when he reverses his field after crossing the line.

What a great mass of interference such a play puts ahead of the runner! Small wonder such rushes go for touchdowns. It's the same old play Jakie Slagle used to give the Elis their annual trouncing. Once he beat Yale with it by making 80 yards.

SPUG MYERS SHADED BY MANUEL QUINTERO

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 20. (AP) Manuel Quintero, Tampa, Fla., took a close decision over Spug Myers, Pocatello, Idaho, in their ten-round headline bout here tonight. Quintero won the first round, lost the next two, took the fourth, lost the fifth, sixth and seventh and finished strong to take the last three sessions and decision. Quintero weighed 147 and Myers 140.

GRAY FOG TO PLAY LOYOLA

San Francisco Eleven Meets Lions Saturday Night

A species of fog, otherwise known as gloom, heavy, hazy gobs of it, has settled down over the campus and gridiron of Loyola University. It's all on account of the Fog, the big Gray Fog of San Francisco, and the real clouds won't be actually here until Saturday night.

TOM LIEB

Loyola's Lions go up against the University of San Francisco, formerly known as St. Ignatius College, and more vernacularly styled the Gray Fog, on Saturday night. The game is scheduled for Wrigley Field. And it is the advance guard of this Gray Fog, the reputation that the northern boys have already built for themselves, which has come over the local campus.

Coach Jimmy Needles will bring three complete teams here for the game. The first team was good enough to beat the West Coast Army, Gonzaga University and to hold St. Mary's College to a 13-to-0 score. Needles probably will start his second team against Loyola. Except for the moral indication of this, namely, that they are not rated highly, this fact does not particularly bother the Loyola athletes. It's the first team they worry about.

Bears Get Set to Invade Lair of Husky Band

BERKELEY, Oct. 20. (Exclusive) Vacation days ended for the University of California's first-string football players today when Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price put them through a hard session under such dark skies as may be expected in Seattle Saturday afternoon when the Golden Bears meet with Coach Jimmy Phelan's University of Washington Huskies.

Ted Beckett, Carl Handy, Russ Avery, Togo Thornton, Fritz Cahn, Herman Eickmeyer, Ed Griffiths, Hank Schaldach and Joe Hickingbotham, all of whom were absent from Saturday's line-up, went to work with renewed vigor this afternoon. Most of these men have been suffering from injuries of a minor or serious nature, but they have all benefited from the layoff and are now hot for action.

Price is not completely recovered from the shock of losing Nick Bican, who, it has been uncovered, is ineligible on account of his gridiron play prior to coming to California. Bican is a real loss, since he is big and experienced, but the return of Eickmeyer and Medanich to the center job, and Timmerman and Del Georgio to the tackle posts relieves Price of any great mental strain on Bican's account.

The biggest concern of the California partisans centered today in the condition of Hank Schaldach. The little star, who has the speed of a flyweight and the strength of a heavyweight, is considerably better following his disastrous experience at the hands of Brovelli in the St. Mary's game. When Brovelli tackled Schaldach and laid him low, it was feared he had suffered concussion of the brain. There are no signs of this now, and Schaldach is again ready to defend the California colors against Phelan in the first California meeting with the former Purdue coach.

HERB RUSSELL COPS CULVER CITY BATTLE

Herb Russell, beach favorite, won a four-round decision over Johnny Martinez last night at the Culver City Arena. The bout was the feature event of the reopening program staged by the club. Verl Whitehead won from Cecil Jordan in the four-round semi-wind-up. Frankie Mann and Leo Dominguez drew in a four-rounder. Manuel Trevino won from Johnny Godinez. Ray Mazarro and Milt Watkins drew as did Albert Dozier and Ben Moselle.

Indiana Dons Lighter Togs for Grid Tilt

BLOOMINGTON (Ind.) Oct. 20. (Exclusive)—After playing in the Far North in a bitter wind against Minnesota at Minneapolis last Saturday, the Indiana University football team returned to Southern Indiana today, and will don lighter uniforms for its game with Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Tex., next Saturday. The squad of twenty-seven men, with coaches and trainers and the 108-piece band, will leave here Thursday on a special train of eight Pullmans, going by way of Louisville. Tomorrow's practice will consist of building up a defense against the open-field play of the Texans, which consists of passes and laterals.

Carlson Wins Dyas Trophy for Big Deer

The five days' grace extended to deer hunters by the B. H. Dyas Company in the competition for the heaviest deer of the season trophy ended last night at sundown and found J. E. Carlson of Hollywood the winner.

Carlson hunted on the final day of the season, the 15th inst., in Medicine Canyon, Siskiyou county, and bagged a huge buck weighing over 200 pounds. He dressed the big deer and had it packed for shipping to Los Angeles. He registered at the Dyas Company on the 16th inst. and weighed the deer on the official Dyas scales. It tipped the beam at 193½ pounds.

The deer season in California ended on the 15th inst., and was one of the best seasons during the last few years. Many deer, a number of them quite heavy, were killed. The second heaviest weighed in on the Dyas trophy weighed 162½ pounds. It was killed by P. W. Davis of Los Angeles near Palmdale. The third heaviest was a 161½-pound buck of J. A. Redpath. It was bagged in Siskiyou county.

Many local deer hunters have now left for the Kaibab National Forest of Arizona, where the season opened on the 1st inst. The Kaibab is considered the finest deer-hunting grounds in the United States. Hunters who go there are practically assured of bagging two deer and are allowed to make their two include a doe.

Bat Battalino Loses on Foul

JERSEY CITY (N. J.) Oct. 20. (AP)—Young Zazzarino of Jersey City won from Bat Battalino of Hartford, Ct., featherweight champion, on a foul in the third round of a ten-round nontitle bout at the Oakland A. A. here tonight. Zazzarino, at 127½ pounds, was a pound and a half over the class limit. Battalino weighed 126.

It was a fast and furious battle as far as it went. The champion held an edge in the first round but Zazzarino got going in the second and won it by a decisive margin.

They battled away on even terms in the third round until Battalino landed a low left hook that disabled Zazzarino. Referee Danny Sullivan stepped in and awarded the fight to the Jersey City boy.

SPORTS SKETCH BY FEG MURRAY

Golden Bears during the "wonder team" era.

Last year the Cougars won ten games and lost to California and Southern California. In 1928 they lost to the same two universities, and to Washington as well.

A gent named Ellingsen proved to be the Cougars main claw in the defeat of U.S.C., for it was the passing, punting and defense work of this fine all-around star that ruined the Trojans more than anything else. Ellingsen plays left halfback, and is ably assisted by Tonkin, quarter, Lainhart, right half, and Schwartz, fullback.

It is interesting to note that where two famous coaches, Spears and Phelan, have taken up new jobs and threatened to end the long reign of California's "big three," an overlooked youngster, practically unknown in the East, rises up and steals their thunder by trimming Howard Jones's team and Nibs Price's team before Oregon and Washington get a crack at their hated rivals from the Pacific Southwest. Washington State does not play Stanford this season.

Hollingbery's first name is Orion. In Greek mythology, Orion was a giant and a hunter. But I bet he never killed a Bear and a Trojan within the space of eight days!

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

A REAL PROPHET

THE gent who can pick that Stanford-S.C. game on the nose next Saturday deserves a gold medal. He should join the cult of ladies with languorous eyes who can tap your skull and read your mind or look at the palm of your hand and foretell the future.

Folks who believe in the ladies with languorous eyes will believe the guy who says Stanford will win by two touchdowns. Or the chap who says Southern California is a cinch to win its third straight victory over the Warner-coached boys.

If you want to be a fall guy or a great guy make your selection and stick to it. Nothing that happens between now and next Saturday is likely to change the outcome one way or the other. Your present pick will be the berries or vice versa.

On the strength of what has gone before, the team that clicks at Palo Alto will win Saturday's game.

Washington State beat Southern California and made the Trojans look bad.

Stanford had a tough time overcoming Oregon State, two touchdowns to one, and holding its lead until gun time.

The Trojans on the other hand beat Oregon State, 27 to 7, and looked good doing it.

They say Stanford has the plays to conquer the Trojans with this year. Well, so has S.C. to achieve the opposite effect.

If you want to know my guess, I think it's Stanford's turn.

CHAMP OF CHAMPS

A GREAT golfer that Collett woman, five-time winner of the United States amateur title.

A player who can play well within herself at all times and still apply the pressure when it is needed.

And how she put it on during the last two days of the women's national championship at the Los Angeles Country Club last week.

In her semifinal match with Helen Hicks she started with a birdie and she finished with a birdie.

She was 3 up against the Hicks girl in the first three holes, and two of the wins were birdies.

No woman in the world can spot Glenna Collett such a margin and get away with it. It's murder in the first degree.

It's just like giving Bobby Jones such a margin and expecting to catch him. It can't be done.

And when you compare Glenna with Bobby you talk in terms of the same department of the game—putting.

Bobby Jones is the world's greatest male putter, and Glenna holds that distinction among the women.

Glenna putts just like Bobby. She stands with feet close together, has the same relaxed though crisp sweep to her stroke, and she always goes for the hole.

"Never up, never in" is her creed. And once she gets the line watch 'em drop. Ask Virginia Van Wie, who three-putted her way out of the finals against Glenna.

A GREAT GREEN TEAM

WHAT manner of team is this aggregation wearing the Green of Dartmouth this year?

In four games the Hanoverians have revealed themselves the major scoring outfit of the country, having tallied 225 points to opponents' 0.

Victories over Norwich, 79 to 0; Bates, 20 to 0; Boston U., 74 to 0, and Columbia, 52 to 0, have given Dartmouth its staggering total.

Beaten only by Yale and Navy last year, the Dartmouth boys seem to be headed for somewhere this season, and may come out here to meet Stanford in late November with an undefeated record.

However, there are several stiff hurdles just ahead of the Dartmouth boys, one of which appears on the horizon next Saturday in the shape of a determined Harvard squad which was beaten by a lone Army touchdown last week.

After Harvard comes Yale—the succeeding Saturday—and then Dartmouth breathes with a game against Allegheny, following with Cornell fourteen days before the scheduled battle with Stanford at Palo Alto on November 29.

It is particularly interesting in view of our Trojans' inability to kick goals after touchdowns that the Hanoverians are very apt at converting—drop or place-kick. And when they tire of this manner they get the extra point by rushing.

WARNER, PRICE AT WAR

ing played illegitimately by the Bears.

California answered Stanford's polite suggestion anent the eligibility of Bican by ruling Nick off the team, but if he has been quoted correctly, Price didn't take at all kindly to the idea of losing another tackle. Price, you know, has had much grief with his tackles this year.

KEEPS QUIET

Nibs wasn't answering the telephone today, not even to set himself right with his public, so what he is supposed to have said about Pop Warner will have to stand until he denies it officially.

And Nibs is supposed to have said plenty. Excerpts from the text laid to his Nibs follow:

"It was low and unsportsmanlike. If it takes such detective work to be a football coach at Stanford, I'm glad I haven't got the job. But it won't help Warner in the 'big game.' Bican was a good man, but the only effect his leaving will have on the California team is to arouse every man to a greater fighting pitch."

Price was too busy to pay much heed to intrepid campus correspondents who edged up to the coach, cleared their throats and asked meekly: "Mr. Price, did you say those things about Mr. Warner?"

MUMBLE, MUMBLE

To these inquiries Price made scarcely any reply and the campus correspondents drifted away talking to themselves.

Although Washington lost to Oregon, 7 to 0, last week, Price suspects his Bears will have a battle on their hands when they meet Jimmy Phelan's Washington athletes.

Formation C may be thrown back into the alphabet soup if it works no better than it did against Oregon State.

Good old formation A, however, was the means of producing both Stanford touchdowns at Palo Alto in the first half—a lateral to Moffatt for 11 yards, and a forward pass to the same athlete for 32 yards.

Now it seems the more Old Pop sees of formation C the more he thinks of formation A. Warner has plenty of formations and he has always said that if one doesn't work he'll put it away and try another. The alphabet gives him plenty of room in which to roam.

And he may need it before the tangle with U.S.C. Saturday.

SAGECHICKS PREPARE FOR CALTECH BABES

CLAREMONT, Oct. 20. — Drawing a bye in Southern California Conference play until November 11, when they meet Whittier, Coach "Fuzz" Merritt's Pomona College freshmen began training today for several practice games which are to be scheduled. The Sagechicks began the defense of their three-year title with an 18-12 victory over Caltech freshmen at Tournament Park, Pasadena, Saturday afternoon.

The Blue regulars found things easy against their light opponents, and they rolled up three touchdowns in short order, whereby Merritt injected his second-stringers, who played much of the contest. Co-Capt. Rodi, Carr and Gleeck tallied for Pomona.

MUIR TECH TRIUMPHS OVER WILSON BABES

Muir Tech's lightweight football eleven eked out a 6-0 victory over the Wilson High babes yesterday afternoon at Long Beach. Simmons scored for the Terriers in the last quarter, going around left end for 10 yards. A line buck failed to work for the extra point. The game was a practice affair. The line-ups:

TROJANS DRILL SECRETLY

Aspit and Brown Return to Posts in First Day of Final Practice for Card Game

Hall reappeared at left tackle, while Ernie Smith, on the strength of his fine showing last Saturday, occupied the other tackle spot with Tay Brown on the second string. Jones is undoubtedly firing Hall for the Stanford encounter as it was this chap, thanks to Dink Templeton, who helped wreak havoc with Warner's pet reverses a year ago. Dink referred to Hall as a fine piece of statuary, or somesuch thing, and Bob played the greatest game of his life. Jones is praying that Templeton's typewriter has not run out of choice adjectives for it is apparently going to take something akin to dynamite to get good-natured Hall back in his stride again.

Arbelbide and Wilcox were the ends on the first string, with Williamson at center and Johnny Baker and Rupert Black as guards. Black's work against Utah was of high-class ability and he is a cinch to play a lot of ball against Stanford.

The so-called second string had Duffield, Mallory, Stephens and Musick in the backfield, with Sparling and Clark ends, Brown and Plachn tackles, Gentry and Shaw guards and Hawkins at center.

Those who are expecting to see Mohler start against Stanford Saturday may be surprised. Jones has always stuck to the plan of giving seniors the priority right and in this case the Trojan coach undoubtedly feels that Duffield, after a nightmare at Pullman, will be particularly hot this week-end.

WAS WHOLE SHOW

A peek into the past reveals in a small measure Duffield's greatness against the Cardinals last year. He was Troy's greatest ground gainer with ninety-four yards in eighteen plays. He threw the pass to Tappan which scored the lone touchdown of the game on the third play of the second quarter. He returned punts with devastating effect, once getting away for a gallop of 70 yards and an apparent touchdown, only to have this great effort nullified by a penalty. He quick-kicked so smartly and effectively that Moffatt, playing safety for the Cards, was repeatedly forced to run far back to retrieve the pigskin. In justice to Moffatt, however, it may be stated that there is no adequate defense against the quick kick and other safety men, including Troy's, have looked bad on this play.

In short, Duffield was the mainspring of Troy's offense. Defensively there were other heroes, but the offensive thunderbolts always catch the eye.

Incidentally, those of us who tab Moffatt as Troy's greatest obstacle, have considerable on which to base these predictions. Last year Phil was Stanford's main ground gainer, knocking off sixty-one yards in thirteen plays. Smalling, twenty-one yards in eleven attempts, was the best of the big men and look how far behind Moffatt he was. Frentrup, with fifty-two yards in eleven tries, followed Moffatt, while Clark, with forty-eight yards in ten attempts, was a threat while in the game. Frentrup is gone this year, but Clark will be available.

TROY LEADS

Yardage on running plays favored the Trojans, 278 to 211, but neither team was able to score other than via the air. On their touchdown the Trojans got to Stanford's 24-yard line, and then Duffield, after being held on his first attempt, rifled a pass to Tappaan for the tally.

Southern California made forty-five yards on passes to forty-two for the Cards, but the Trojans got a touchdown out of this and Stanford didn't. This gave S.C. a total yardage of 323, as against 253 for Stanford.

The Redshirts tried twenty-one passes and completed but three. The Trojans also made good on only a trio, but tried a mere eleven.

When you get down to the present game all these figures may not mean anything but they furnish ammunition for argument and at the rate the fur has been flying some of our most rabid fans will need a little help before the game rolls around.

RECORD CROWD GOING NORTH TO GRID GAME

Los Angeles will move northward in force Friday night when the Trojan hosts depart in a fleet of special Southern Pacific trains headed for the big game at Palo Alto. Railway advance bookings indicate that a record crowd of Trojan rooters will be on hand for the kick-off.

Southern Pacific passenger officials are gathering Pullman equipment to accommodate an anticipated crowd of more than 4000 fans who will travel by rail. The number of special trains required to handle Trojan enthusiasts will probably exceed that of last year, it is said.

Requests for reservations on these trains are pouring in from all parts of Southern California and the movement probably will be one of the largest on record.

ANGEL INFIELD IN BAD SHAPE

the Indian sign on the Sheiks and always manage to play their best brand of ball against the Vittmen.

However, all is not serene in the Hollywood camp for Mickey Heath is limping around with a lame foot and will not be at his best in the series. Mickey got hit on the foot with a foul tip off his bat Saturday and wasn't able to play at all in Sunday's double-header. If Heath's bum hoof still bothers him tomorrow Vitt plans on using Harry Green at the initial sack.

The rest of the Sheiks, however, are in good shape and believe that they can win their first series of the year from Los Angeles with the championship at stake. So far this season the best the Stars have been able to do against the Angels was to tie one eight-game series. The Angels won the other series by comfortable margins and have won eighteen and lost but eleven games in their season's play against Hollywood.

Hollywood rooters are more than pleased to know that Jess Hill, the sensational young outfielder, is going to be in the Star line-up in all of the play-off tussles. Hill received permission from Riverside J. C. authorities, where he is coaching the football squad, to get the week off and try and bring the pennant to Hollywood once more. Hill's big bat and speed in the outfield should prove a boon to both the attack and defense of the Sheiks.

Reservations for the play-off, which opens tomorrow at Wrigley Field, are coming in rather heavily, which indicates that local baseball fans are perking up in their interest in the national pastime.

The umpires for the series selected by President Harry A. Williams will be Perle Casey, Jack Powell and Henry Fanning, three veteran arbiters whose work has been of high caliber all year.

Both the Angels and Stars will take light workouts at Wrigley Field this morning to top off their preparations for the coming battle.

The Weetamoe, built for the so-called Morgan-Nichols syndicate which was headed by J. P. Morgan and George Nichols, competed in the races at a cost estimated at several hundred thousand dollars. The price paid by Prince was not announced.

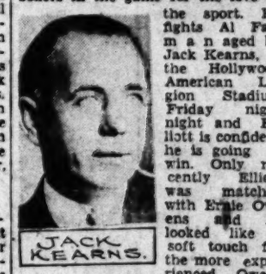
HEAVYWEIGHTS IN LEGION GO

Al Fay and Dutch Elliott Clash at Hollywood

Royal (Dutch) Elliott, Alhambra heavyweight, is one of the very few boxers in the game for the love of the sport. He fights Al Fay, man aged by Jack Kearns, at the Hollywood American Legion Stadium Friday night night and Elliott is confident he is going to win. Only recently Elliott was matched with Ernie Owens and he looked like a soft touch for the more experienced Owens but he walked off with the decision.



Owner of a paying walnut grove in Alhambra makes Royal Elliott independent of the money he gets from his boxing. He nets a fat income every year from his walnut crop. The big fellow likes the boxing game and since he took it up as an amateur has looked pretty good. George Blake would have handled Elliott but his tie-up with Fidel La Barba prohibited such a move at this time so Elliott is handled by the veteran Dutch Meyers.

A corking good semi-wind-up supports the Elliott-Fay fight. Jimmy Hannah and Tom Patrick, light-heavyweights, are the boys booked for this sport. Hannah should be a favorite. He is the more consistent of the two. Patrick should be a great fighter but he just seems to lack something that a great fighter needs.

CARDINALS IN AWFUL SLUMP

touchdown drives with straight running plays. If a team has to depend on its forward-passing and lateral-passing plays to bring it scores, or to put it in scoring position, then that team is far from being assured of winning games against strong opposition.

Southern California is the decided favorite to take the Saturday game against Stanford at Palo Alto, and no one knows that better than the Stanford players and coaching staff. The Stanford team has only a few days in which to snap out of the physical and mental slump they have fallen into and unless they pull themselves together by Saturday, the Trojans will run up one of the largest scores that has been seen in years in this annual classic.

Well, you wouldn't have foot trouble if you went bare-footed all the time — if we lived on leaves, dirt and grass—instead of on cement and hardwood.

Nature did not intend shoe heels. Shoe heels leave your arch in mid-air. (The thin leather sole is NO arch support.)

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The cub had heard what his mother had heard. He, too, caught the smell of man. It was unfamiliar to him, yet he knew at once it was that of an enemy. Ignoring Sabor's commands and baring his tiny fangs, the little fellow followed after the lioness. So intent was she upon her prey that Sabor did not know her precious son had disobeyed. Stealthily she moved through the underbrush. Wobbling awkwardly, the cub tried his best to catch up with her.

At the clearing's edge, Sabor did not hesitate an instant. Nor did she give the slightest warning. The first the lone black warrior knew there was a lion within twenty miles of him was the terrifying sight of this devil-faced cat charging upon him with the speed of an arrow. Escape was cut off. There was but one chance, for the beast was almost upon him. Behind her he saw the tiny cub. The man bore a heavy spear. He carried it far back with his right hand and hurled it at the very instant Sabor rose to seize him.

The spear passed through the savage heart. Almost at the same time Sabor's massive jaws closed upon the warrior's skull. The momentum of the lioness carried man and beast heavily to the ground. A few spasmodic twitchings of the muscles and both lay dead.

The little cub stopped twenty feet away and surveyed this great catastrophe of his life with questioning eyes. Presently he commenced to cry in a tone that before had always brought his mother to him. But this time she did not come. He could not understand it.

The cub continued to cry, feeling all the while more sad and more lonely. Gradually he crept closer to his mother. He saw that the strange creature she had killed did not move, and it dawned upon him at last that there was something wrong—that his great beautiful mother was not as she had been. A change had come over her. Still he clung to her, crying, until at last he fell asleep, cuddled close to her still body. It was thus that Tarzan found him.

HELLO, WALT. GETTING YOUR CAR ALL RIGHT?
I AM, CHRIS, BUT IN THE USUAL WAY— NOT ON THAT ORDER YOU GOT ME. I FIND YOUR PRICE DIDN'T INCLUDE FREIGHT FROM THE FACTORY OR SPARE TIRES OR THE SPECIAL COLOR I WANTED.
WELL YOU STILL OUGHT TO SAVE SOMETHING. I WAS GETTING YOU TEN PER CENT. OFF.
AS NEAR AS I CAN FIGURE IT I WOULD COST ME $180 MORE. BESIDES THE GOLFBALLS I WAS TO GIVE YOUR OBLIGING COUSIN.
THAT'S TOO BAD, WALT. I WANTED TO SAVE YOU SOME DOUGH. BY THE WAY— WOULD YOU OKAN A LITTLE $53 CHECK FOR ME? MY BANK IS WAY OUT NORTH.
SORRY, CHRIS, BUT YOU'RE THE THIRTEENTH FELLOW THAT'S ASKED ME AND IT SOUNDS UNLUCKY.

YOU KNOW WHAT I'D DO? I'D GET SOME BLOOD HOUNDS AND PUT THEM ON THE SCENT OF THAT BIRD WITH THE RIGHT FOOT AND I'LL BET EVERY PENNY - I HAVE THAT THE TRAIL WOULD LEAD RIGHT UP TO HER BACK DOOR — IF THE CHIEF WOULD TURN THE CASE OVER TO ME - BUT NO HE KNOWS IT ALL —

PASTORS VOTE TO BACK YOUNG

Methodist Preachers Pass Resolution on Candidates

Democrat, Frank Merriam Indorsed as Drys

Strong Opposition to Move Voiced by Minority

In the face of considerable opposition to the action, a majority of those present at the Methodist preachers' meeting yesterday passed a resolution pledging themselves to campaign for the election of Milton K. Young as Governor and Frank Merriam as Lieutenant-Governor.

A hot debate preceded adoption of the resolution, which was recommended by Rev. F. D. Mather and Rev. Clyde M. Crist, members of the committee on resolutions and morals.

THE RESOLUTION

The resolution reads, in part, as follows:

"Resolved that we approve the utterance of the general conference of our church" to the effect that "we are not deceived by cunningly devised plans of the enemies of sobriety and prohibition to discount the work already accomplished," and "that we will not willingly tolerate in positions of responsibility those who do not sustain the law and the principle of righteousness which the law represents.

"Resolved, second, that as Christian citizens we should vote as Christians; therefore, we indorse for the Governorship the dry candidate, Milton K. Young, and for the Lieutenant-Governorship the dry candidate, Frank F. Merriam, for whose election to said offices we will work and pray and vote."

VOTE CALLED UNWISE

Upon the statement by Mr. Mather to the effect that he could not see "how any man calling himself a Christian" could oppose the proposed resolution, several ministers interrupted the speaker, stating that they consider themselves Christians but suggesting that it would be unwise for a body of ministers to pass the resolution.

"If we support a man who supports Al Smith we may do the cause of national prohibition great harm and seriously interfere with President Hoover's law-enforcement program," warned Dr. W. C. Wright.

"It would be a mistake for this body to pledge its support to such a man as Milton K. Young," declared Dr. F. M. Larkin, secretary of the State Church Federation. "Several years ago Young was an ardent supporter of Theodore Bell, one of the wettest candidates who ever ran for Governor of California, or any other high office in this State. Young is a Democrat, working for Republican votes, and he will play the game with Democrats who are all wet."

RESOLUTION CARRIED

A move to lay the resolution on the table was voted down and the proposition to support Young and Merriam was carried by a majority.

Declaring that Protestantism will stand or fall according to the strength of the preaching power of its ministers, Rev. Golder Lawrence of San Bernardino Methodist Episcopal Church made a plea for stronger gospel sermons and the elimination of sensational discussions of politics and social scandals and said that the sermon should be the central feature of every religious service.

While agreeing with Mr. Lawrence as to the value of good preaching, Revs. J. R. Clark, F. M. Larkin, David Morgan and H. B. Sellers deplored the modern tendency to "sermon worship" and stressed the need for more devout Christian living on the part of the preachers.

"We spend so much time and money on building great churches and preparing flowery sermons that often we neglect to develop great souls and forget the principles taught and lived by the Founder of our religion," said Dr. Clark.

FRESHMEN EDUCATION EXTENDED

U.C.L.A. Upperclassmen Conduct Orientation Work With High School Seniors

Education of freshmen in the field of student activities at the University of California at Los Angeles branched into a new field yesterday with the announcement that active work of orientation will be begun with high school seniors who will enroll at the university in February. In carrying out this work, U.C.L.A. upper classmen will be sent to address groups of high school seniors throughout the city.

The system of orientation, which aims to help new students become adjusted to university life, was substituted for the antiquated system of hazing four years ago. This is the first time work has been carried on outside the campus. The work is in charge of Jean Hill.

Stork's Program Can't Interfere for Law's Delay

Despite the hovering of the stork over the home of Jocelyn Lee, film actress, reported by Dr. Raymond W. Huntsberger in Superior Judge McComb's court yesterday, the pending divorce trial of Luther A. Reed and Miss Lee will not be postponed, the court held.

Judge McComb denied the motion for delay and placed the case on the active reserve list which, he said, would be a long enough postponement for medical purposes.

Illness Contracted in World War Takes Life of Noted Geologist

William Whipple Copp, petroleum engineer and geologist, of 1035 North Kings Road, died last night at the United States Veterans' Hospital in San Fernando from pulmonary tuberculosis first contracted while he was serving as a first lieutenant of engineers during the World War. He was 48 years of age.

Born in Millerton, N. Y., he was brought to this city by his parents in 1884 when he was 2 years of age. He was educated at Stanford University, where he won honors as an athlete. He engaged in mining engineering in Arizona and Nevada until 1920 when he entered the State Mining Bureau as Deputy Supervisor of Oil.

He left the State service in 1924 to engage in petroleum engineering. His main achievement in this profession was the location and opening of the Alamitos Bay field for the Marland Oil Company. Later he was associated with the group which opened the Kettleman Hills field.

He was a Thirty-second Degree Mason, a Shriner, and a member of the Los Angeles Athletic and Hollywood Country clubs.

He leaves his widow, the former Marguerite Bowen of this city; two children, Llewellyn B., and William Copp; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Copp, and two brothers, Col. Andrew J. Copp, Jr., well-known local attorney, and Dr. Joseph P. Copp, of this city. Funeral arrangements will be announced today.

HEARING IN WINE CASE POSTPONED

Vineyards Charges Coming Up Monday After Arrival of More Defendants

In order that other defendants may be brought into court at the same time as local defendants, consideration of the case of the government against the California Vineyards Company and nine individuals was continued yesterday by United States District Judge James until Monday.

Four defendants resident in Los Angeles were to have entered pleas to the general charge of conspiracy to violate the National Prohibition Act. They are A. G. Frericks, local warehouse manager; C. S. Payne and J. W. Loweberg, salesmen, and Thomas Stone, sales manager. Five officials of the company, now in Chicago, are expected to be here Monday.

It is charged that the company and individuals carried on a nation-wide campaign to sell concentrated grape syrup, frozen grape juice and yeast and "process" in order to make wine for customers.

Gorilla Bites Tip Off Finger of His Trainer

Monkey business yesterday was the source of double trouble for William De Voto, 36 years of age, of 2461 Eastern avenue.

In the rear of his home De Voto keeps five gorillas which he hires out to film studios for "atmosphere" in jungle scenes. Six weeks ago he went away on a vacation, leaving his 6-year-old son Billy to care for the primates. He returned yesterday to resume charge and went at once to the inclosure to renew acquaintance with the beasts.

All but one of the gorillas seemed glad that De Voto had returned. Bozo, 10-year-old male, weighnig 180 pounds, retired to a corner and sulked. De Voto went over to pet him. The sullen gorilla bit off the end of his left index finger.

Naturally, De Voto was in a hurry to get to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. So great was his haste, in fact, that he ignored a stop signal at Third and Hill streets, according to Traffic Officer Griffith, and accordingly was handed a ticket.

De Voto told police surgeons Bozo had probably resented his six weeks' absence.

Chiefs Advise Votes Against Pension Plan

Premising that the use of State money for contributions to pension systems of municipally employed firemen "can only mean increased taxation," Fire Chief Brennan of San Francisco has joined Chief Scott of Los Angeles in voicing opposition to Constitutional Amendment No. 2 on the November ballot.

"This amendment is imperfect in its construction, contradictory in its phraseology and ambiguous," said Chief Brennan. "If adopted the fire departments of the State will be compelled to continuously engage in politics; one department being in conflict with another over a division of the 'spoils,' if any. The firemen of California have the additional protection of the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Act—a fact which the advocates of this faulty scheme or plan have apparently neglected to mention in their campaign for votes."

ASSESSMENTS CONFIRMED

The City Council yesterday confirmed the assessments for the improvement of the Bellevue avenue and Laveta Terrace District. The hearing of protests against the improvement of Flower street from Eighth street to Washington street was continued until November 3 and the hearing of protests against the Moorpark street and Tyrone avenue Improvement District was continued until November 12.

PEACE REIGNS IN G.O.P. RANKS

Southland Republicans to Back Rolph Solidly

Pledge Also Made at Rally to Support Hoover

Re-election of President in 1932 Predicted

Southern California Republicans are united in support of their State ticket, headed by Mayor James Rolph, Jr., for Governor, and Senator Frank F. Merriam for Lieutenant-Governor and in 1932 will present a solid front for the renomination and re-election of President Hoover.

This was the keynote sounded yesterday at a luncheon meeting of Southern California members of the Republican State Committee with other leaders in the campaign for the G.O.P. ticket, held at the Alexandria.

FACTIONS REUNITED

Campaign managers for the three major Republican primary gubernatorial candidates, George B. Bush, who directed the forces of Buron Fitts; Marshall Stimson, who was chairman of Gov. Young's Southern California campaign committee, and Al G. Faulkner, head of the successful drive for Mayor Rolph, each told the State committeemen that harmony reigns in the party ranks, with the preprimary factions now united under the Rolph-Merriam banner.

Louis B. Mayer, first vice-chairman of the Republican State Committee, presided at the luncheon, and M. B. Silberberg, director of the committee's Southern California campaign, was chairman of a meeting of the executive committee of the State committee held in the Republican headquarters at the Alexandria following the luncheon.

"California is leading the other States of the nation out of the period of depression which has existed," Mr. Mayer said, "and under the leadership of Herbert Hoover the United States will be the first of the nations to recover from the world-wide depression."

WOMEN LINED UP

Among other speakers were Mrs. O. P. Clark, Republican national committeewoman, who announced that the women's division of the Republican campaign will give a dinner for Mayor Rolph and Senator Merriam at the Alexandria the 30th inst. Mrs. Jean Strickler, third vice-chairman of the State committee, also spoke.

Representing Orange county, Phil Stanton, Joe Burke, Justus Craemer and William Schumacher predicted that their district will roll up a big majority for the Republican ticket on November 4.

Similar predictions were made by Harry Harris, Santa Barbara county; J. A. Guthrie, San Bernardino county; Will Marsh and Frank Tetley, Riverside county, and Edward L. Head, San Diego county.

Mayor Rolph and Senator Merriam were the speakers at a Republican rally in Dreamland rink at San Francisco last night.

Death Takes X-Ray Expert as He Sleeps

Dr. William B. Bowman, widely known X-ray specialist, died unexpectedly yesterday in his apartment at 316 North Rossmore avenue. Death came to him as he slept.

Dr. Bowman was born at Martin's Ferry, O., forty-five years ago. Following his coming to Los Angeles he immediately achieved note in the field of X-ray research. He maintained offices in the Roosevelt Building. He leaves his father, William Bowman of Washington, D. C., and one brother, Charles C. Bowman, local manufacturer.

Funeral arrangements are in charge of Garret Brothers, 921 Venice Boulevard.

Tests Due Today for Police Chief

Oral tests of the six applicants for the job of Chief of Police who made a passing grade in the written examination conducted recently by the Los Angeles civil service department are scheduled to be held today by the Los Angeles Civil Service Commission.

The six who will take the test include Chief of Police Steckel, who holds the emergency appointment; Captains Lawrence Amon, E. R. Caton and W. H. Behrendt, Inspector David A. Davidson and Detective Lieutenant A. R. Kallmeyer.

SOCIALIST CANDIDATE PLEADS NOT GUILTY

William W. Busick, Socialist candidate for the Assembly and local secretary of the Socialist party, appeared before Municipal Judge Curtis yesterday and entered a plea of not guilty to a technical charge of blocking the sidewalk. The charge was filed against him by Deputy City Prosecutor McDonald following his arrest by Officer McGinty, while addressing a street meeting. He refused to discontinue his speech, according to McDonald, when ordered to do so. Busick is at liberty on $25 cash bail posted after his arrest by Upton Sinclair, Socialist candidate for Governor.

Teller Admits Peculations

Admitting abstraction of bank funds while acting as teller of the Highland-avenue and Hollywood-Boulevard branch of the Security-First National Trust and Savings Bank, Verron D. Hansen appeared before United States District Judge Kerrigan yesterday. The government charged that the young man abstracted $1330 of the bank's funds. The case was continued for two weeks for passing of sentence.
